A special aviation committee will report to the house of representatives that the national aviation situation is alarming. It will say that this nation does not realize the importance of air power, that we need to spend money and get action.

The nation will be grateful for that report, even if it should be overruled finally by decisions of the "big butter and egg men" that are chosen to run aviation for the United States.

To know that you are in danger is at least the beginning of wisdom.

Mussolini's name was hissed by a crowd in New York that doubtless meant well. But New York is a long way from Italy, and the New York crowd was a long way from understanding Mussolini's and Italy's problems.

When the war ended Italy had her choice of imitating Russia or submitting to Mussolini's strong hand. Under his direction Italy has kept her men at work, her women and children fed. Italy has retained the respect of other European nations and has known how to enforce her rights. And under Mussolini the Italian lire is worth more than the French franc.

As the French franc continues to fall, many in France demand the establishment of a dictatorship on the Mussolini plan.

The French have a proverb: "Great evils require [illegible]." Many remedies might be more dangerous than Mussolini.

BODIES FOUND WHEN BARKING DOG AWAKENS MURDERESS' KIN

Philadelphia Woman Kills Boy, 14, in Their Apartment.

FAREWELL NOTE

Double Tragedy Occurs While Aged Mother is Asleep.

"Better Off," Says Note.

Their bodies—scantily clad—were found when the continued barking of a pet dog aroused Mrs. Nepham's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, 65, who was asleep in the front room.

Pinned to the boy's pajamas was the following note addressed to Mrs. Palmer in her daughter's handwriting:

"I am sorry but please try and think we are better off. I had the best reasons in the world and the only thing I regret is leaving you alone.

"Aunt Ida will come to you. Go to her. I love you, dear. Please try to think we are both much better off. Lovingly, Blanche."

Spread of Smallpox Believed Checked; Seven Quarantined

With seven cases under quarantine at the present time, city health officials today were confident that they had checked the spread of smallpox.

Three new cases developed over the week-end among children who attend the Sixth street school. Children, who had not been vaccinated, were dismissed from school and instructed not to return until the vaccination had been completed. The supply of antitoxin has been depleted, but a new supply is expected today or tomorrow.

Since the outbreak two weeks ago, nine cases have been discovered.

A new case of scarlet fever was reported yesterday, the victim being Martha S. Sloan, 10, of 514 Monroe street. There is but one other case of scarlet fever under quarantine. Two cases of measles, both reported in mild form, have been reported.

Coast Guards on Lakes.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Confidential reports indicating a big mobilization of rum smugglers along the Canadian border, led to issuance of an order today that all coast guard stations on the Great Lakes remain open throughout the winter.

In the past these stations have been closed from December 15 to April 1.

About 250 men will be maintained on the Great Lakes patrol.

Steps to strengthen the land patrol maintained by the customs service will also be taken by the treasury.

JOSIAH KIRBY CASE GOES TO FEDERAL JURY IN CLEVELAND

FRAUD ALLEGED

"Read Kirby's Mind," Killits Suggests to Jurors.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16.—The case of the government against Josiah Kirby, former head of the Cleveland Discount company, went to the jury at 12:15 p. m. today.

Luther Day, chief counsel for Kirby, made approximately 50 exceptions to Judge Killits' charge to the jury, and said that part of the charge was in fact an argument for the government.

Two Forms of Verdict.

Judge Killits, when he sent the jury to their room to reach a verdict, gave them two forms of verdict—one of guilty and one of not guilty. He told the jury to decide on each of the 15 counts and to mark each count guilty or not guilty even if the final verdict is guilty.

The jury took with them a copy of the indictment and a push-truck load of the Cleveland Discount company's books.

Defense counsel said that if a verdict of guilty is returned, they would take the case to court of appeals at Cincinnati for a review of the records taken in the government's case and that court will decide whether defense counsel's many exceptions to Judge Killits' charge were well founded.

A distinct blow to the defense was scored in Judge Killits' charge when he explained that the Cleveland Discount Co.'s books did not reflect the concern's true financial condition and that Kirby, while he was not the company but its head, was responsible for all the company's proceedings of business.

In his charge, Judge Killits warned the jurors to "read Kirby's mind" and determine the purpose behind the publication of the alleged false financial statements which he is charged with sending through the United States mails with intentions of promoting a fraudulent scheme.

Judge Killits cited the Cleveland Discount company's three final building projects as significant to the present case. He said the company was apparently in no financial condition to undertake these projects. They were the north and south Shaker and Moreland Height, Cleveland, propects.

"A store keeper or business man, in our judgment, would not list his stock on hand in his books at its retail value. He would list it at cost value," declared the judge. "Kirby's company used anticipatory profit to bolster the financial statements, according to testimony given in the trial."

15 are Rescued, 20 Others Flee in New York City Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Fifteen persons were carried down ladders from the top floor of a blazing five-story tenement in St. Nicholas avenue early today, after 120 others had escaped to the snow-covered streets in nightclothes.

The young actress succeeded in laying one of the bandits low and then gave chase to the other who fled after seeing the punishment administered to his comrade.

SENATOR RAPS USE OF LIQUOR IN EMBASSIES

DRY LAW DEBATE

Blease Leads Fight; Willis Predicts "Wet" Defeat.

BY WILIAM K. HUCTHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The congressional flare-up over prohibition turned its spotlight upon diplomatic liquors today when Senator Cole Blease, D., of South Carolina, announced a campaign to enforce the dry law against all foreign embassies, legations and consulates.

In an attack upon the immunity of diplomats to the dry law, Blease announced the regulations of the state department and internal revenue bureau which allow ambassadors, ministers and consuls of foreign nations to import choice liquors, rare wines and strong beer. He declared he would force a vote in congress upon an amendment to the Volstead Act, which would make diplomatic circles just as amenable to American prohibition as are American citizens.

Wets Prepare for Assault.

Echoes of the prohibition debate, which shook the senate on the heels of a demand by Senator Edge, R., of New Jersey, for enactment of a 2.75 per cent beer bill, were heard throughout the capitol today. The wet bloc in the house announced it would direct an assault upon the Volstead Aact and its defects as soon as debate is fixed upon the tax bill. Representative James A. Gallivan, D., of Massachusetts, and Representative John Philip Hill, R., of Maryland, will lead the

GARY WILLS, ROTARY SPEAKER, URGES 'SQUARE DEAL' FOR STREET RAILWAYS AND ELIMINATION OF 'BURDENSOME FRANCHISE REGULATIONS'

A plea for "a square deal" for street railway and the elimination of "burdensome franchise regulations" was made by Gary Mills, superintendent of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company in an address on "Public Utilities," with refernce to the street car business at yesterday's Rotary club luncheon.

Pointing out that during the period between 1917 and 1923, street railways hauled an increase of 30 percent more passengers than the previous six years, Wills said that the "outlook for your railways the country over was never more encouraging than now."

"The last time it was my privilege and pleasure to talk to Rotarians on this subject was at Moundsville, W. Va." he said. "While in the assembly room and before going in to luncheon, I heard some one remark: "Well, I suppose we are in for a poor-mouth story concerning the darned poverty stricken railways." It is a peculiar fact that your railways have come to be looked upon as a material thing, as a so-called soul-less corporate being, instead of what we really are—a human endeavor, an industry ranking among the foremost of the nation and operated by men and women no different from those devoting their lives to any other industry; men and women who can look God in the face without fear and any man in the eye without servility.

"We don't ask for or need sympathy, but we merit your consideration and it is my purpose to prove to you that it will be to your advantage to give it.

Railway Like Arteries of Body.

"Your railways may be likened unto the arteries of the human body. As the human body, for its vigor and health, depends upon the free circulation of lifes-blood through its veins and arteries, so does the vigor and commercial health of any community depend upon its transportation arteries. Let the veins of the human body harden or be injured and the flow of blood is restricted, we slow up, we stagnate and finally we die. The same thing is true identically in the matter of any communities transportation arteries. Hammer them, injure them, restrict them and the commercial activities of your communities stagnate and atrofy.

"It is apparently a common human trait for every man to feel that his business or the particular business game in life that he is playing is different from any other line or branch of endeavor. Well, the railway game is actually different.

"Do you remember the time as boys when we used to go down to the old swimming hole, and after a good swim, we'd stretch out on our backs to enjoy that soothing relaxation of youths resiliant muscles. Yes, and nine times out of ten, our physical well being would start ambitious minds building air castles; air castles of the fortunes we would make and the many other things we would do when we grew up to turn the world upside down.

"Well, let's just imagine ourselves there right now, and that Aladdin came along and provided the money, the wherewith-all to make our start.

Thinking in Terms of Turn-over.

"Knowing as much as we now do, most of us no doubt would think of going into business and mind you not necessarily the kind of business we are now in. We would begin to think in terms of annual turn-over and probably analyze on that basis the different kinds of business that we might undertake. We would find that in some business ventures, a very large proportion of our capital would be sunk in furnishings, equipment, machinery, buildings and plant and that a relatively small proportion only would be needed for investment in our stock in trade. On the other hand, other business ventures would require a small comparative investment in plant and a very large investment in stock in trade.

"Going from one extreme to another, we would find that the baker, for instance, would turn his merchandising or stock in trade capital, over several hundred times a year. Furthermore, his plant investment compared with his total annual business, his yearly gross sales, would be relatively small. The baker distributes, if he be a good baker, fresh bread daily. His merchandise turn-over in bread is in excess of 300 times a year—to be exact 365¼ times a year. If a profit of only one-fifth on one per cent were made at each baking, or in other words, on each merchandising turn-over, his annual profit would be a trifle over 73 per cent.

Investment in Business

"In the grocery business his turnover of merchandising capital would be from three to four times a year, unless his ambition led him into the chain store 'cash and carry' business, and then his turn-over would be from 10 to 12 times a year. In the department store, his turn-over would be from three to four times a year.

"On the other hand, in the railway business, he would find that it requires an investment in physical plant before he is ready to do business of between

HIGH SCHOOLS IN STATE INCREASE

This year there are 233 classified high schools in West Virginia, as compared to 218 for the school year of 1924-25, according to a compilation just completed by L. O. Taylor, supervisor of high schools, state department of education.

For the most part the 15 new schools have been established in rural communities where high schools had not been previously accessible to the great majority of boys and girls. "A scanning of the list of classified schools," says Mr. Taylor, "shows a marked tendency to extend the secondary schools into sections that have hitherto shown little interest in secondary education.

The newly established high schools are at:

Sharples, Logan, county; Baileysville, Wyoming county; Coalwood and War, McDowell county; London, (Negro) Kanawha county; Oakvale and Lerona, Mercer county; Aracoma, (Negro) Logan county; Buckhannon, Upshur county; Pax, Fayette county, Pruntytown, Taylor county; Seth, Boone county; Tanner and Troy, Gilmer county; Winfield, Putnam county.

GAS COMPANIES PAY HEAVY TAXES

Sixty-three oil and gas companies, the assessed valuation of which, by reason of their pipe line connections and the nature of their business, is made by the board of public works this year will pay to the state in direct taxes $2,343,417.48. For the maintenance of the public service commission, the same company will pay $17,009.91.

At the head of the list is the Hope Natural Gas company, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, which will pay $670 912.73. In second place is the United Fuel Gas company, whose 1925 tax bill is $429,445.81. These two companies, it will be noted, will pay almost as much as the other 61 companies. The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas company will pay $186,779.45, whil the bill of Manufacturers' Light and Heat company will be within $1,000 of that amount.

The figures were compiled by John M. Miller, chief of the taxation department of the state auditor's office.

Belief in witchcraft is not dead. In England only a few months ago a man was sentenced t oa month's imprisonment for assaulting a woman by thrusting a long pin into her arm. The accused admitted the offense, but declared that the woman had bewitched his pig. To draw blood from a witch, he said, was the only way to outwit her.

MARRIAGE LAW UNDER FIRE IN SOVIET TOWNS

STATUTE STANDS

Automatic Divorce Regulation is Object of Attack.

MOSCOW.—Multiple matrimony versus monogamy is the most burning question today in Russia since the executive committee of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet republic at its second session just closed here referred to the people for consideration the new marriage and divorce laws which were to have been embodied in the civil code.

Debates on the subject are now going on in workshop committees, trade unions, schools, village soviets, and in all of the innumerable organizations for public discussion which are a characteristic feature of Soviet Russian life.

After public opinion has had a chance to express itself, the Executive committee at its next session will again take up the law, and probably will pass it substantially as it is now, since the government has declared that objectionable though some of the results of the law may be, it is the only feasible way of reducing the "new morality" to legal form.

Opposition a Surprise.

The whirl-wind of opposition which developed when the law came up for discussion on the floor of the committee was a complete surprise to the government which had expected immediate ratification of the bill.

Most of the objections came from the very kernel of the Soviet organization, from the workers and peasants. The so-called "intelligentsia," had little to say, but the working men and women, and especially the peasants, registered protests which indicated the "new morality" has not yet taken as much hold upon the broad mass of the Russian people as some of the Soviet authorities had believed.

The chief targets of popular attack were the divorce regulations providing for automatic divorce upon application even if contested by the other partner and that clause in the law which provides that unregistered marriages shall be legally the same as registered marriages, in other words, that marriage defacto is also marriage de jure. The divorce clause is virtually the same as the one now in force. The other clause, however, is new. It is a bolshevik adaptation of the old English "common law marriage" with the important distinction that, instead of requiring a period of one or two years to establish marriage, it requires but one or two days.

The government, in the person of Commissar of Justice Kursky, maintains that the clause in question is really an obstacle to "many marriages." Defending his bill on the floor of the committee, Comrade Kursky said, "Previously there were no responsibilities for marriage de facto. Now we make a man who enters a defacto marriage just as responsible as though he registered his marriage. De tell him 'You will have to answer for this.' Thus we increase the inconvenience of a marriage de facto, and every man who enters one now will have to thing of it more seriously.'

But the critics from the factories and fields attacked Comrade Kurskey's theoretical defense with concrete examples of how the already existing laws have increased the number of divorces and made "serial polygamy" frequent.

Mrs. Pasinkova, a woman worker in the Committee, registered a practical objection, declaring "men and women have become too free already. I believe it is necessary to limit some of this freedom between the sexes. Some men nowadays have twenty wives, living with each one or two weeks and have by each a child. If you make him responsible for the support of all of these children, you have to take his skin off. Even then he can't do it, and you have children thrown out on the streets, homeless."

Agreeing with this point, other representatives blamed the lax marriage laws for the tremendous number of homeless children in Russia, of whom 300,000 swarm the streets, and are the chief recruits for the criminal classes. Even one member of the government, Comrade Beloborodova, Commissar of Internal Affairs of the R. S. F. S. R., said, "Not a small share of the responsibility for the homeless children may be ascribed to the fact that the family falls apart too quickly."

Nearly 520,000 motorcycles are in use in Great Britain, which has more of the "put-put" machines than nay other country.

Most "Egyptian" cigarettes are really Turkish, as very little tobacco is grown in Egypt.

"Bringing Up Father" Comes to Ceramic Saturday.

Unusual interest is being manifested in the next Saturday's attraction at the Ceramic theatre. The occasion will mark the first appearance of the latest of the "Bringing Up Father" series, entitled, "Bringing Up Father in Gay New York." This is the same offering that was enthusiastically received at the Lyric theatre, New York, a leading Broadway playhouse. All the beloved characters created by George McManus will be seen, including, of course the immortal Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and the rest of the mischievous "bunch" who have helped in making these world-famous comics an indisputed joy. The new play, with its unprecedented array of novelties, surprises, screams and other inimitable ingredients found exclusively in "Father" shows will be interpreted by an exceptional cast. The piece, which is the joint work of Nat LeRoy and Seymour Furth, is in two acts and six scenes. Twenty pretty chorus ladies, all becomingly and resplendently gowned, are one of the outstanding features.

More Rubber

Beginning on February 1 the present export limit on British rubber in Malaya and Ceylon will be lifted for three months. The limit stands now at 85 per cent of production, which in itself represents a considerable loosening up from the drastic restriction in force some months ago. There was a 10 per cent drop November 1. The additional 15 per cent allowed should do much to relieve the American rubber situation and check the upward trend of prices for automobile tires and other rubber products, if it does not bring a reduction.

The British government, which controls the situation, explains that it takes this action to moderate the soaring prices, which have gone higher than is necessary for the producers of crude rubber to make a fair profit.

Possibly it has been influenced still more by protests of the United States government, and by preparations made by American rubber manufacturers to grow their own rubber in Liberia, the Philippines and tropical and semi-tropical regions nearer home.

The natural effect of British monopolistic methods, if long continued, would be to inspire American rubber production on a scale vast enough to ruin the British rubber plantations. This is the natural working of economic law. Nature, which "abhors a vacuum," also abhors a monopoly.

British Debt And Pride

George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain, declares that British business is in a very bad way—so bad that he doesn't believe the British can meet the debt payments to which they have obligated themselves. He therefore suggests that the British settlement be revised and the debt reduced, as it has been in the case of other debtors, notably Italy.

Now, the British would like very much to have their debt reduced. They have always thought that, everything considered, it was unfair to hold them for all the principal and most of the accrued interest on their war borrowings. But will they ask for a debt reduction? Not while the Bank of England stands. Their pride rises up and chokes their utterance at the very suggestion, especially from their chief editor, that they are not able to pay. Industry and trade over there may be in a bad way, but they'll show whether they can pay or not!

It is an admirable mood for a debtor, as viewed from the creditor's standpoint. Yet the suggestion is one that the United States government may find it desirable to consider sooner or later. As matters stand, the situation is a bit embarrassing for the American debt-refunding commission, and for its congressional master.

The commission, doubtless moved thereto by congress, declared on making the British settlement that it would treat all debtors alike. It has abandoned that policy as far as specific terms go, leaving Britain at a disadvantage. Its new policy is to settle for whatever it considers the debtors able to pay. Now treating debtors alike would mean, logically, the extension of this policy to Great Britain.

The Prince's Jobs

A few hard-to-please Britons are always urging that the Prince of Wales "settle down to something serious and prepare himself for the duties of state."

It seems a foolish demand in the eyes of the Toronto Globe. That newspaper rises to the royal traveler's defense with a statement of the important and worthy and serious duties he has already performed.

First, it says, in regard to his globe-trotting, he is probably the best ambassador to foreign lands that the British Empire has had in many a year. He is the cheeriest bond of sympathy imaginable among the sister nations of the British Empire. He more than "earns his keep" as an advertising man. And in addition to those things, declares his Canadian admirer, he is a corking good farmer and business man. His ranch in Alberta is not merely a whim or a beautiful gesture to the Canadian people. It is a paying proposition where very fine stock is raised and the most up-to-date ranch methods are used.

If he ever becomes king it should feel like a vacation to this active young diplomat, salesman, publicity man, business man and rancher.

Thousands of Laws

The number of new laws enacted by state legislatures in 1925 reaches the sad and ludicrous total of 13,080. The legislature of North Carolina is responsible for 1,173 of these. A few other states ran up close to 1,000 apiece. And now the national congress is assembled to do its bit.

It seems obvious that 13,080 new laws are too many for one year. It is doubtful whether all of these laws will become effective or whether more than a few of them will at all increase the efficiency of the states or the health and happiness of the citizens concerned.

The crime wave cannot, of course, be attributed wholly or even largely to a single cause. But it is likely that the multiplicity of laws coming almost all the time from the legal hoppers of city councils, state legislatures and the federal congress most confuse rather than simplify the duties and rights of honest citizens and present greater opportunities for mischief to deliberate lawbreakers.

"Stinky" Davis— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—There are a dozen collegiates who have stepped from the campus into $25,000 a year jobs in Gotham. They are very much "on their own" and won their place without parental pull. Knowledge they acquired at college is paying golden dividends.

I've chucked my last chuckle at a raccoon coat and saxophone. For these seem to be their sole equipments for a joust with wife. The lads are saxophonists with sundry high-priced jazz bands that appear at several different places during the day.

They mave from cafe, teas and dinners to movies and supper clubs, and at least a dozen are said to be making the $25,000 fee. Two in Ben Bernie's band hover around that mark and three in the orchestra of Senor Lopez, a grandee from the ancient Spanish city of Brooklyn, do the same.

All are collegiates who have achieved eminence of Jap valets, Park avenue apartments and low slung roadsters just a few months after graduation. When Roger Wolfe Kahn, scion of New York's richest banker and most prolific banquet orator, captains a jazz band it seems time indeed to take jazz symphonies seriously.

Only recently when young Kahn was the center of a public demonstration, Kahn, pere, embraced him and in a burst of pardonable enthusiasm, cried: "I can underwrite him for all I've got."

Hale Byers, a few years removed from an Illinois college campus, is garnering $600 a week as a saxophone orchestra leader at the nightly exercises conducted by Barney Galant in his village stadium. Paul Whiteman has two saxophonists making $25,000 a year.

Next in the high-salaried range of jazz are banjoists—a facile accomplishment usually mastered at institutions of learning. Quite a number of them are making $20,000 a year and, of course, Whiteman, Bernie, Lopez, et al, are making a larger salary than our president as conductors.

Members of the band in our town received 50 cents each for the weekly Wednesday evening concerts in the public square, and they had to rehearse on Monday and Saturday evenings over the Leopold Frank saloon—quite a hardship, for there was always so much doing on the floor below—including free pretzels.

At one of those phoney teas where everybody gets "ginny," a woman stuck her head out a window and yelled for the police. A couple of them came. It was explained to them the crowd had merely run out of boy friends and thought this was the quickest way to gather substitutes. The officers, it is related, remained for a cup of tea.

Dancing teachers say the Charleston saved many hoofing academies from bankruptcy. Instructors saw a lean winter ahead. The tango had mastered the fox trot and other simple dances. It took a new and intricate dance to turn the tide and the Charleston, swept in from the levee, did it. It is stated it will never become popular because of its intricacy. Yet everybody has seemed to take a whirl at the dance, from girls in the factory lofts to the Park avenue debutante. It has not found favor in public dance halls, but brave exponents often try it in fashionable supper clubs. The real Charleston, however, is seen in the cabarets of the Black Belt in Harlem. Here sepia exponents make it a poetry of motion for the slummers from downtown. It is said only the darkey is able to master the dance as it should be done.

That the Charleston is not going to die without a struggle is evidenced by the fact that two instructors have sailed to Paris upon insistent demands of those eager to learn it over there.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

America's Powder Magazine.—1.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Lying like a huge suspension bridge, one end of which is fastened to North America and the other to old Asia, the Alaska Peninsula and the Aleutian Islands describe a tremendous geographic arc across the North Pacific. Atop it lies the Bering Sea, which appears to be so heavy as to weight down the bridge so that the arc it describes is almost perfect.

It is an out of the way place. The beaten sea paths of mariners are far to the south and the ships that pass are those phantoms of northern waters that ply in search of fur, whale blubber, and other products that the Arctic affords. To the east and southeast the ships from the United States skirt the coast to Alaska, but they rarely deviate to include the peninsula or the Aleutians in their itinerary.

Above lies the Bering Sea and the Bering Strait and beyond that the sombre ocean with its legend of a hidden continent. To the south there is a vast expanse of ocean that lies unbroken to Clark's Islands and Hawaii. To the west is barren Kamchatka and to the east is uncanny Alaska.

It was across this bridge or the strait that is above it that tradition has the aborigines of America making their way. If Asia is the cradle of mankind, then it was here and here only that it was possible for humanity to reach the Western Hemisphere. And if that be true, the bridge served as a vast sheif over which poured the strem of population into ancient America.

It is a mystic land today. It is known, but most of it is unmapped, and its idiosyncrasies are manifold. At the American end is the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, that weird land of fire and steam, where the earth belches flame, smoke, hot gas, and clouds of vapor, and where treacherous quicksand lies in wait to trap the unwary. And here is where there is a river, with its bed higher than its banks, and where a desolate and ruined landscape mocks the visitor.

Following the peninsula, one encounters massive glaciers, hidden lakes, volcanoes that lie dormant, or supposedly extinct, as Katmai had lain until it exploded with a fury that was heard seven hundred and fifty miles away, and left the valley of Ten Thousand Smokes as evidence of its power.

Bears That Are Hard to Kill.

Giant Kadiak bears lope about over the terrian, terrifying in their size—they often attain a langth of twelve and one-half feet—but indifferent to man and beast, as if they were conscious of the security their size gives them. The initiate in that weird land say that it requires many bullets of large calibre to stop them, once they are aroused.

There are forty-two volcanoes in the Alaska Peninsula and the Aleutian islands. Some of them are active; some of them are dormant; some of them are extinct—supposedly so. There is the gian crater of Aniakchak, which from a distance appears to be but a circle of peaks, but once one of these peaks is ascendd it becomes apparent that here is the mute mouth of a terrestial monster, which may or may not be eternally silent. From all appearances, at least from cursory glances, the creater is dead, but hidden away in the vast floor a warm spring bubbles—a wicked warning that appearances sometimes are deceiving. The peninsula and the islands are a part of a garland of volcanis chains that is festooned rather fantastically about the Asiatic Pacific. Starting with Katmai—and excluding the volcanoes in interior Alaska, Mt. Wrangell and Mt. Edgecumbe—it scallops its way, convex to the ocean, thousands of miles to tropical Sumatra, where it runs out, to the east, into the Pacific, and to the west, into the Indian ocean.

This garland begins with Katmai and one has the impression that there is the start of a tremendous procession. From Katmai it proceeds to cross the peninsular-insular bridge, descending beneath the sea after it leaves the Near Islands, arising again at Bering island, and then leaping across to Kamchatka. There it turns sharply to the left, and runs south, at right angles to its former line of march, until it enters the Kuril islands.

It continues south through this archipelago until it reaches Japan, and then, at the center of the island empire, as it is were weary of the procession, a detachment leaves the column and deserts into the Pacific, where it runs out several hundred miles from the shore.

The remainder of the parade continues south, across the sea to Formosa, and then turning southeast, hurdles to the Philippines. It again divides in these islands, forking to the southeast to reach the Celebes, and swerving to the southwest into Borneo. From these islands it jumps to Sumatra and flattens out, like the cross of a T, running east to the Pacific and west to the Indian ocean.

Where the Parade Stops.

Here the parade reaches its final bivouac and ceases. And all along that line of march the steps of the procession are marked by the roar of eruption and the flare of lava torches and incandescent sand. It is a violent march they play and sometimes it shakes the earth and wrecks cities, of which the recent catacylsm in Japon gives horrible evidence.

It is singular that the sudden eruption of Katmai, the most violent in history, was not accompanied by similar outbreaks in sympathetic eruptions all along the line of march. This has sometimes happened in the history of volcanology and sometimes at great distance from the original focus of activity. Katmai is a member of the Aleutian unit. This unit is but one of five corps in the whole line of march, all peculiarly related, and yet there was little sympathy from the rest of that terrible company. There were mild eruptions and earth rumblings and tremblings, but nothing comparable to the cataclysm at Katmai.

It would appear that there would be, just as if a soldier in the rear of a column suddenly shoved the man in front of him and caused the whole column to be affected. But such was not the case.

The Aleutian unit is not American, but Asiatic in origin. All of its relations are Asiatic, as the procession would indicate. It should be observed that all the volcanoes in Alaska or in Alaskan territory but two belong to the Aleutian chain, and, although this reaches many miles into the American continental mass, it has an unmistakable affinity to its Asiatic comrades, and shows no connection with other American volcanoes.

The Geological Survey of the department of the Interior, the General Land Office, and the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, are conducting investigations in this weird land. Each year their experts are mapping it, laying it out, and determining its character. Each year they return with new discoveries and new phenomena, that add to the picturesqueness of the place, and every time they return they have a craving to go back and investigate the many unknown features that still lie hidden.

Among the most recent discoveries have been those in connection with the giant Aniakchak crater and others in that vicinity. These were made by a party sent out by the Geological Survey, an annual expedition under the leadership of R. H. Sargent, topographic expert of the Survey. These discoveries throw new light on several features of this remarkable country, which might be termed America's powder magazine.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and get best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Rex Beach Novel, "Winds of Chance," At the American

Rex Beach's thrilling novel of the Alaskan gold rush has finally been brought to the screen. Frank Lloyd, who gave us 'The Sea Hawk" and other fine screen dramatics, was the producer as well as director, with First National sponsoring the production. It opened at the American theater yesterday.

Dealing with the romance and the struggle that was the gold rush to the Yukon in 1897 and 1898, "Winds of Chance" presents the first accurate and big conception of the event that brought thousands of eager men and women into the Arctic to face untold hardships in their lust for the precious ore.

Beach has long held first position among the fictionists or Alaska's frontier days and in "Winds of Chance" his best known characters are brought together in a closely woven adventure in the procession up the Yukon to Dawson City and the gold country.

In giving life to the Beach epic, Lloyd has provided not only the most pretentious out-of-doors screen play of the past decade but the most truthful picturization of Alaska, during the four seasons of the year, ever brought to the screen, and his production merits every right to be considered one of the supreme efforts of the screen.

Starting at Dyea, where the prospectors landed after the slow boat trip from Seattle, "Winds of Chance" follows the trail of the sourdoughs over the treacherous Chilkoot Pass to the Summit, then Sheep Camp, Lake Linderman, White Horse, Miles Canyon and on up the Youkon to the mountain-walled boom city of Yukon and the various creeks which glittered with virgin ore.

"Magic" Parties Latest Craze Introduced in London Social Circles

LONDON.—A new craze has been introduced to London society by an American woman, Mrs. Arthur Irving, of New York. It takes the form of holding "magic" parties, and is intended chiefly as an after-dinner diversion.

Seeking for something to entertain her guests at dinner, Mrs. Irving remembered an Egyptian wizard she had met in Brussels, who could do the most extraordinary things with hats and rabbits. The wizard was telegraphed for, and he arrived in time for the dinner, where he was hailed as an interesting departure from the usual stereotyped after-dinner entertainers. Since then the wizard has been in great demand, and no big society function here is complete without him.

AWAIT REPORTS ON VOTE COSTS

Prosecutor Says 111 Candidates Violated State Law.

Certificates of election to winners of township, municipal or school board offices, filled at the general election on Tuesday, November 3, who have failed to file their expense accounts with the election board, are to be held up until such candidates submit their statements according to an announcement today by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes.

According to election board records 111 of the 260 candidates whose names were on the ballot at the November election, failed to file their expense accounts within the 10-day limit after the election, as required by the state election laws. Many of these candidates were winners, and their certificates of election will not be issued until the sworn statement is filed.

Regardless of whether or not money was spent in the election, a statement must be submitted. In compliance with the law, County Election Board Clerk J. W. Moore has reported the names of candidates who defaulted.

JURORS HEAR DAMAGE SUIT

Miss Odessa Owen, Auto Victim, Seeks $10,000.

The suit of Miss Odessa Owen, Mulberry street, against D. O. Webb, of Avondale street, for $10,000 damages as the result of an automobile accident at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, several months ago, is being heard before Judge James Glenn, Coshocton, in the common pleas court, at Lisbon, today.

The jury viewed the scene of the accident at noon yesterday.

Miss Owen is represented by Lones, Hill & Davidson, while Brookes & Thompson and Cochran & Crawford are counsel for the defense.

The accident occurred just after Miss Owen alighted from a River Road bus. She was crossing the street intersection to the D. M. Ogilvie store corner, when she was struck by Webb's automobile, which was headed west on Fifth street.

Sleepless Man Puts Old Law Into Effect; Dance Halls Suffer

LONDON, England, Dec. 14.—Because a resident of Epsom, a small town just outside London, complained that the noise of dancing kept him awake, all public dancing in a large part of the area governed by the Surrey Council must in future stop on the stroke of midnight.

The authorities have decided to enforce an act of 1751, which has long been winked at all over the country, and the decision has come as a bombshell to the promoters of dances in the area. The act forbids all public and subscription dances to go on after midnight, and several big county dances have been cancelled already as a result.

Mrs. Clarence M. Bartight, who has been appointed a temporary city magistrate in New York, was the first woman to sit as chairman of a lunacy commission, the first woman lawyer ever to defend a case of general court-martial, and the first woman to be admitted to membership in the American Bar association.

EDWIN M. WHITNEY DRAMATIC READER, AT HIGH SCHOOL TOMORROW NIGHT

Edwin M. Whitney, America's foremost dramatic recitalist, will appear at the high school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening in the second number of the 1925-26 high school lecture course.

The genius of Mr. Whitney consists of his unequaled ability to make the great characters of literature live before his audience—to bring his hearers into a personal acquaintance with the towering figures of modern drama. More than a mere reader or impersonator, he has dignified his art with an understanding realism.

Mr. Whitney has a repertoire of five offerings. These include "The Tailor-Made Man," "Turn to the Right," "The Fortune Hunter," "In Walked Jimmie" and "Adam and Eva."

This attraction has been booked through the Coit-Alber bureau, of Cleveland. The next number in the course is the De Marco Harp Ensemble, five talented musical artists, who will appear here January 25.

Mrs. John McConnell Hostess.

Mrs. John McConnell entertained the members of the Golden Rod club at her home in Avondale street last evening. The home was decorated with Christmas novelties. Games and music were the principal diversions of the social hours. Mrs. Arnold presided at the piano. A Christmas exchange was featured.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. McConnell, assisted by Mrs. Curtis Garner and Mrs. Fred Hammer, covers being arranged for 31 guests.

Mrs. James Burns, of Kittanning, Pa., was a special guest.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Curtis Garner, of Morton street.

Travelers' Club Session.

The Travelers' club met at the home of Mrs. Wilbur E. Brown, of Vine street, Monday evening, when a Christmas exchange party was held. Mrs. Homer Huston was the associate hostess.

The quotation was:

"The time draws near the birth of Christ;
The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the Mist."
—Tennyson.

The subject was "India." Mrs. S. E. Fisher told of Bombay, the great Indo-European port; Mrs. T. H. Fisher gave the story of Koh-i-noor; Mrs. F. B. Chambers discussed "Women in India;" while Mrs. Howard Blake described the beauty spots of India; Mrs. Arthur Shone told of the industrial arts of India. Special Christmas music was presented by club members.

Following the program informal social hours were enjoyed, during which an exchange box was opened. The home was decorated in keeping with the season. A color scheme of red and green predominated in the luncheon appointments. Mrs. Brown was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Homer Huston and Mrs. Jay Clark, the latter being a special guest.

The next meeting will be held January 11 at the home of Mrs. Philip A. Fuhrer, of Thompson avenue.

J. D. Dallas Visiting in Greece.

Barrett, Mrs. F. T. Weaver, and Mrs. Harold Allison. The next meting will be held January 19, in the home of Mrs. Harvey Moninger of Vine street.

Edwin M. Whitney, dramatic reader, will appear at the high school auditorium Thursday evening.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

BITTER CLASH IN MITCHELL COURT-MARTIAL

COURT CLEARED

Jury Retires to Antechamber to Consider Incident.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Col. William Mitchell was denied reappointment as assistant chief of the army air service because he gave "false" testimony to congressional committees, Maj. Gen. Dannisse Nolan, deputy chief of staff of the army, today told the flying colonel's court-martial.

Ex-Secretary of War John W. Weeks personally recommended Mitchell's demotion to President Coloidge, Nolan said. He read Weeks' letter to the president recommending Mitchell be not reappointed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Bitter personalities were injected today into the closing chapters of the court-martial of Colonel William Mitchell.

Major General Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, one of Mitchell's chief opponents, who has been severely cross-examined by Representative Reid of Illinois, Mitchell's chief counsel, opened the fireworks this morning by sarcastically asking Reid "what was your war experience."

"In my own life," flashed back Reid, "it was more important than being chief clerk to the general staff."

In the hubub and angry shouting which followed, the court was cleared and the jury of generals retired to an ante-chamber to consider the incident.

Defense Scores Point.

Reid had savagely attacked Drum's testimony before congressional committees as "misleading." He repeatedly protested to the court over Drum's "refusal to answer questions without delivering a speech."

The defense scored a strong point when Drum was forced to read orders to all officers as to how they should testify before congressional committees.

Drum admitted the review of the Curry bill by the war department came from his office among others. The secretary of war was "directed" by Drum in a communication as to the proper policy to pursue over agitation for unified air service.

"The court votes that its proceedings be continued with proper decorum. Incidents that have just arisen will not be permitted to occur again," announced Major General Robert L. Howze, president of the court.

"In view of the refusal of the witness to answer direct questions, I refuse to question him further," bluntly announced Reid shortly after court again went into session.

SIKI KILLED FOR $20 DEBT

Police Seek Bootlegger as Slayer of Prize Fighter.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—"Jimmy," a bootlegger, was sought by detectives today as the slayer of the Battling Siki, who was shot to death in the neighborhood of "Hell's Kitchen" early yesterday morning. Siki, the police learned, owed "Jimmy," an habitue of a speakeasy, $20.

The authorities were informed that "Jimmy" met Siki and his wife on the street recently and demanded the money. Siki didn't have it and, the police were told, "Jimmy" threatened to "get" Siki. Siki was shot to death from behind as he left a "black and tan" cabaret early in the morning.

Mrs. Siki was making arrangements today for the burial of her husband. She is an octoroon from Memphis, Tenn., where she met Siki when he fought Young Norfolk. She said Siki left no money and had no insurance. He had only eight cents in his pocket when his body was found, face downward, in the street, by a policeman.

"Put Up or Shut Up" Crabbe Tells Akron Complainants

AKRON, Dec. 16.—"Put up or shut up" is the ultimatum delivered by Attorney General Crabbe to Akron citizens who have been complaining of vice conditions here. Crabbe is directing a grand jury investigation of the "road scandals" and has invited every person in the city who thinks he knows of hidden wickedness to visit him at the courthouse today and Thursday, where he will hear their stories and lay them before the jury if they appear worth while and are more than mere hearsay.

In addition he has subpoenaed Gus Risch, former state legislator, Fred Hagloch, head of the so-called Non-partisan league, and Allen O. Myers, a Burns detective who have been making investigations here.

"Student Prince" Star Weds.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Miss Olga Steck, leading woman of "The Student Prince," and G. Kieth Line, teacher of riding to society, were married by Judge John Bedinger.

would make his king emperor, following in the steps of Disreali, the man of Asiatic ancestry, who made Victoria empress of India. If you start with momentum you can go a long way.

The able Mr. Garvin solemnly answers George Harvey's statement that England is on her last legs, about to plunge into the gulf.

Britain would be better off, says Garvin, if she didn't have to pay so many millions to America every year, while Britain's debtors pay her nothing. This means $100,000,000 to the bad for England.

Mr. Garvin ought to take George Harvey for a trip around the British empire to look at her land, minerals, people, free and not free, all over the world, and especially get him to consider how easily the British brand of statesmanship puts the so-called statesmanship of the United States into a deep hole. Such a trip would restore Harvey's cheerfulness about Britain's future.

You can't down intelligence and courage. The British have both.

Speaking of intelligence and courage, the Irish Free State intends to send a flying machine from Ireland, across the ocean to the United States. More power to the plan.

Too bad St. Patrick can't see that ship start out. Once he stood on the west coast of Ireland "beyond which no man is." He was interested in miracles, performed many of them himself. But it never occurred to him that some day an Irishman would fly from that point "where no man is," 3,000 miles across the ocean, to another point where many successful and useful Irishmen are.

Relics discovered in Arizona would indicate, if genuine, that this planet was discovered by Jewish sailors 700 years before Columbus' day.

It isn't unlikely. Many do not realize that the Semitic race in the ancient days was the most daring and enterprising of all seafaring peoples.

The Phoenicians, Semitic, were the first to go out of sight of land, in days when there was no compass, first to sail through the "Pillars of Hercules" out into the Atlantic ocean on to the tin mines of England and to all the wild northwestern region. They brought and sold to Solomon choice building materials for his temple.

In Russia, a young mother killed a baby that, according to the doctors, was doomed to lifelong idiocy and disease. One court sentenced her to eight years in jail. A higher court sets her free with compliments, saying she did what was best for the baby and for society.

Dr. Neltzer, one of a million learned Germans, says that German public opinion is 119 against 43 in favor of ending the lives of idiotic children. If such murders were made legal, it would be a shameful downward step for civilization. But it will not be made legal for long, in Germany, Russia or anywhere else.

Former Newspaper Publisher Dies in Cincinnati Home

CINCINNATI, Dec. 16. — Hiram P. Crouse, 63 years old, formerly publisher and newspaper writer, died yesterday of heart failure at his home here. During his long newspaper career he was publisher of the Toledo, Ohio, Times and the Findlay, Ohio, Republican. For the last five years he was in the life insurance business. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

Freighter Crashes Into Ferryboat; 10 Passengers Hurt

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Efforts were being made by federal and railroad officials today to learn the identity of a freighter that crashed into the ferryboat Cranford, near the middle of the Hudson river, during the rush hour last evening, throwing 400 passengers into a panic and resulting in injuries to 10 persons.

The freighter, after ramming the Cranford, chugged away. In the excitement its identity was not learned.

Two Men Burned, 13 Flee to Street In Toledo Blaze

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 16.—Lawrence Singyar and Joseph Makawski were severely burned and 13 others forced to the street here today when fire partially destroyed a Franklin avenue apartment house.

Makawski, who discovered the flames in a second story closet, notified Singyar, who jumped through a window and aroused residents on the ground floor, enabling them to escape, although their clothing and furniture were completely destroyed.

Alexander Moore, U. S. Ambassador to Spain, Quits Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Alexander Moore, of Pittsburgh, American Ambassador to Spain, has resigned, the White House announced today.

The resignation has been in the hands of President Coolidge since last spring.

Detective Chief Drops Dead at Desk In Capital City

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Clifford L. Grant, chief of detectives, dropped dead suddenly here this morning at police headquarters. He was widely known in police circles over the country.

Grant was at his desk at headquarters this morning as usual. He was seized with a heart attack and expired before he could be rushed to a hospital. He was 60 years old.

TOLEDO POLICE NAB SUSPECTED CLUB WIELDER

Co-ed Identifies Prisoner as Man Who Attacked Her.

INSANE BELIEF

Arrest Made on Family's Complaint; Ask Lunacy Warrant.

TOLEDO, Dec. 16.—With the arrest of Joseph Luczka, 28, today, police believe they may have the mysterious slugger who has terrorized the women of the West End and added nine victimes to his list.

Luczka has been identified by Miss Louise E. Washburn, 18-year-old Toledo University co-ed, as the man who attacked her last Friday morning at the edge of the university campus on her way to school.

Luczka was arrested on complaint of the man's family that he was mentally unbalanced. They requested the police to hold him until they could secure a lunacy warrant and have him sent to the Toledo state hospital.

Miss Washburn identified Luczka by picking him out from five other men lined up in the turnkey's office. She pointed out Luczka without a moment's hesitation. Several other victims of the clubber will be brought in later today to also try to identify him as police say the man in many respects answers the meager description they have of the clubber.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—New forward movements in the railroad stocks sent about a dozen of the active rails into new high price levels in the early trading today. For the first time in the nation's history, freight car loadings exceeded 1,000,000 cars in a December week, thus adding one more to the long record of accomplishments of the transportation companies in 1925. The Wall street atmosphere was surcharged with rumors and speculations relative to proposed and contemplated railroad mergers which are doubtless nearer consummation than ever before.

Poisoner's Hearing Postponed; Court To Name Counsel

SANDUSKY, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Mary Keller, 43, was brought before Common Pleas Court Judge W. L. Fiesinger for arraignment on a first degree murder charge today. When the court found that she did not have counsel and that she had not been advised as to her legal rights he ordered the woman returned to the county jail until Saturday morning explaining that he would provide her with a lawyer in the meantime.

Mrs. Keller, following arrest Nov. 11, confessed killing her seven-year-old daughter Fay with carbolic acid.

Chelsea, Mass., Mayor, Under Indictment, Winner at Polls

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 16.—A heavy vote by women figured in the re-election of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, who is under federal indictment in the so-called Chelsea bootleggers and liquor manufacturers union case. Quigley defeated Alderman Clarence Richmond by 852 votes. Quigley, in a statement today, termed his triumph a "vindication."

Ohioan, Indicted For Killing During Quarrel, Fined $50

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Dec. 16.—Although Henry Smith, 61, of Rendville, was indicted for mansalughter, a common pleas court jury found him guilty of assault and battery and Judge T. D. Price fined him $50 and costs.

Smith was tried for killing Albert Edom, 65, with a club during an altercation concerning a pile of coal. Smith pleaded self defense.

Colleges of Austria In Financial Plight; Assistance Sought

VIENNA.—The universities throughout Austria are in a bad financial plight, according to appeals for assistance, which have recently been issued.

The three biggest Austrian universities, those at Vienna, Graz, and Innsbruck, have recently issued appeals for money which show that they are completely hampered for lack of funds. The professors are only receiving half pay, while the equipment of the universities is entirely inadequate for up-to-date demands.

THAD H. BROWN KIWANIS GUEST

Secretary of State Speaks at Meeting in Salineville.

SALINEVILLE, Dec. 16. — "It behooves us to make the generation following to feel as proud of our work as we are proud of the work of our fathers," declared Secretary of State Thad H. Brown in an address delivered before the Kiwanis club here last evening. "Have faith in America" was the keynote of his address.

The meeting was in celebration of the opening of the Salineville-Wellsville road, and Chairman Frank P. Judge Jr. announced that "inasmuch as we have been given a taste of what improved roads are, we're going right back and ask for something more." This remark was addressed to the county officials who were guests.

He recounted the trials the community encountered in seeking the legislation that resulted in the construction of the highway.

In presenting Secretary of State Brown, Judge announced that he was convinced that "we have now with us the next governor of Ohio."

"Have faith in America," Mr. Brown began. "What we need now more than anything else is that faith which Washington was possessed at Valley Forge—that faith which Lincoln possessed during the Civil war and that faith in America which we had during the World war.

"I'm like Uncle Joe Cannon, who declared to a group recently, 'have faith in your government.' I want you to have faith in the government of your fathers.

"But there seems to be something wrong somewhere, if we stop a moment to study the situation. What it is I can't tell. Statistics tell us that when McKinley was elected president of the United States 80 per cent of the electors went to the polls to cast a ballot. At the last national election this percentage declined to about 48. Perhaps our government is becoming too complex. Perhaps there is too much tendency to pass things on to Washington that should be looked after at home, and at home I mean the states, the counties, the local community. There is too much of 'passing it along,' I'm afraid.

"There is one local situation that I want to call your attention to and that is the necessity of the construction of inter county highway No. 7. This is the road extending northward along the Ohio river from Cincinnati through Marietta to East Liverpool and thence to the lake. Here is a national defense highway, and you must not lose sight of this fact. This road commands the direct attention of the state and federal highway departments, and in the building of this road through the 'Narrows' in Jefferson county I believe there will be much financial aid extended from these sources.

"Judging from 1907, when 7,200 automobile licenses were issued in Ohio, I believe there will be close to 1,475,000 licenses issued in 1926. In 1924 there were 1,270,026 issued."

The dry ranks led by Senators Willis, R., of Ohio, and Sheppard, D., of Texas, meanwhile challenged the wets to bring any or all of their proposals to a vote. Willis predicted the defeat of every attempt to modify the Volstead Act or to weaken its enforcement. The position of the dry forces, as stated by their leaders, was that the sixty-ninth congress is just as dry politically as the congress which enacted the Volstead law.

Blease, however, declared he would force the drys upon record as to whether the prohibition law shall be enforced against Americans and not against foreigners in America.

Ambassadors Serve Liquor.

"If Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States," said Blease, "should serve wine or beer on his table, he would be a criminal under the constitution of the nation over which he is president.

"If some ambassador or minister or consul from another nation serves wine or beer on his table, he is lauded as a most hospitable host and delightful entertainer. This is peculiar but it is true.

"If the president of the United States cannot serve wine or beer, I can see no reason why foreigners should be allowed to do so.

"I am going to find out why this immunity is permitted and I am going to propose to get an amendment to the Volstead law enacted or a resolution adopted by congress to enforce the dry laws on foreigners just the same as the government enforces it against South Carolinians."

ARKANSAS BOY IS HELD FOR TRIPLE MURDER

Lad, 14, Charged With Slaying Man, Woman, Child.

ADMITS CRIME

Calmly Tells How he Outwitted Posse for Two Days.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 16.—Arnold Comer, said to be but 14 years old, and appearing even younger, was held in the county jail at Yellville, Ark., today awaiting preliminary hearing for the gruesome slaying of three persons near Buffalo Creek, Ark.

Comer, apparently unconcerned, calmly related to officers following his capture, how he killed a man, a woman and a child, and then fled into the mountains, pursued for two days by a posse.

The boy is wizened and undernourished in appearance, and appears to be of subnormal mental development, the officers declared. It was learned that he was held in the detention home here last February after a railroad detective had arrested him on the Missouri Pacific right of way. He wore a pair of overalls, a coonskin cap, and carried a shot gun. For 10 days, he declined to give any information about himself, but eventually told the matron his name, and said he left home "because his brother mistreated him."

$4 and $5 for each dollar of anticipated annual revenue and please note that I said anticipated. His turn-over would therefore be—not so many times in one year, but just the reverse, one turn-over in so many years. Instead of computing annual profit by multiplying the net profit on each turn-over by the number fo turn-overs per year, your railway has to take out of each dollar of annual revenue an amount sufficient, provided they earn it, to pay the interest on the $4 to $5 that has been invested and that is actually represented in physical plant value used and useful to produce the said one dollars of revenue.

"Let's stop here and analyze this thing, because it is a matter that invites your interest, it is a matter in which you, as business men of this community, are vitally concerned.

"To simplify our figures, lets choose some railway or other that has the minimum of $4 invested for each dollar of annual income. If it is to earn, let us say 6% on its investment, then it must lay aside out of each dollar received, four times six or twenty-four cents to pay the wages of money. And permit me to remind you here and now, that money demands its wages the same as you and I and the rest of the laboring people. Otherwise it refuses to work, it devotes its time to other business that will pay it's wage. I hardly need remind you that any business that doesn't or can't pay money its wage, finally comes to the point of hanging a crepe on the knob of its door and sending for the bankruptcy undertaker.

Question of Taxes

"Then again, everything, as you know, wears out. You can drive your automobile from two to five, maybe ten years, depending on how you use it but at the end of a given time, your repairs, your upkeep becomes so expensive that you profit by either turning it in or junking it and buying a new one. To be conservative let us say that the rails, the power stations, the cars, the buildings and other physical railway property has an average life of 33⅓ years. Then you have a depreciation cost of 3% staring you in the face before you have paid one cent toward the cost of turning wheels. This means four times three or 12 cents out of each dollar of revenue to meet an expenditure that is as sure of maturity as death and taxes.

"And, what about taxes. One would naturally expect large proportionate taxes with a physical plant investment of $4 for each dollar of revenue and this is true.

"When you buy a dollar weekly pass from this company, in round figures, seven cents of that dollar goes to the government for taxes, and 93 cents to the company.

"The utilities in the state of Ohio on the tax duplicate for the year 1925, will pay on a tax valuation of $1,280,500,000.00. This amount exceeds the total tax valuation of all other corporations in the state combined. And, get this, because it will appeal to at least your selfish interest, for the year 1925, this year, if you please, the increase in Ohio's tax valuation of public service companies was 40% more than the combined increase of banks, all other corporations and individual property in the state. This relieved you, both as business men and as individuals of some considerable amount of tax, that you would otherwise have to pay. And who is paying this tax for you? The consumer, as you well know. So far as the railways are concerned, the man who rides the cars, the man with a dinner bucket, the man who can least afford to pay it.

Seven Cents for Maintenance.

"We have now spent out of our $1, twenty-four, twelve and seven cents, or a total of 43 cents. We have left 57 cents, and we haven't yet spent one cent toward the cost of turning wheels. Out of this 57 cents we are going to spend somewhere between 48 and 54 cents for labor alone. I mean that the payrolls of your railways take and properly so, 48 to 54 per cent of their total revenue. When you buy a $1 weekly pass, you are paying approximately half of it, or 50 cents, to the men and women who are devoting their time to a life of service—because we have nothing else to sell. Furthermore, because street cars run rain or shine, good times or bad times, the pay rolls vary very little.

"We now have left seven cents with which to buy maintenance materials, pay insurance and meet other general expense. A good many of your railways are not making ends meet. They find themselves in the position of having to rob Peter to pay Paul. They are not setting aside 12 per cent of their revenue or three per cent of their plant value for depreciation. They are not paying dividends on the basis of six per cent, the bare wage of money.

"Why if we take Ohio's 1925 tax valuation, we find as I said before, a valuation of $1,480,500,000, and for the same year a report from the United States census bureau, estimating the actual worth of Ohio's public service companies at $1,8000,000,000. This means that your railways, even on their assessed valuation, the valuation on which they are paying taxes, are actually not earning as much of a profit, as they are paying out of each dollar for taxes.

"I have been giving you facts that I can substantiate from government records and this message would fall short of its purpose were it to stop ated without profit, the country over. When I say profit, I mean a return in excess of the bare wage of capital and capital will not work without wage. They are, therefore, public institutions in practically the same class and just as essential to the well-being of a community as its schools, its churches, its hospitals and other similar public institutions. It behooves you and every other good citizen to lend them your moral support.

"I was asked the question not very long ago, how long it would be before private automobiles and buses put the street railways out of business. Here is the answer. The period from 1917 to 1923 saw the greatest expansion of the automobile industry in its history. During the same period your railways experienced an increase in the number of passengers hauled of from 109 passengers per capita a per year to 150 passengers per capita per year, or an increase of almost 30 per cent. The outlook for your railways, the country over, was never more encouraging than now.

"Facts, such as I have just disclosed, are becoming more generally appreciated. There is less of a disposition on the part of the people to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. What the railways need, and all they need is a square deal. Burdensome franchise obligations requiring them to pave the streets that they no longer wear out, because they no longer use horses to pull cars are being removed. May I again remind you that the man with the dinner pail is the man who is paying for that paving. And when he isn't paying for it, the business men are, through loss in business because of poor transportation service.

"There are today three states in the Union that have passed statutes, authorizing the abrogation of franchises requiring street railways to pave and it is and has been a surprise to me that the people themselves, the country over haven't awakened to the fact long before this, that burdening their utilities with unjust, unfair and unnecessary costs is in reality costing them more in the long run, than would otherwise maintain."

Ban Extravagant Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A strict injunction forbidding extravagant expenditure of government funds in the investigation of prohibition cases has been issued by Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry czar, it was announced at the treasury today.

Andrews criticised the action of a number of federal agents who obtained the arrest of two employes of a fashionable Washington hotel through a "decoy" banquet which cost $229 for "food, entertainment, cigars and cocktails."

Andrews, in appearing before the house appropriations committee, told representatives who criticised these practices of prohibition agents, that he had taken steps to abolish such methods.

Sensation Created By Young Prodigy In Burmah District

RANGOON, India—A sensation has been created in the Burmah district by the appearance of a prodigy, the five-year-old son of a Burmese fish dealer, who is said to be able to address immense meetings with the eloquence of a La Follette, Briand or Lloyd George.

According to reports from that district, the railroad companies have to put on special trains to convey the crowds to the points where the prodigy is speaking. The prodigy's name is Tun Kyine, and it is said that he can speak for hours on end in the most brilliant Burmese.

His speeches are generally about Buddhist Ethics and moral philosophy, and his command of history is said to be nothing short of remarkable. The superstitious people of the district are disposed to treat Tun Kyine as a reincarnation of some ancient Buddhist preacher.

LARGER POTATO YIELD SOUGHT

County Growers Advised to Follow Proper Cultural Methods.

By following proper cultural methods, the production of potatoes in Columbiana county can be increased from 100 to 400 and 500 bushels per acre, according to County Agent Floyd Lower and E. L. Nixon, of Pennsylvania State college.

"What potato growers are doing in Pennsylvania can be done in Ohio," Columbiana county potato growers have been advised, and according to Mr. Nixon, who was formerly identified with the Ohio experimental station at Wooster, "it is no trick to produce a heavy potato crop when the right methods are followed."

The same view about potato culture in Columbiana county is held by Eart Jones, of the Ohio State experimental college.

During the last few years there has been an increase yield of potatoes shown in this county, but according to Mr. Lowers the limit has not been reached. However, it has been explained potato growers, and especially the more successful ones are now interested in growing larger crops than heretofore.

At a recent meeting of potato growers of this county held in Memorial hall, Salem, when 120 growers discussed potato culture, it was brought out that the clay soil of Columbiana county is especially well adapted to potato culture, and that by the use of modern and practical methods yields can be increased the first year from 50 to 100 per cent.

Prime requisites for increased yield consist of good seed, proper spraying, humus and proper potato mentality, the latter meaning interest in potato culture.

Humus is produced, according to the advice given potato growers of this county, by sowing seven quarts of sweet clover to the acre; the growing of alfalfa; the growing of clover, and growing of soy beans.

Much attention should be given to the practice of spraying, the growers have been advised, and the continual spraying of the plants is essential to a heavy yield. In fact, growers have been advised to spray plants every 10 days after the first spray has been applied or more often, and every six days in real hot weather. By this practice it is possible to eliminate scab and other elements that are destructive to the plants.

Another feature urged by the experts and County Agent Lower in order to produce a heavy potato yield is the matter of weeding the rows, which should be done weekly, and immediately after each rain.

Fertilizer should not be spared, the growers have been advised, it being related that Pennsylvania growers who have been producing a yield of 400 bushels or more per acre are broadcasting 1,000 pounds of acid phosphate to the row, using 400 to 600 pounds of 3-12-4 mix.

Many Columbiana potato growers have been spreading 445 pounds of fertilizer per acre, while some of the Mahoning county growers have a record of using as much as 545 pounds per acre.

Demonstrations in potato fields of this county have disclosed that it is more profitable to use complete fertilizer and acid phosphate, it being explained that an application of 400 to 600 pounds of complete fertilizer, such as 2-12-6 or 3-12-4 or 3-8-6 in the row, with an equal application of acid phosphate broadcast, makes possible a heavier yield of potatoes than is now possible without such effort.

Early planting, deeper planting, thorough and frequent spraying, weeding and close planting in the rows, so growers have just been advised will increase yields over 50 per cent the first season.

MANY NEW CASES FILED WITH CLERK

The petit jury which has been serving during the present term of court will be discharged by Judge James G. Moore Friday, and the jurors will not be required to report again. A new petit jury has been drawn for the January term which will begin Jan. 11.

Since August 3 last when Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine assumed the office, 318 new cases have been filed on the Appearance docket.

In addition there have been more than 60 criminal actions filed.

Two grand juries have been called since August 3, one being a special session, and three foreign judges have presided in common pleas No. 2. Notwithstanding the fact that many cases have been closed finally since the opening of the September term of court, no reduction in court work is possible on account of the number of new cases being filed exceeding those disposed of.

Judge James Glenn of Coshocton, who is now presiding in No. 2 court, will close his assignment in this county Friday. During the remainder of the term Judge Moore will have all cases assigned to No. 1 court.

It is announced that during the January term Chief Justice Marshall will be asked to assign foreign jurists to service in this county in order that the volume of court work can be kept as low as possible.

An added feature of the activity of the work in the office of Clerk Ballantine is also that having to do with the last session of the court of appeals.

PLAN TO DEVELOP APPLE ORCHARD

The apple orchard at the Columbiana county home will be designated as a county demonstration orchard by the Columbiana County Farm Bureau co-operating with the county commissioners and Supt. John P. Nell, it has been made known by County Agent Floyd Lower. Apple trees planted 10 and 12 years ago, and which have never been in production as they should be according to their age will be developed this season.

The demonstration work throughout the season will be under the direction of C. S. Holland, orchard specialist of Ohio State university, and the work of development will be used as a guide by other orchardists in this county.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FARM BUREAU

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in the First Presbyterian church Thursday, at which time Dean Alfred Vivian of the agricultural college, Ohio State, will speak at the afternoon session.

Dean Vivian will speak at noon before the Lisbon Kiwanis club Thursday.

The meeting will be opened by the Rev. Peter W. Macauley, who will pronounce the invocation, and will be followed by the annual address of President John McB. Kerr of Yellow Creek township. Township reports will be read at this meeting and also the annual report of Field Service Manager Phil E. Heim.

OHIO FAIR CIRCUIT MEET SCHEDULED

A meeting of the Northeast Ohio Fair Circuit will be held in the rooms of the county commissioners, Youngstown, Saturday next at which time an agreement will be reached on the speed programs for the county fairs next fall. O. R. Beckwith of Ashtabula is president of the circuit and Harry E. Marsden of Lisbon secretary.

The circuit is composed of the fair associations of Ashtabula, Portage, Trumbull, Mahoning, Columbiana counties, the East Palestine fair and the Erie Exposition of Erie, Pa.

Frank Dickey of East Liverpool and J. M. Levan of Fairfield township and Mr. Marsden will represent the Columbiana County Agricultural society at this meeting.

Booked for Addresses.

C. L. Blackman, live stock specialist of the Ohio State University Agricultural college, will speak at East Rochester at 1 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon and at the town hall, Calcutta, at 7:30 o'clock the same evening. Mr. Blackman will discuss the proper use of dairy feeding. The discussion will also have to mix the most economical rations.

Many Sale Bills Filed.

All precious records for filing automobile bills of sale were broken in this county Tuesday when 123 were filed for record in the office of Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. The fees collected from this source totaled $30.75.

Should this record be continued during the balance of the month the August record will be broken, when over 1,700 bills of sale were filed.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

© CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N

TWENTY-FIVE.

If Laurel Harwood really expected her husband to speak to her about the forthcoming return to Central City of his first and divorced wife, she was disappointed. He preserved a diplomatic silence regarding the matter that almost deceived her into believing that his attitude was indifferent; that the news was of no consequence as far as he was concerned. She had misgivings, but not because she was afraid that Mary Harwood would rewin Noble. No, her fears emanated from an intuitive expectation that the former wife would alienate Noble and his children, and drag Laurel herself into the whirlpool. She sensed, too, that with two Mrs. Noble Harwoods within the small confines of Central City, at least one would be uncomfortable, and that the older one, the discarded wife and mother, would have the sympathy of the town.

Mary Harwood's imminent return was upon Laurel's mind daily, either briefly or lengthily, but she did not betray the fact to Noble. She matched his diplomatic silence with a philosophic reserve of her own. She was, however, immediately set on edge with fears when Noble quietly announced at dinner one evening: "I shall have to be away most of next week, honey pet."

Laurel's eyes looked tenaciously into his from across the table. She dared not speak; she was not sure she could. Of course, Mary Harwood's name was the first thing that had popped into her mind. Was Noble going to New York to see his first wife?

"I must go to Chicago and Detroit for some conferences," he explained, a moment later. "Looks like the company is going to be able to put across a big tie-up with the Speedler auto people, in Detroit.

"I shall miss you awfully," she said. She half smiled, half frowned at him with relief.

"Perhaps you won't miss me as much as you think," he replied, thoughtfully, then quickly added: "I'd like to take you with me, but I don't think it's a good idea to have a wife along on a business trip."

"Naturally," she laughed.

Noble smiled genially. "Ot, you know what I mean."

"I do, dear," she replied in a way that warmed him.

"I'm going to have to go to the Pacific coast soon, and you shall go with me then," he went on, much in the manner of a parent promising something to a child.

"Do you mind if I go over to mother's for a few days while you're gone?"

"Of course not, dear. Only—." He sipped his wine reflectively. "Only it might be misunderstood."

Laurel was annoyed. How COULD people misunderstand anything like that?

Noble read the thought in her eyes and spoke, "Wagging tongues say some queer things."

"Very well, dear," she said resignedly. "I won't. You're right." She didn't relish being in this big house alone with so many hostile eyes watching her.

"Oh, by the way, dear," Noble interjected. "Harry Yancey wants us to come over to his place tomorrow evening." His eyes lighted as he spoke.

At last it had come. Laurel had been dreading what she knew would be an eventuality. Dully she heard him say, "I told him we would come."

"Are you sure MRS. Yancey wants us to come?" she asked suggestively.

"Why not?" He looked up from his salad puzzled.

"I should think she would have called me and made the invitation."

Noble frowned. "Of course Harry wouldn't have asked me without knowing that it would be all right with her."

"No, he probably is giving her the news this evening. Men don't always consult their wives about such invitations."

"DON'T you want to go, dear?" His tone was fretful.

Dissatisfied, Noble went on with his food.

"What shall I wear, dear," Laurel asked.

"That gown is all right," her husband answered, without looking at her.

They were having their dessert when Marion came into the dining room, having just arrived at the house, and sat down wearily with a flushed "Hello" in the chair Louis held for her.

Noble pressed his mouth carefully with his serviette and regarded Marion austerely. "I wish, Marion, that you would endeavor to begin your dinner with the rest of us."

"I was late," his daughter replied indifferently. "I went out riding with Wyman Holt and we ran out of gasoline." Her eyes met Laurel's challengingly.

"That can't be the reason why you were 'late' yesterday and the day before," Noble remarked.

"What's the matter, daddy, you're out of sorts tonight. Have a bad day at the office?"

Laurel was shocked by the disregard of manners her step-daughter showed in eating her soup rapidly, interspersing her words with spoonfuls of the liquid. Marion detected the glance and misinterpreted its meaning: "Did Wyman's tub ever run out of gas when you were with him?" There was a malicious gleam in her eyes.

Mrs. Harwood felt her husban's eyes upon her. "I didn't know it was a habit of Wyman's," she replied lightly. She was still the object of Noble's gaze. She wondered if Marion had made some spiteful remark to Noble when the two of them saw Wyman delivering her at Harwood house the other afternoon.

Politeness is Required To Gypsy Relatives; Court Puzzle Results

BERLIN—Because he didn't excuse himself to his wife's relatives for having married into their family, Anton Steinbach, king of a gypsy tribe, had to answer before a Berlin court to a charge of manslaughter.

The excuse, it was brought out in the testimony, must be made every time the husband meets a member of his wife's family. Because Steinbach neglected to observe this sacred gypsy custom when he met Primas Winter, head of the tribe of his wife, Winter slapped his face. Whereupon Steinbach, not wanting to lay hands on Winter, who was old, grabbed the latter's son and pushed his face through a plate glass window.

The result was a gun battle between the two tribes in which Karl Winter, son of Primas, was killed.

The court, however, was unable to disentangle the affray and acquitted the accused on the ground of self-defense.

CONQUEROR OF THE MONGOLIAN WILDS

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who startled the world a few years ago by discovering a nest of dinosaur eggs ten million years old, arrived in New York on November 9th from his Third Asiatic Expedition under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History.

Again he attributes much of the success of his expedition to the astounding performance of his five Dodge Brothers Motor Cars.

Following is a direct quotation from an official statement by Dr. Andrews upon his return to America:

The Gobi Desert in Mongolia is the most extensive undeveloped and unexplored region now left in the world. Until a few years ago it was retarded by the impossibly slow traffic of camel trains, the only means of communication.

But now it is being crisscrossed in every direction by motor cars, or, more correctly by one motor car, the Dodge. Sixty or seventy Dodge Brothers cars are making regular trips far into the interior of this vast waste, bringing out loads of sables, precious furs, wool and other products.

No other car except the Dodge is found there because we have tried it out on each of our three expeditions and have had it demonstrated to our satisfaction that the Dodge is the only car that will stand up under the strain of the roadless desert and do everything we ask of it.

Few people have occasion to subject their motor cars to punishment of this severity. It is reassuring, however, to know that in emergencies Dodge Brothers Motor Car is built to meet the test.

These dependable and sturdy qualities also account for the fact that more than 90% of all the motor cars Dodge Brothers have built during the past eleven years, are still in active service.

FORMER SULTAN OF TURKEY HAS TROUBLE PAYING RENT

Living From Hand to Mouth in Little French City—Relatives In Same Boat.

San Remo, France.—Sultan Mohammed VI, the last ruler and caliph of Turkey, is struggling to maintain himself and his small household at this quiet retreat on borrowed money or on charity funds sent him by relatives and former supporters.

While other former European monarchs and nobles are living in comparative luxury in foreign lands, Mohammed VI must make repeated calls for assistance to save him and his modest retinue from poverty.

The aged sultan recently was so hard up that he was obliged to dispense with his young son's German nurse. Soon after that he was threatened with eviction if he failed to pay his rent. Things looked black for the once wealthy and influential head of the Moslem world, when his sister saved the situation by pawning a diamond ring and a rope of pearls.

Scarcely had this debt been settled when the sultan's nephew came to Paris and squandered half the sum realized on his mother's jewels, which was said to be a million francs.

A fresh call probably will be made upon the former monarch's relatives, but many of them are in as great need as the ex-sultan himself. For example, Prince Ziaeddin, eldest son of the sultan's predecessor, Mohammed V, is in the last stages of destitution. He and his wife and two daughters are facing eviction for nonpayment of rent. Friends have started a subscription in their behalf.

The situation of the other 250 members of the imperial family of Turkey who were driven from Constantinople is even more acute than that of the sultan. They are scattered in different parts of Europe and live only by the charity of their friends. When they were expelled from Turkey they were allowed to take about $150. Their property was nationalized and their jewels and property confiscated.

These fugitives include thirty-five princes and princesses of the house of Osman, three sheiks-ul-Islam, a former grand vizier, many cabinet ministers, two court chamberlains, half a score of editors, many army and navy officers and a number of high government officials.

COUNCIL HOLDS FINAL SESSION

Act on Assessment Cases and Pays Engineer George.

City council adjusted the Lisbon Firestone bank's Wells avenue assessment problem, ordered the Stone damage case carried to the state supreme court, gave the American Sheet & Tin Plate plant a strip of ground on Wells avenue in adjustment of the mill's paving assessment, and paid City Engineer John George and M. K. Duty at their final meeting last night.

The Twentieth street sewer problem and the reservoir superintendent's job were laid on the shelf for the new council which meets next month.

Adjustment of the assessment case with the Firestone bank was made through Attorney C. C. Connell of Lisbon, who attended last night's session. The property originally had been assesed on a valuation of approximately $6,450. Attorney Connell asserted that the re-appraisement of the 17½-acre tract owned by the bank here, is $4,500, and pointed out that the ground is for sale in the open market at that price. He said the bank was willing to pay one-third of the value, or $1,500.

Council accepted his offer and Attorney Connell immediately wrote out a check for $1,500, payable to the city treasurer.

Representing the plaintiff in the Stone damage case against the city, Attorney W. A. O'Grady asked solons to tell him what they were going to do toward paying the judgment granted in court. He declared that, if the city is going no further with the case, he'd like to know about it so he could issue an execution.

Solicitor Ingram asked council's authority to carry the case to the supreme court and council voted it. Councilman Connor objected to carrying the case higher.

Solons passed a resolution deeding a small triangular strip of ground adjoining the present mill property in Wells avenue, at the eastern end of the bridge, to the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant. The mill will pay the paving assessments levied against the company.

City Engineer John George told council why he was charging a total of $3,151.81 for engineering services in Wells avenue and Lisbon street, necessary to do in preparing the way outlining the amount of work it was for the paving. He said he based his price on six and one-half per cent of the estimate, which, he pointed out, was a common practice in such cases.

With the exception of White, solons voted to pay the bill.

Council decided that the J. B. Orr property be assessed at full value, and that the Lewis Orr estate offer of settlement be rejected.

For the second time, M. K. Duty, contractor, submitted a bill for $440.01 for work on the cellar of the W. E. Parsons home, in Clark avenue, which was damaged last spring when an underground storm sewer broke through. The city is to pay half of it. Council approved the bill.

Representing the traction company, President Howard Maxwell appeared before solons to discuss the proposed Twentieth street sewer.
and asserted that the company would
He approved plans for the project, contribute to the extent of 20 per cent of the cost, on the estimate of $5,250, providing the city would take action in Seventeenth and Commerce streets, toward remedying the water situation He suggested, in the latter case, sewer drops in Eighteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. He pointed out that the Twentieth street sewer doesn't bother the traction company nearly as much as the Seventeenth street situation, and that the latter was really the more important of the two, in the opinion of traction company officials.

Councilman Ewing pointed out that the construction of additional sewer drops would not solve the problem in Seventeenth street. An expensive connection with the storm sewer near the U. S. Pottery plant would be the only practical method, he said.

Solons were unable to promise anything on the Seventeenth street situation and President Maxwell asserted the company could do nothing in Twentieth street unless the city aided in Seventeenth street.

On motion by Ewing and seconded by White, solons referred the problem to the new council, with Nicholson casting the only dissenting vote.

A new ordinance to create the office of reservoir superintendent, with the civil service phase eliminated, was brought up for first reading. Councilmen Connor, Ewing and White voted in the negative on Nicholson's motion to refer the ordinance to the new council, with Peters, Baker, Swearengin and Nicholson on the affirmative side.

The monthly report of Auditor Eckfeld was read as follows:

General fund, $711.39; safety fund, $376.62; (ovedrawn); health, $644.70; service, $502.91; cemetery, $2,051.20; library, $959.16; special water, $32,637.07; auto license, $4,959.68; gasoline tax, $1,332; cemetery trust, $516.52; final retainer, none; Wells avenue and Lisbon street, $2,310.71; sinking fund, $41,420.80.

Hanlon, it is said, was accompanying a girl to her home, near Kountz avenue, when Dolby and James attacked him. One of the pair, it is claimed, struck Hanlon in the head with a club and then they fled.

CAREY IS NAMED BETHANY CAPTAIN

Alfred M. Carey of Follansbee was elected to the captaincy of the Bethany college football team for the 1926 season. This honor was bestowed at a banquet held in honor of the Bison gridders last Friday evening at Bethany.

Carey has been the Bisons' field general for the past three years and will be one of the ablest men that has ever captained a Bethany team. By virtue of his excellent playing this past season Carey was chosen for a backfield berth on the second Tri-State Conference team. Carey is a three-letter man at Bethany, playing guard on the basketball team and shortstop on the Bison nine besides his football position.

DISTRIBUTE FUNDS TO STATE BANKS

Distribution of state funds as completed December 1, in compliance with the new depository law was the most equitable ever attained according to a statement made yesterday by State Treasurer W. S. Johnson. All funds in the treasury on the above date totalled $10,864,731.52. Of this amount, 40 per cent, or $4,370,048.82, was distributed among active banks, and the remainder of $6,494,682.70, among the inactive banks of the 55 counties on the property assessment basis.

In the case of no county was there a wide divergence between the amount of inactive funds therein deposited and the amount to which the banks of the county were entitled, except that in eight counties the banks themselves were not qualified to receive the full amounts that would otherwise have been available.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS SEEK STATE AID

About 275 districts have made application to the department of education for state aid for the elementary teachers' fund. As soon as these have been audited and the total amount of aid applied for ascertained, distribution will be made, probably in two installments, the second one after the needs of the schools and the finances of the state have been more accurately determined.

This year there is approximately $2,000,000 available, and department officials hope that in addition to the aid for the elementary teachers' fund there may be a small balance for the elementary maintenance fund in districts where, otherwise, the term of school might be cut short.

180 Boys Play Basketball Under New High School System

Job On Varsity Five Players' Incentive

First String Crew Faces Initial Test Friday Against Franklin & Marshall Quintet; Approximately 105 Girls Play Under Similar Plan.

DIVIDED into nine groups of about 20 boys to each group, each squad battling on a competitive basis with promotion to the first crew as the primary objective, high school basketball players—approximately 180 of them—are working out a new court system, according to Athletic Director O. V. Boone, which is designed to produce results, from the first squad down to the last.

Group No. 1 includes members of the varsity cage outfit and a bunch of reserve material.

On Friday night this squad will have its first opportunity to show its stuff in high school's opening cage contest with Franklin & Marshall Academy quintet here.

"They must say it with baskets," asserts Director Boone, "because a lot of players in the lower groups are waiting for opportunity to get into the big swim."

Each of the nine groups are in charge of a faculty representative, the No. 1 outfit being headed by Basketball Coach Lorah. Each has its practice assignments at regular intervals during the week.

Promotion to the next squad ahead is ever the incentive to each of the players of the respective divisions. This applies even to the first team, Director Boone points out. Whenever, for instance, a player on No. 8 group develops enough ability to shadow a member of the premier section, a change will be made in the personnel of those divisions.

On the first of February, interclass tournament play will be started, the classes selecting teams from the players of the various groups now practicing.

A similar system is being worked out in girls' basketball, with Mrs. Hazel Mast, coach, at the head.

Approximately 105 girls are playing the court game, comprising five groups.

And on Friday night, in a preliminary exhibition to the High School-Franklin & Marshall tilt, Mrs. Mast will have her first opportunity to watch her varsity sextet in action. Although in other games of the schedule, outside teams will be selected as foes, it was decided to pit the first team against an all-star aggregation picked from the remaining players in the opener.

M. P.'S DEFEAT BAPTISTS, 35-16

League Champs Score Heavily in Second Half.

The Methodist Protestant Sunday school circuit champions annexed their third consecutive victory of the present campaign last night on the M. P. floor when they downed the Baptists, 35 to 16.

The Baptists lacked endurance to keep pace with the opposition in the final half. In the initial 20 minutes of battle, they held the M. P.'s even, the count at the end of the half being 14-14.

But the Baptists were unable to score a single field goal and made only two fouls in the final half.

Mackey was the scoring star. He dropped in nine double deckers. G. Mackey, Hall and Fugate performed well for the losers.

CHRISTIANS BEAT BOULEVARDS, 29-21

First Christian church basketballers were a little too good for the Park Boulevard lads last night, the Christians copping their first league victory by the count of 29 to 21.

Both teams played good basketball, the winners showing top form in all around team play.

The score book showed a 4-4 tally at the end of the first period, but in the second the College street crew edged into the lead, finishing the half with a 12 to 9 margin. The Boulevards tied it up again at 14-14 in the early part of the third quarter, but the Christians regained the lead when Kilmer and E. Bloor found the basket for enough field goals to boost the count to 20 to 16 at the end of the period, and they maintained the lead until the final whistle.

Kilmer, Reese and R. Bloor starred for the winners while Kirkhams and Hall were active for the Boulevards.

The Christian Juniors trimmed the Baptist Juniors, 25 to 7, in the preliminary.

Hero in Summer Time, But Just Goslin Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Goose Goslin is a hero in Washington from April to October, with his home runs, et cetera, but from October to April he is just a guy named Goslin.

Goose parked his new automobile in a forbidden spot on F street, and a cop who never saw a world's series game haled him into court today for violating one of the capital's million parking regulations. Goose narrowly escaped a night in the district jail because he couldn't find anyone who knew him.

Death Finishes Vivid Career of Man Who Once Licked Carpentier

Siki, his white wife and child, and himself in fighting pose.

By Norman E. Brown.

Twenty-eight years ago—Sept. 16, 1897—the stork stopped a moment in St. Louis, Senegal, French Africa, and left a little dark bundle in the hut of the Phal family.

The other night that bundle, grown to 190 pounds of half-man half-tiger, was found dead in a pool of blood on Forty-fourth street street, New York City.

And in the intervening years he had written a life story that challenges the imagination of a De Maupassant or a Balzac.

That hybrid was Louis Phal, "Battling Siki."

The sporting world knows him as the throw back to the primitive who startled the world some three years ago by knocking out Georges Carpentier, once seeker of Jack Dempsey's crown and the idol of Europe.

The tender age of 10 years found Siki a young tiger cub, so to speak, ebony black, with big pearly teeth, a wide open smile, and the eagerness of youth to "see."

Is Taken To France.

A well-to-do French woman, attracted by the child's smile and love of life, gave him his first chance to see life. Wild-eyed with delight Siki boarded an ocean liner at his seaport town of St. Louis one day and sailed away to France with his benefactor. She bought him handsome clothes, paid lavishly for his education and sought to give him a chance in life.

Her death altered Siki's life over night. He became a wanderer. At the age of 16 he was cleaning out a bar room in Toulouse. He was husky, however, and the wild life of the bar room appealed to him. It was one of the nightly habitues who finally got him his first real fight. That was in 1913. He received just three and a half francs for that fight but the money looked big to young Phal. The world war came — and found Siki eager to get in. Modern methods of fighting mystified him. He began to wonder at the delay in going into actual combat. Through his war days there lurked the desire of his ancestors to wade in, hand, toes, teeth—man's natural weapons.

Siki got his chances, however, though not in the way he sought. He emerged from the conflict the wearer of the croix de guerre and the possessor of a beautiful physique—due to the stringent regulations of the army.

He was in this marvelous shape when a boxing promoter picked him up at the same old bar in Toulouse and took him to Paris. A few fights in the French capital "made Siki." He traveled to Germany and there beat Breitenstrater, the German champ. Spalla, Italy's favorite heavy, proved no match for the Senegalese husky.

"Framed or Not—"

Then came his bout with Carpentier. Decide for yourself whether or not the fight was "framed"—whether the black man was to "lay down" for Carpentier. The result of the fight is known to the sport world. Siki, becoming enraged in the sixth round at Carpentier's tactics, seemed to go wild. Squealing with rage he waded into the French star and battered him to the floor.

That fight gave Siki world fame and opened the door to riches of which the black man had never dreamed.

They say that he loved whisky before that—that he trained on liquor and drank it between rounds. Whether or not this be so, Siki proceeded to invest most of his earnings in whisky and the pleasure that roisterous companions could furnish.

The European sporting circles accepted him. His massive black body, encased in a dress suit, immaculate albeit a trifle incongruous with his bullet head and bulging lips and cheeks, made him an interesting figure. Women in public places were his for the asking. He laughed at all suggestions that his body could not stand the "new civilization" and that his physique would be ruined.

Then came the downfall. Mike McTigue, American and notoriously light hitter, met Siki in Dublin, Ireland, and knocked out the black whirlwind—on the eve of Siki's departure for America and more fame.

His Fighting Degenerates.

Siki finally came to the U. S.—a couple of times. But his fights were jokes. Most of his publicity came from his escapades between the bouts. Midnight brawls left him badly wounded on two or three occasions. Deportation proceedings once threatened to cut short his final trip here.

And then came the end—as riotous a one as Siki could ask.

Twenty-eight years of life—starting in an African village, soaring to its heights in the show places and wild nights of the French capital—

And ending in a pool of blood in the greying hours of a winter night in the public thoroughfares of New York City.

MRS. RUTH DENIES DIVORCE REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Indignant denials that she intended to begin separation proceedings against Babe Ruth was voiced today by Mrs. Ruth at the Concourse Plaza hotel, the Bronx, following the receipt from Boston of reports that a split between the Sultan of Swat and his wife was imminent.

The rumors apparently were an echo of the Babe's now famous escapade last year when a fine of $5,000 was imposed upon him by Miller Huggins, leader of the New York Yankees, for disorderly conduct. At that time, Mrs. Ruth declared she loved her famous husband and would stick by him and today she reiterated that declaration.

Crowley May Quit As Columbia Grid Coach

Not Expected to Return Next Season as Result of Rockne Incident; Now, Instead of Three Prospects, Eastern College Has None.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Having achieved a sensational failure in its attempt to wean at least two nationally famous coaches away from their existing affiliations, Columbia university today arose at the count of nine to a realization of the fact that it must keep blocking the situation with its chin from now until the end of the 1925 football season. Instead of playing around with the idea of accepting the best man among three prospects, Columbia now finds that it has none.

It muffed the Knute Rockne business right out in front of the entire populace. That was one good man gone right.

Another, according to the gossip today, was Andy Smith, coach of the University of California. They say that Andy was properly approached when he was in the east around Thanksgiving day and told to name his own figures.

This didn't mean too much, however, in view of the fact that the campaign on Rockne's doorstep already was being laid locally. They simply planned to play Smith against Rockne and let the worse man lose.

Smith threw the idea for a total liability by signing another contract with California. It is to be presumed that the rally around Rockne followed.

Meanwhile, Columbia seems to have forgotten that it enjoyed its best season of the modern generation under Charley Crowley, a combination product of Notre Dame and Harvard. Crowley's contract expired at the end of the 1925 season.

According to some Columbia men, he intimated that he did not wish to return. On the head of the Rockne incident, there isn't the slightest chance that he will.

Crowley may or may not be headed for Harvard. But, in either case, it isn't unlikely that he would prefer selling rungless stepladders to coaching at Columbia again, after the expose of recent days.

Who, then, for the job? That is Columbia's problem, not ours. At this stage of the proceedings, there isn't a successful coach available.

This, in view of Columbia's rather obvious designs upon the personal property of other institutions, would seem very much a case of the biter bitten, if it wasn't for one fact; it is more like the kidnapper kidded.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

The Pavement That Meets the Challenge of Traffic

Your own observation and experience will tell you that the road which was good enough twenty years ago, or perhaps even ten years ago, simply will not do today.

It lacks the strength, the rigidity and the firmness necessary to withstand the terrific wear and tear of motor transportation.

Only pavement will do this. And the pavement that meets all tests is concrete.

Built in accordance with approved standards of highway construction, the concrete pavement remains free of ruts and bumps, year after year.

Requiring practically no maintenance, it costs less in the end than any other pavement.

Isn't that the kind your community ought to have? Then let your local authorities know that you want your highways paved with concrete.

Our free booklet, "Concrete Facts about Pavements," will be sent promptly on request. Write for it today.

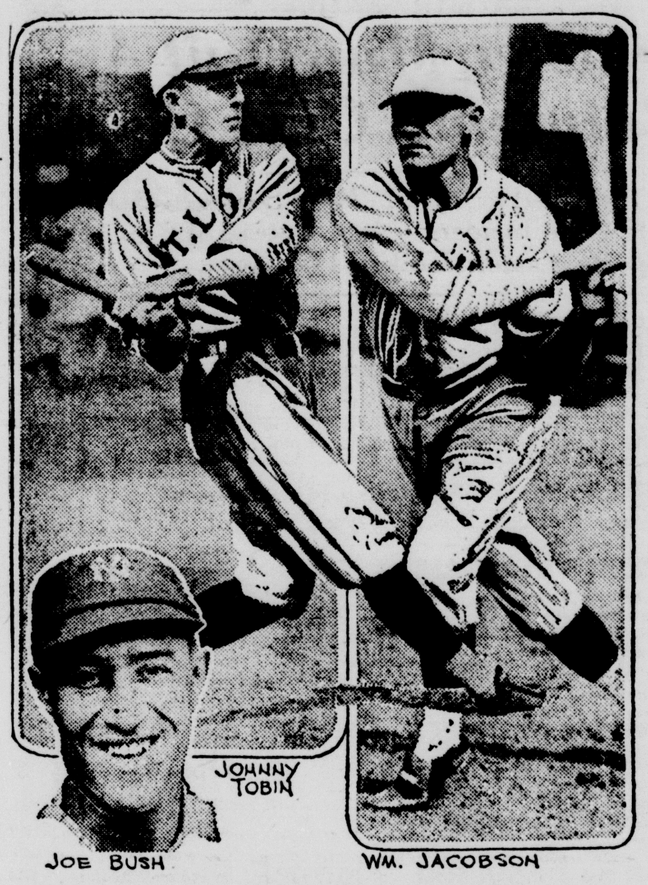
Sisler May Unload Three Veterans to Further Strengthen Brownies



Realizing that such youngsters as Rice, Bennett, Dixon, Gaston and Giard helped make his team a much improved one last season, Manager Sisler of the Browns, it is said, will unload more veterans before another season, and replace them with youngsters. Bill Jacobson, Johnny Tobin and Joe Bush are three of those slated to go between now and next April.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN B BROWN

Joe McCarthy, new leader of the Chicago Cubs, has crossed up the corner managers of that team by not only announcing his intention of retaining most of the lefthanded batters now on the club but in expressing a desire to acquire more first base side hitters.

The complaint made against the offensive strength of the Cublets last season was that the lefties failed to hit righthanded pitching as obedient children should.

McCarthy says maybe so, but he wants lefthanders who can sock any old kind of pitching, because when a southpaw batter does connect he stands a better chance of getting to first. He's several feet nearer the bag, to start with, and the balls he hits to or through the infield are harder to handle because more of them go to the left of the fielder.

McCarthy figures that the matter of timely and efficient hitting and that of finding a shortstop who can fill Rabbit Maranville's shoes are the major problems facing the Cubs —and Joe McCarty.

Owner Wrigley has announced he stands ready to spend a million dollars to make the Cubs a pennant winning outfit. But the tough job is left to McCarthy and the team scouts—that of finding material worth buying and which can be purchased.

Club owners have found that one buys a lot of raspberries by selling a star for out and out cash. The financial problems of a given team do not mean much to the fan. He pays to see baseball.

"Whitey" Witt, who sold himself to the Brooklyn Dodgers the other day, says: "The Brooklyn club treated me handsomely. I received a certain amount for my release and Uncle Robbie offered me a liberal salary, which I accepted."

CITY THROVE ON SEAL POACHING

Once Bustling Aleutian Metropolis, Now Slumbers.

Seattle.—Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutian islands of Alaska, once a military rendezvous of four nations, is like a dead city.

Before the fur treaty was signed by the United States, England, Russia and Japan in 1911, Dutch Harbor was an outpost of intrigue. In 1893, when seal poaching was at its peak, America maintained five cutters and four gunboats there, while the British had three gunboats, the Japanese and Russians several war vessels.

During poachers roamed the seas. Probably the best known was Alec MacLean, the Wolf Larson of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." His last trip to the Arctic was made on the Schooner Comaneita, a vessel masquerading under forged Mexican papers.

One of his best known exploits was when he eluded a pursuing cutter and anchored two barrels of sealskins to a buoy. Later he returned and picked them up.

In 1911 all governments involved in the seal industries agreed to handle the killings themselves. Guards were stationed at the rookeries and sealing-at-sea was made unlawful. This treaty was drawn to run 15 years. The pact is expected to be renewed next year.

At present the entire patrol is carried on by four American coast-guard cutters.

HUDSON-ESSEX CARS A-1 BUY

Price Reduction But One Factor in Sales Record.

"Price reductions in Hudson and Essex cars, while undoubtedly of great importance, have been but one factor in the tremendous growth of 1925 business for these cars," says Ray Birch, distributor in the East Liverpool area.

"The great question," he continued, "is not how much you shall pay, but rather the more important fact of how much you get for your money. The modern automobile is fundamentally individual transportation, and regardless of price, the real worth of present Hudson-Essex cars lies in the fact that they offer more transportation value at less operating cost and greater comfort than any cars this concern has ever previously made.

"Entirely disregard the matter of price for a minute and view the matter in this light of value alone. Hudson-Essex cars today are used by a vast majority of people to whom transportation is a necessary and vital factor in their every-day occupation.

"The transportation involves three primary factors: First, the ability to go from place to place without interruption or breakdown; second, to cover these distances at a reasonable cost; third, to cover these distances with physical comfort. It is in meeting these three primary requisites that Hudson-Essex offer their outstanding values.

"As the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world, their success has been largely due to the fact that they early realized that these things were the fundamentals in automobile values.

"This success has brought tremendous increase of business, and this increase has made possible a lowering of price, until today these cars are selling for less than half of prices when the Hudson-Essex started as the great closed-car specialist of the industry.

Bogus U. S. Dollars Turned Out in Sofia By Skillful German

SOFIA.—A huge counterfeiting organization has been discovered by the police, who have arrested thirty men, including a young German, who was brought to Sofia because of his skill in manufacturing bank-notes.

A large number of counterfeit American silver dollars were seized, but they had been poorly executed and no effort had been made to put them in circulation. The counterfeiters were successful, however, in manufacturing and circulating thousands of dollars of Bulgarian banknotes. Some of those arrested are employees of the government printing office.

A special aviation committee will report to the house of representatives that the national aviation situation is alarming. It will say that this nation does not realize the importance of air power, that we need to spend money and get action.

The nation will be grateful for that report, even if it should be overruled finally by decisions of the "big butter and egg men" that are chosen to run aviation for the United States.

To know that you are in danger is at least the beginning of wisdom.

Mussolini's name was hissed by a crowd in New York that doubtless meant well. But New York is a long way from Italy, and the New York crowd was a long way from understanding Mussolini's and Italy's problems.

When the war ended Italy had her choice of imitating Russia or submitting to Mussolini's strong hand. Under his direction Italy has kept her men at work, her women and children fed. Italy has retained the respect of other European nations and has known how to enforce her rights. And under Mussolini the Italian lire is worth more than the French franc.

As the French franc continues to fall, many in France demand the establishment of a dictatorship on the Mussolini plan.

The French have a proverb: "Great evils require [illegible]." Many remedies might be more dangerous than Mussolini.

BODIES FOUND WHEN BARKING DOG AWAKENS MURDERESS' KIN

Philadelphia Woman Kills Boy, 14, in Their Apartment.

FAREWELL NOTE

Double Tragedy Occurs While Aged Mother is Asleep.

"Better Off," Says Note.

Their bodies—scantily clad—were found when the continued barking of a pet dog aroused Mrs. Nepham's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, 65, who was asleep in the front room.

Pinned to the boy's pajamas was the following note addressed to Mrs. Palmer in her daughter's handwriting:

"I am sorry but please try and think we are better off. I had the best reasons in the world and the only thing I regret is leaving you alone.

"Aunt Ida will come to you. Go to her. I love you, dear. Please try to think we are both much better off. Lovingly, Blanche."

Spread of Smallpox Believed Checked; Seven Quarantined

With seven cases under quarantine at the present time, city health officials today were confident that they had checked the spread of smallpox.

The supply of antitoxin has been depleted, but a new supply is expected today or tomorrow.

Since the outbreak two weeks ago, nine cases have been discovered.

A new case of scarlet fever was reported yesterday, the victim being Martha S. Sloan, 10, of 514 Monroe street. There is but one other case of scarlet fever under quarantine. Two cases of measles, both reported in mild form, have been reported.

JOSIAH KIRBY CASE GOES TO FEDERAL JURY IN CLEVELAND

Defense Counsel Makes 50 Exceptions to Judge's Charge.

FRAUD ALLEGED

"Read Kirby's Mind," Killits Suggests to Jurors.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16.—The case of the government against Josiah Kirby, former head of the Cleveland Discount company, went to the jury at 12:15 p. m. today.

Luther Day, chief counsel for Kirby, made approximately 50 exceptions to Judge Killits' charge to the jury, and said that part of the charge was in fact an argument for the government.

Two Forms of Verdict.

Judge Killits, when he sent the jury to their room to reach a verdict, gave them two forms of verdict—one of guilty and one of not guilty. He told the jury to decide on each of the 15 counts and to mark each count guilty or not guilty even if the final verdict is guilty.

The jury took with them a copy of the indictment and a push-truck load of the Cleveland Discount company's books.

Defense counsel said that if a verdict of guilty is returned, they would take the case to court of appeals at Cincinnati for a review of the records taken in the government's case and that court will decide whether defense counsel's many exceptions to Judge Killits' charge were well founded.

A distinct blow to the defense was scored in Judge Killits' charge when he explained that the Cleveland Discount Co.'s books did not reflect the concern's true financial condition and that Kirby, while he was not the company but its head, was responsible for all the company's proceedings of business.

In his charge, Judge Killits warned the jurors to "read Kirby's mind" and determine the purpose behind the publication of the alleged false financial statements which he is charged with sending through the United States mails with intentions of promoting a fraudulent scheme.

Judge Killits cited the Cleveland Discount company's three final building projects as significant to the present case. He said the company was apparently in no financial condition to undertake these projects. They were the north and south Shaker and Moreland Height, Cleveland, propects.

"A store keeper or business man, in our judgment, would not list his stock on hand in his books at its retail value. He would list it at cost value," declared the judge. "Kirby's company used anticipatory profit to bolster the financial statements, according to testimony given in the trial."

15 are Rescued, 20 Others Flee in New York City Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Fifteen persons were carried down ladders from the top floor of a blazing five-story tenement in St. Nicholas avenue early today, after 120 others had escaped to the snow-covered streets in nightclothes.

MOSCOW, Dec. 16.—Bandits are wary of Irene Chaliapin today.

Mademoiselle Chaliapin, a 24-year-old actress and daughter of Fedor Chaliapin, the operatic singer now in the United States, was attacked by two bandits in the center of Moscow early today.

The young actress succeeded in laying one of the bandits low and then gave chase to the other who fled after seeing the punishment administered to his comrade.

Spotlight is Turned Upon Immunity of Diplomats.

DRY LAW DEBATE

Blease Leads Fight; Willis Predicts "Wet" Defeat.

BY WILIAM K. HUCTHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The congressional flare-up over prohibition turned its spotlight upon diplomatic liquors today when Senator Cole Blease, D., of South Carolina, announced a campaign to enforce the dry law against all foreign embassies, legations and consulates.

In an attack upon the immunity of diplomats to the dry law, Blease announced the regulations of the state department and internal revenue bureau which allow ambassadors, ministers and consuls of foreign nations to import choice liquors, rare wines and strong beer. He declared he would force a vote in congress upon an amendment to the Volstead Act, which would make diplomatic circles just as amenable to American prohibition as are American citizens.

Wets Prepare for Assault.

Echoes of the prohibition debate, which shook the senate on the heels of a demand by Senator Edge, R., of New Jersey, for enactment of a 2.75 per cent beer bill, were heard throughout the capitol today. The wet bloc in the house announced it would direct an assault upon the Volstead Aact and its defects as soon as debate is fixed upon the tax bill. Representative James A. Gallivan, D., of Massachusetts, and Representative John Philip Hill, R., of Maryland, will lead the

With extreme difficulty firemen saved adjoining buildings. The fire was discovered at 5 a. m. and within an hour the six-story structure was ravaged.

Two Autos Stolen During Last 36 Hours Reported Recovered

Two automobiles stolen here during the last 36 hours were reported recovered by the police today, both of them having been stripped.

A Ford coupe, belonging to Prof. J. A. Monasky, part-time teacher in the schools, stolen while parked near the First Methodist Protestant church, Jackson stret, last night, was located near the James McIntosh farm on the Lincoln highway, six miles north of here. Five tires, tools and other equipment on the machine were stolen, the motormeter broken and the car otherwise damaged.

Another Ford coupe, belonging to T. F. Cain, Green lane machinist, which was stolen Monday evening, was also located in the vicinity of Stop 55.

GARY WILLS, ROTARY SPEAKER, URGES 'SQUARE DEAL' FOR STREET RAILWAYS AND ELIMINATION OF 'BURDENSOME FRANCHISE REGULATIONS'

A plea for "a square deal" for street railway and the elimination of "burdensome franchise regulations" was made by Gary Mills, superintendent of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company in an address on "Public Utilities," with refernce to the street car business at yesterday's Rotary club luncheon.

Pointing out that during the period between 1917 and 1923, street railways hauled an increase of 30 percent more passengers than the previous six years, Wills said that the "outlook for your railways the country over was never more encouraging than now."

"The last time it was my privilege and pleasure to talk to Rotarians on this subject was at Moundsville, W. Va." he said. "While in the assembly room and before going in to luncheon, I heard some one remark: "Well, I suppose we are in for a poor-mouth story concerning the darned poverty stricken railways." It is a peculiar fact that your railways have come to be looked upon as a material thing, as a so-called soul-less corporate being, instead of what we really are—a human endeavor, an industry ranking among the foremost of the nation and operated by men and women no different from those devoting their lives to any other industry; men and women who can look God in the face without fear and any man in the eye without servility.

"We don't ask for or need sympathy, but we merit your consideration and it is my purpose to prove to you that it will be to your advantage to give it.

Railway Like Arteries of Body.

"Your railways may be likened unto the arteries of the human body. As the human body, for its vigor and health, depends upon the free circulation of lifes-blood through its veins and arteries, so does the vigor and commercial health of any community depend upon its transportation arteries. Let the veins of the human body harden or be injured and the flow of blood is restricted, we slow up, we stagnate and finally we die. The same thing is true identically in the matter of any communities transportation arteries. Hammer them, injure them, restrict them and the commercial activities of your communities stagnate and atrofy.

"It is apparently a common human trait for every man to feel that his business or the particular business game in life that he is playing is different from any other line or branch of endeavor. Well, the railway game is actually different.

"Do you remember the time as boys when we used to go down to the old swimming hole, and after a good swim, we'd stretch out on our backs to enjoy that soothing relaxation of youths resiliant muscles. Yes, and nine times out of ten, our physical well being would start ambitious minds building air castles; air castles of the fortunes we would make and the many other things we would do when we grew up to turn the world upside down.

"Well, let's just imagine ourselves there right now, and that Aladdin came along and provided the money, the wherewith-all to make our start.

Thinking in Terms of Turn-over.

"Knowing as much as we now do, most of us no doubt would think of going into business and mind you not necessarily the kind of business we are now in. We would begin to think in terms of annual turn-over and probably analyze on that basis the different kinds of business that we might undertake. We would find that in some business ventures, a very large proportion of our capital would be sunk in furnishings, equipment, machinery, buildings and plant and that a relatively small proportion only would be needed for investment in our stock in trade. On the other hand, other business ventures would require a small comparative investment in plant and a very large investment in stock in trade.

"Going from one extreme to another, we would find that the baker, for instance, would turn his merchandising or stock in trade capital, over several hundred times a year. Furthermore, his plant investment compared with his total annual business, his yearly gross sales, would be relatively small. The baker distributes, if he be a good baker, fresh bread daily. His merchandise turn-over in bread is in excess of 300 times a year—to be exact 365¼ times a year. If a profit of only one-fifth on one per cent were made at each baking, or in other words, on each merchandising turn-over, his annual profit would be a trifle over 73 per cent.

Investment in Business

"In the grocery business his turnover of merchandising capital would be from three to four times a year, unless his ambition led him into the chain store 'cash and carry' business, and then his turn-over would be from 10 to 12 times a year. In the department store, his turn-over would be from three to four times a year.

"On the other hand, in the railway business, he would find that it requires an investment in physical plant before he is ready to do business of between

The jury took with them a copy of the indictment and a push-truck load of the Cleveland Discount company's books.

Defense counsel said that if a verdict of guilty is returned, they would take the case to court of appeals at Cincinnati for a review of the records taken in the government's case and that court will decide whether defense counsel's many exceptions to Judge Killits' charge were well founded.

A distinct blow to the defense was scored in Judge Killits' charge when he explained that the Cleveland Discount Co.'s books did not reflect the concern's true financial condition and that Kirby, while he was not the company but its head, was responsible for all the company's proceedings of business.

In his charge, Judge Killits warned the jurors to "read Kirby's mind" and determine the purpose behind the publication of the alleged false financial statements which he is charged with sending through the United States mails with intentions of promoting a fraudulent scheme.

Judge Killits cited the Cleveland Discount company's three final building projects as significant to the present case. He said the company was apparently in no financial condition to undertake these projects. They were the north and south Shaker and Moreland Height, Cleveland, propects.

"A store keeper or business man, in our judgment, would not list his stock on hand in his books at its retail value. He would list it at cost value," declared the judge. "Kirby's company used anticipatory profit to bolster the financial statements, according to testimony given in the trial."

DRY LAW DEBATE

Blease Leads Fight; Willis Predicts "Wet" Defeat.

BY WILIAM K. HUCTHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The congressional flare-up over prohibition turned its spotlight upon diplomatic liquors today when Senator Cole Blease, D., of South Carolina, announced a campaign to enforce the dry law against all foreign embassies, legations and consulates.

In an attack upon the immunity of diplomats to the dry law, Blease announced the regulations of the state department and internal revenue bureau which allow ambassadors, ministers and consuls of foreign nations to import choice liquors, rare wines and strong beer. He declared he would force a vote in congress upon an amendment to the Volstead Act, which would make diplomatic circles just as amenable to American prohibition as are American citizens.

Wets Prepare for Assault.

Echoes of the prohibition debate, which shook the senate on the heels of a demand by Senator Edge, R., of New Jersey, for enactment of a 2.75 per cent beer bill, were heard throughout the capitol today. The wet bloc in the house announced it would direct an assault upon the Volstead Aact and its defects as soon as debate is fixed upon the tax bill. Representative James A. Gallivan, D., of Massachusetts, and Representative John Philip Hill, R., of Maryland, will lead the

GARY WILLS, ROTARY SPEAKER, URGES 'SQUARE DEAL' FOR STREET RAILWAYS AND ELIMINATION OF 'BURDENSOME FRANCHISE REGULATIONS'

A plea for "a square deal" for street railway and the elimination of "burdensome franchise regulations" was made by Gary Mills, superintendent of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company in an address on "Public Utilities," with refernce to the street car business at yesterday's Rotary club luncheon.

Pointing out that during the period between 1917 and 1923, street railways hauled an increase of 30 percent more passengers than the previous six years, Wills said that the "outlook for your railways the country over was never more encouraging than now."

"The last time it was my privilege and pleasure to talk to Rotarians on this subject was at Moundsville, W. Va." he said. "While in the assembly room and before going in to luncheon, I heard some one remark: "Well, I suppose we are in for a poor-mouth story concerning the darned poverty stricken railways." It is a peculiar fact that your railways have come to be looked upon as a material thing, as a so-called soul-less corporate being, instead of what we really are—a human endeavor, an industry ranking among the foremost of the nation and operated by men and women no different from those devoting their lives to any other industry; men and women who can look God in the face without fear and any man in the eye without servility.

"We don't ask for or need sympathy, but we merit your consideration and it is my purpose to prove to you that it will be to your advantage to give it.

Railway Like Arteries of Body.

"Your railways may be likened unto the arteries of the human body. As the human body, for its vigor and health, depends upon the free circulation of lifes-blood through its veins and arteries, so does the vigor and commercial health of any community depend upon its transportation arteries. Let the veins of the human body harden or be injured and the flow of blood is restricted, we slow up, we stagnate and finally we die. The same thing is true identically in the matter of any communities transportation arteries. Hammer them, injure them, restrict them and the commercial activities of your communities stagnate and atrofy.

"It is apparently a common human trait for every man to feel that his business or the particular business game in life that he is playing is different from any other line or branch of endeavor. Well, the railway game is actually different.

"Do you remember the time as boys when we used to go down to the old swimming hole, and after a good swim, we'd stretch out on our backs to enjoy that soothing relaxation of youths resiliant muscles. Yes, and nine times out of ten, our physical well being would start ambitious minds building air castles; air castles of the fortunes we would make and the many other things we would do when we grew up to turn the world upside down.

"Well, let's just imagine ourselves there right now, and that Aladdin came along and provided the money, the wherewith-all to make our start.

Thinking in Terms of Turn-over.

"Knowing as much as we now do, most of us no doubt would think of going into business and mind you not necessarily the kind of business we are now in. We would begin to think in terms of annual turn-over and probably analyze on that basis the different kinds of business that we might undertake. We would find that in some business ventures, a very large proportion of our capital would be sunk in furnishings, equipment, machinery, buildings and plant and that a relatively small proportion only would be needed for investment in our stock in trade. On the other hand, other business ventures would require a small comparative investment in plant and a very large investment in stock in trade.

"Going from one extreme to another, we would find that the baker, for instance, would turn his merchandising or stock in trade capital, over several hundred times a year. Furthermore, his plant investment compared with his total annual business, his yearly gross sales, would be relatively small. The baker distributes, if he be a good baker, fresh bread daily. His merchandise turn-over in bread is in excess of 300 times a year—to be exact 365¼ times a year. If a profit of only one-fifth on one per cent were made at each baking, or in other words, on each merchandising turn-over, his annual profit would be a trifle over 73 per cent.

Investment in Business

"In the grocery business his turnover of merchandising capital would be from three to four times a year, unless his ambition led him into the chain store 'cash and carry' business, and then his turn-over would be from 10 to 12 times a year. In the department store, his turn-over would be from three to four times a year.

"On the other hand, in the railway business, he would find that it requires an investment in physical plant before he is ready to do business of between

HIGH SCHOOLS IN STATE INCREASE

This year there are 233 classified high schools in West Virginia, as compared to 218 for the school year of 1924-25, according to a compilation just completed by L. O. Taylor, supervisor of high schools, state department of education.

For the most part the 15 new schools have been established in rural communities where high schools had not been previously accessible to the great majority of boys and girls. "A scanning of the list of classified schools," says Mr. Taylor, "shows a marked tendency to extend the secondary schools into sections that have hitherto shown little interest in secondary education.

The newly established high schools are at:

Sharples, Logan, county; Baileysville, Wyoming county; Coalwood and War, McDowell county; London, (Negro) Kanawha county; Oakvale and Lerona, Mercer county; Aracoma, (Negro) Logan county; Buckhannon, Upshur county; Pax, Fayette county, Pruntytown, Taylor county; Seth, Boone county; Tanner and Troy, Gilmer county; Winfield, Putnam county.

GAS COMPANIES PAY HEAVY TAXES

Sixty-three oil and gas companies, the assessed valuation of which, by reason of their pipe line connections and the nature of their business, is made by the board of public works this year will pay to the state in direct taxes $2,343,417.48. For the maintenance of the public service commission, the same company will pay $17,009.91.

At the head of the list is the Hope Natural Gas company, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, which will pay $670 912.73. In second place is the United Fuel Gas company, whose 1925 tax bill is $429,445.81. These two companies, it will be noted, will pay almost as much as the other 61 companies. The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas company will pay $186,779.45, whil the bill of Manufacturers' Light and Heat company will be within $1,000 of that amount.

The figures were compiled by John M. Miller, chief of the taxation department of the state auditor's office.

Belief in witchcraft is not dead. In England only a few months ago a man was sentenced t oa month's imprisonment for assaulting a woman by thrusting a long pin into her arm. The accused admitted the offense, but declared that the woman had bewitched his pig. To draw blood from a witch, he said, was the only way to outwit her.

HIGH SCHOOLS IN STATE INCREASE

This year there are 233 classified high schools in West Virginia, as compared to 218 for the school year of 1924-25, according to a compilation just completed by L. O. Taylor, supervisor of high schools, state department of education.

For the most part the 15 new schools have been established in rural communities where high schools had not been previously accessible to the great majority of boys and girls. "A scanning of the list of classified schools," says Mr. Taylor, "shows a marked tendency to extend the secondary schools into sections that have hitherto shown little interest in secondary education.

The newly established high schools are at:

Sharples, Logan, county; Baileysville, Wyoming county; Coalwood and War, McDowell county; London, (Negro) Kanawha county; Oakvale and Lerona, Mercer county; Aracoma, (Negro) Logan county; Buckhannon, Upshur county; Pax, Fayette county, Pruntytown, Taylor county; Seth, Boone county; Tanner and Troy, Gilmer county; Winfield, Putnam county.

How She Gained 10 Pounds in 22 Days

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

As chock full fo vitamines as the nasty, fishy-tasting cod liver oil itself, but these sugar-coated, tasteless tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in 22 days. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Ask Mathews' Medicine Store or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and if you don't gain at least five pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid them.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine."

GAS COMPANIES PAY HEAVY TAXES

Sixty-three oil and gas companies, the assessed valuation of which, by reason of their pipe line connections and the nature of their business, is made by the board of public works this year will pay to the state in direct taxes $2,343,417.48. For the maintenance of the public service commission, the same company will pay $17,009.91.

At the head of the list is the Hope Natural Gas company, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, which will pay $670,912.73. In second place is the United Fuel Gas company, whose 1925 tax bill is $429,445.81. These two companies, it will be noted, will pay almost as much as the other 61 companies. The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas company will pay $186,779.45, whil the bill of Manufacturers' Light and Heat company will be within $1,000 of that amount.

The figures were compiled by John M. Miller, chief of the taxation department of the state auditor's office.

Belief in witchcraft is not dead. In England only a few months ago a man was sentenced t oa month's imprisonment for assaulting a woman by thrusting a long pin into her arm. The accused admitted the offense, but declared that the woman had bewitched his pig. To draw blood from a witch, he said, was the only way to outwit her.

MARRIAGE LAW UNDER FIRE IN SOVIET TOWNS

STATUTE STANDS

Automatic Divorce Regulation is Object of Attack.

MOSCOW.—Multiple matrimony versus monogamy is the most burning question today in Russia since the executive committee of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet republic at its second session just closed here referred to the people for consideration the new marriage and divorce laws which were to have been embodied in the civil code.

Debates on the subject are now going on in workshop committees, trade unions, schools, village soviets, and in all of the innumerable organizations for public discussion which are a characteristic feature of Soviet Russian life.

After public opinion has had a chance to express itself, the Executive committee at its next session will again take up the law, and probably will pass it substantially as it is now, since the government has declared that objectionable though some of the results of the law may be, it is the only feasible way of reducing the "new morality" to legal form.

Opposition a Surprise.

The whirl-wind of opposition which developed when the law came up for discussion on the floor of the committee was a complete surprise to the government which had expected immediate ratification of the bill.

Most of the objections came from the very kernel of the Soviet organization, from the workers and peasants. The so-called "intelligentsia," had little to say, but the working men and women, and especially the peasants, registered protests which indicated the "new morality" has not yet taken as much hold upon the broad mass of the Russian people as some of the Soviet authorities had believed.

The chief targets of popular attack were the divorce regulations providing for automatic divorce upon application even if contested by the other partner and that clause in the law which provides that unregistered marriages shall be legally the same as registered marriages, in other words, that marriage defacto is also marriage de jure. The divorce clause is virtually the same as the one now in force. The other clause, however, is new. It is a bolshevik adaptation of the old English "common law marriage" with the important distinction that, instead of requiring a period of one or two years to establish marriage, it requires but one or two days.

The government, in the person of Commissar of Justice Kursky, maintains that the clause in question is really an obstacle to "many marriages." Defending his bill on the floor of the committee, Comrade Kursky said, "Previously there were no responsibilities for marriage de facto. Now we make a man who enters a defacto marriage just as responsible as though he registered his marriage. De tell him 'You will have to answer for this.' Thus we increase the inconvenience of a marriage de facto, and every man who enters one now will have to thing of it more seriously.'

But the critics from the factories and fields attacked Comrade Kurskey's theoretical defense with concrete examples of how the already existing laws have increased the number of divorces and made "serial polygamy" frequent.

Mrs. Pasinkova, a woman worker in the Committee, registered a practical objection, declaring "men and women have become too free already. I believe it is necessary to limit some of this freedom between the sexes. Some men nowadays have twenty wives, living with each one or two weeks and have by each a child. If you make him responsible for the support of all of these children, you have to take his skin off. Even then he can't do it, and you have children thrown out on the streets, homeless."

Agreeing with this point, other representatives blamed the lax marriage laws for the tremendous number of homeless children in Russia, of whom 300,000 swarm the streets, and are the chief recruits for the criminal classes. Even one member of the government, Comrade Beloborodova, Commissar of Internal Affairs of the R. S. F. S. R., said, "Not a small share of the responsibility for the homeless children may be ascribed to the fact that the family falls apart too quickly."

Nearly 520,000 motorcycles are in use in Great Britain, which has more of the "put-put" machines than nay other country.

Most "Egyptian" cigarettes are really Turkish, as very little tobacco is grown in Egypt.

"Bringing Up Father" Comes to Ceramic Saturday.

Unusual interest is being manifested in the next Saturday's attraction at the Ceramic theatre. The occasion will mark the first appearance of the latest of the "Bringing Up Father" series, entitled, "Bringing Up Father in Gay New York." This is the same offering that was enthusiastically received at the Lyric theatre, New York, a leading Broadway playhouse. All the beloved characters created by George McManus will be seen, including, of course the immortal Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and the rest of the mischievous "bunch" who have helped in making these world-famous comics an indisputed joy. The new play, with its unprecedented array of novelties, surprises, screams and other inimitable ingredients found exclusively in "Father" shows will be interpreted by an exceptional cast. The piece, which is the joint work of Nat LeRoy and Seymour Furth, is in two acts and six scenes. Twenty pretty chorus ladies, all becomingly and resplendently gowned, are one of the outstanding features.

According to a new rule of the Chinese Eastern railway, all bids for construction work must be in the Russian language as well as in the native language of the border.

More Rubber

Beginning on February 1 the present export limit on British rubber in Malaya and Ceylon will be lifted for three months. The limit stands now at 85 per cent of production, which in itself represents a considerable loosening up from the drastic restriction in force some months ago. There was a 10 per cent drop November 1. The additional 15 per cent allowed should do much to relieve the American rubber situation and check the upward trend of prices for automobile tires and other rubber products, if it does not bring a reduction.

The British government, which controls the situation, explains that it takes this action to moderate the soaring prices, which have gone higher than is necessary for the producers of crude rubber to make a fair profit.

Possibly it has been influenced still more by protests of the United States government, and by preparations made by American rubber manufacturers to grow their own rubber in Liberia, the Philippines and tropical and semi-tropical regions nearer home.

The natural effect of British monopolistic methods, if long continued, would be to inspire American rubber production on a scale vast enough to ruin the British rubber plantations. This is the natural working of economic law. Nature, which "abhors a vacuum," also abhors a monopoly.

British Debt And Pride

George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain, declares that British business is in a very bad way—so bad that he doesn't believe the British can meet the debt payments to which they have obligated themselves. He therefore suggests that the British settlement be revised and the debt reduced, as it has been in the case of other debtors, notably Italy.

Now, the British would like very much to have their debt reduced. They have always thought that, everything considered, it was unfair to hold them for all the principal and most of the accrued interest on their war borrowings. But will they ask for a debt reduction? Not while the Bank of England stands. Their pride rises up and chokes their utterance at the very suggestion, especially from their chief editor, that they are not able to pay. Industry and trade over there may be in a bad way, but they'll show whether they can pay or not!

It is an admirable mood for a debtor, as viewed from the creditor's standpoint. Yet the suggestion is one that the United States government may find it desirable to consider sooner or later. As matters stand, the situation is a bit embarrassing for the American debt-refunding commission, and for its congressional master.

The commission, doubtless moved thereto by congress, declared on making the British settlement that it would treat all debtors alike. It has abandoned that policy as far as specific terms go, leaving Britain at a disadvantage. Its new policy is to settle for whatever it considers the debtors able to pay. Now treating debtors alike would mean, logically, the extension of this policy to Great Britain.

The Prince's Jobs

A few hard-to-please Britons are always urging that the Prince of Wales "settle down to something serious and prepare himself for the duties of state."

It seems a foolish demand in the eyes of the Toronto Globe. That newspaper rises to the royal traveler's defense with a statement of the important and worthy and serious duties he has already performed.

First, it says, in regard to his globe-trotting, he is probably the best ambassador to foreign lands that the British Empire has had in many a year. He is the cheeriest bond of sympathy imaginable among the sister nations of the British Empire. He more than "earns his keep" as an advertising man. And in addition to those things, declares his Canadian admirer, he is a corking good farmer and business man. His ranch in Alberta is not merely a whim or a beautiful gesture to the Canadian people. It is a paying proposition where very fine stock is raised and the most up-to-date ranch methods are used.

If he ever becomes king it should feel like a vacation to this active young diplomat, salesman, publicity man, business man and rancher.

Thousands of Laws

The number of new laws enacted by state legislatures in 1925 reaches the sad and ludicrous total of 13,080. The legislature of North Carolina is responsible for 1,173 of these. A few other states ran up close to 1,000 apiece. And now the national congress is assembled to do its bit.

It seems obvious that 13,080 new laws are too many for one year. It is doubtful whether all of these laws will become effective or whether more than a few of them will at all increase the efficiency of the states or the health and happiness of the citizens concerned.

The crime wave cannot, of course, be attributed wholly or even largely to a single cause. But it is likely that the multiplicity of laws coming almost all the time from the legal hoppers of city councils, state legislatures and the federal congress most confuse rather than simplify the duties and rights of honest citizens and present greater opportunities for mischief to deliberate lawbreakers.

"Stinky" Davis— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—There are a dozen collegiates who have stepped from the campus into $25,000 a year jobs in Gotham. They are very much "on their own" and won their place without parental pull. Knowledge they acquired at college is paying golden dividends.

I've chucked my last chuckle at a raccoon coat and saxophone. For these seem to be their sole equipments for a joust with wife. The lads are saxophonists with sundry high-priced jazz bands that appear at several different places during the day.

They mave from cafe, teas and dinners to movies and supper clubs, and at least a dozen are said to be making the $25,000 fee. Two in Ben Bernie's band hover around that mark and three in the orchestra of Senor Lopez, a grandee from the ancient Spanish city of Brooklyn, do the same.

All are collegiates who have achieved eminence of Jap valets, Park avenue apartments and low slung roadsters just a few months after graduation. When Roger Wolfe Kahn, scion of New York's richest banker and most prolific banquet orator, captains a jazz band it seems time indeed to take jazz symphonies seriously.

Only recently when young Kahn was the center of a public demonstration, Kahn, pere, embraced him and in a burst of pardonable enthusiasm, cried: "I can underwrite him for all I've got."

Hale Byers, a few years removed from an Illinois college campus, is garnering $600 a week as a saxophone orchestra leader at the nightly exercises conducted by Barney Galant in his village stadium. Paul Whiteman has two saxophonists making $25,000 a year.

Next in the high-salaried range of jazz are banjoists—a facile accomplishment usually mastered at institutions of learning. Quite a number of them are making $20,000 a year and, of course, Whiteman, Bernie, Lopez, et al, are making a larger salary than our president as conductors.

Members of the band in our town received 50 cents each for the weekly Wednesday evening concerts in the public square, and they had to rehearse on Monday and Saturday evenings over the Leopold Frank saloon—quite a hardship, for there was always so much doing on the floor below—including free pretzels.

At one of those phoney teas where everybody gets "ginny," a woman stuck her head out a window and yelled for the police. A couple of them came. It was explained to them the crowd had merely run out of boy friends and thought this was the quickest way to gather substitutes. The officers, it is related, remained for a cup of tea.

Dancing teachers say the Charleston saved many hoofing academies from bankruptcy. Instructors saw a lean winter ahead. The tango had mastered the fox trot and other simple dances. It took a new and intricate dance to turn the tide and the Charleston, swept in from the levee, did it. It is stated it will never become popular because of its intricacy. Yet everybody has seemed to take a whirl at the dance, from girls in the factory lofts to the Park avenue debutante. It has not found favor in public dance halls, but brave exponents often try it in fashionable supper clubs. The real Charleston, however, is seen in the cabarets of the Black Belt in Harlem. Here sepia exponents make it a poetry of motion for the slummers from downtown. It is said only the darkey is able to master the dance as it should be done.

That the Charleston is not going to die without a struggle is evidenced by the fact that two instructors have sailed to Paris upon insistent demands of those eager to learn it over there.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

America's Powder Magazine.—1.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Lying like a huge suspension bridge, one end of which is fastened to North America and the other to old Asia, the Alaska Peninsula and the Aleutian Islands describe a tremendous geographic arc across the North Pacific. Atop it lies the Bering Sea, which appears to be so heavy as to weight down the bridge so that the arc it describes is almost perfect.

It is an out of the way place. The beaten sea paths of mariners are far to the south and the ships that pass are those phantoms of northern waters that ply in search of fur, whale blubber, and other products that the Arctic affords. To the east and southeast the ships from the United States skirt the coast to Alaska, but they rarely deviate to include the peninsula or the Aleutians in their itinerary.

Above lies the Bering Sea and the Bering Strait and beyond that the sombre ocean with its legend of a hidden continent. To the south there is a vast expanse of ocean that lies unbroken to Clark's Islands and Hawaii. To the west is barren Kamchatka and to the east is uncanny Alaska.

It was across this bridge or the strait that is above it that tradition has the aborigines of America making their way. If Asia is the cradle of mankind, then it was here and here only that it was possible for humanity to reach the Western Hemisphere. And if that be true, the bridge served as a vast shelf over which poured the strem of population into ancient America.

It is a mystic land today. It is known, but most of it is unmapped, and its idiosyncrasies are manifold. At the American end is the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, that weird land of fire and steam, where the earth belches flame, smoke, hot gas, and clouds of vapor, and where treacherous quicksand lies in wait to trap the unwary. And here is where there is a river, with its bed higher than its banks, and where a desolate and ruined landscape mocks the visitor.

Following the peninsula, one encounters massive glaciers, hidden lakes, volcanoes that lie dormant, or supposedly extinct, as Katmai had lain until it exploded with a fury that was heard seven hundred and fifty miles away, and left the valley of Ten Thousand Smokes as evidence of its power.

Bears That Are Hard to Kill.

Giant Kadiak bears lope about over the terrian, terrifying in their size—they often attain a langth of twelve and one-half feet—but indifferent to man and beast, as if they were conscious of the security their size gives them. The initiate in that weird land say that it requires many bullets of large calibre to stop them, once they are aroused.

There are forty-two volcanoes in the Alaska Peninsula and the Aleutian islands. Some of them are active; some of them are dormant; some of them are extinct—supposedly so. There is the gian crater of Aniakchak, which from a distance appears to be but a circle of peaks, but once one of these peaks is ascendd it becomes apparent that here is the mute mouth of a terrestial monster, which may or may not be eternally silent. From all appearances, at least from cursory glances, the creater is dead, but hidden away in the vast floor a warm spring bubbles—a wicked warning that appearances sometimes are deceiving. The peninsula and the islands are a part of a garland of volcanis chains that is festooned rather fantastically about the Asiatic Pacific. Starting with Katmai—and excluding the volcanoes in interior Alaska, Mt. Wrangell and Mt. Edgecumbe—it scallops its way, convex to the ocean, thousands of miles to tropical Sumatra, where it runs out, to the east, into the Pacific, and to the west, into the Indian ocean.

This garland begins with Katmai and one has the impression that there is the start of a tremendous procession. From Katmai it proceeds to cross the peninsular-insular bridge, descending beneath the sea after it leaves the Near Islands, arising again at Bering island, and then leaping across to Kamchatka. There it turns sharply to the left, and runs south, at right angles to its former line of march, until it enters the Kuril islands.

It continues south through this archipelago until it reaches Japan, and then, at the center of the island empire, as it is were weary of the procession, a detachment leaves the column and deserts into the Pacific, where it runs out several hundred miles from the shore.

The remainder of the parade continues south, across the sea to Formosa, and then turning southeast, hurdles to the Philippines. It again divides in these islands, forking to the southeast to reach the Celebes, and swerving to the southwest into Borneo. From these islands it jumps to Sumatra and flattens out, like the cross of a T, running east to the Pacific and west to the Indian ocean.

Where the Parade Stops.

Here the parade reaches its final bivouac and ceases. And all along that line of march the steps of the procession are marked by the roar of eruption and the flare of lava torches and incandescent sand. It is a violent march they play and sometimes it shakes the earth and wrecks cities, of which the recent cataclysm in Japen gives horrible evidence.

It is singular that the sudden eruption of Katmai, the most violent in history, was not accompanied by similar outbreaks in sympathetic eruptions all along the line of march. This has sometimes happened in the history of volcanology and sometimes at great distance from the original focus of activity. Katmai is a member of the Aleutian unit. This unit is but one of five corps in the whole line of march, all peculiarly related, and yet there was little sympathy from the rest of that terrible company. There were mild eruptions and earth rumblings and tremblings, but nothing comparable to the cataclysm at Katmai.

It would appear that there would be, just as if a soldier in the rear of a column suddenly shoved the man in front of him and caused the whole column to be affected. But such was not the case.

The Aleutian unit is not American, but Asiatic in origin. All of its relations are Asiatic, as the procession would indicate. It should be observed that all the volcanoes in Alaska or in Alaskan territory but two belong to the Aleutian chain, and, although this reaches many miles into the American continental mass, it has an unmistakable affinity to its Asiatic comrades, and shows no connection with other American volcanoes.

The Geological Survey of the department of the Interior, the General Land Office, and the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, are conducting investigations in this weird land. Each year their experts are mapping it, laying it out, and determining its character. Each year they return with new discoveries and new phenomena, that add to the picturesqueness of the place, and every time they return they have a craving to go back and investigate the many unknown features that still lie hidden.

Among the most recent discoveries have been those in connection with the giant Aniakchak crater and others in that vicinity. These were made by a party sent out by the Geological Survey, an annual expedition under the leadership of R. H. Sargent, topographic expert of the Survey. These discoveries throw new light on several features of this remarkable country, which might be termed America's powder magazine.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

More Rubber

Beginning on February 1 the present export limit on British rubber in Malaya and Ceylon will be lifted for three months. The limit stands now at 85 per cent of production, which in itself represents a considerable loosening up from the drastic restriction in force some months ago. There was a 10 per cent drop November 1. The additional 15 per cent allowed should do much to relieve the American rubber situation and check the upward trend of prices for automobile tires and other rubber products, if it does not bring a reduction.

The British government, which controls the situation, explains that it takes this action to moderate the soaring prices, which have gone higher than is necessary for the producers of crude rubber to make a fair profit.

Possibly it has been influenced still more by protests of the United States government, and by preparations made by American rubber manufacturers to grow their own rubber in Liberia, the Philippines and tropical and semi-tropical regions nearer home.

The natural effect of British monopolistic methods, if long continued, would be to inspire American rubber production on a scale vast enough to ruin the British rubber plantations. This is the natural working of economic law. Nature, which "abhors a vacuum," also abhors a monopoly.

British Debt And Pride

George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain, declares that British business is in a very bad way—so bad that he doesn't believe the British can meet the debt payments to which they have obligated themselves. He therefore suggests that the British settlement be revised and the debt reduced, as it has been in the case of other debtors, notably Italy.

Now, the British would like very much to have their debt reduced. They have always thought that, everything considered, it was unfair to hold them for all the principal and most of the accrued interest on their war borrowings. But will they ask for a debt reduction? Not while the Bank of England stands. Their pride rises up and chokes their utterance at the very suggestion, especially from their chief editor, that they are not able to pay. Industry and trade over there may be in a bad way, but they'll show whether they can pay or not!

It is an admirable mood for a debtor, as viewed from the creditor's standpoint. Yet the suggestion is one that the United States government may find it desirable to consider sooner or later. As matters stand, the situation is a bit embarrassing for the American debt-refunding commission, and for its congressional master.

The commission, doubtless moved thereto by congress, declared on making the British settlement that it would treat all debtors alike. It has abandoned that policy as far as specific terms go, leaving Britain at a disadvantage. Its new policy is to settle for whatever it considers the debtors able to pay. Now treating debtors alike would mean, logically, the extension of this policy to Great Britain.

The Prince's Jobs

A few hard-to-please Britons are always urging that the Prince of Wales "settle down to something serious and prepare himself for the duties of state."

It seems a foolish demand in the eyes of the Toronto Globe. That newspaper rises to the royal traveler's defense with a statement of the important and worthy and serious duties he has already performed.

First, it says, in regard to his globe-trotting, he is probably the best ambassador to foreign lands that the British Empire has had in many a year. He is the cheeriest bond of sympathy imaginable among the sister nations of the British Empire. He more than "earns his keep" as an advertising man. And in addition to those things, declares his Canadian admirer, he is a corking good farmer and business man. His ranch in Alberta is not merely a whim or a beautiful gesture to the Canadian people. It is a paying proposition where very fine stock is raised and the most up-to-date ranch methods are used.

If he ever becomes king it should feel like a vacation to this active young diplomat, salesman, publicity man, business man and rancher.

Thousands of Laws

The number of new laws enacted by state legislatures in 1925 reaches the sad and ludicrous total of 13,080. The legislature of North Carolina is responsible for 1,173 of these. A few other states ran up close to 1,000 apiece. And now the national congress is assembled to do its bit.

It seems obvious that 13,080 new laws are too many for one year. It is doubtful whether all of these laws will become effective or whether more than a few of them will at all increase the efficiency of the states or the health and happiness of the citizens concerned.

The crime wave cannot, of course, be attributed wholly or even largely to a single cause. But it is likely that the multiplicity of laws coming almost all the time from the legal hoppers of city councils, state legislatures and the federal congress most confuse rather than simplify the duties and rights of honest citizens and present greater opportunities for mischief to deliberate lawbreakers.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—There are a dozen collegiates who have stepped from the campus into $25,000 a year jobs in Gotham. They are very much "on their own" and won their place without parental pull. Knowledge they acquired at college is paying golden dividends.

I've chucked my last chuckle at a raccoon coat and saxophone. For these seem to be their sole equipments for a joust with wife. The lads are saxophonists with sundry high-priced jazz bands that appear at several different places during the day.

They mave from cafe, teas and dinners to movies and supper clubs, and at least a dozen are said to be making the $25,000 fee. Two in Ben Bernie's band hover around that mark and three in the orchestra of Senor Lopez, a grandee from the ancient Spanish city of Brooklyn, do the same.

All are collegiates who have achieved eminence of Jap valets, Park avenue apartments and low slung roadsters just a few months after graduation. When Roger Wolfe Kahn, scion of New York's richest banker and most prolific banquet orator, captains a jazz band it seems time indeed to take jazz symphonies seriously.

Only recently when young Kahn was the center of a public demonstration, Kahn, pere, embraced him and in a burst of pardonable enthusiasm, cried: "I can underwrite him for all I've got."

Hale Byers, a few years removed from an Illinois college campus, is garnering $600 a week as a saxophone orchestra leader at the nightly exercises conducted by Barney Galant in his village stadium. Paul Whiteman has two saxophonists making $25,000 a year.

Next in the high-salaried range of jazz are banjoists—a facile accomplishment usually mastered at institutions of learning. Quite a number of them are making $20,000 a year and, of course, Whiteman, Bernie, Lopez, et al, are making a larger salary than our president as conductors.

Members of the band in our town received 50 cents each for the weekly Wednesday evening concerts in the public square, and they had to rehearse on Monday and Saturday evenings over the Leopold Frank saloon—quite a hardship, for there was always so much doing on the floor below—including free pretzels.

At one of those phoney teas where everybody gets "ginny," a woman stuck her head out a window and yelled for the police. A couple of them came. It was explained to them the crowd had merely run out of boy friends and thought this was the quickest way to gather substitutes. The officers, it is related, remained for a cup of tea.

Dancing teachers say the Charleston saved many hoofing academies from bankruptcy. Instructors saw a lean winter ahead. The tango had mastered the fox trot and other simple dances. It took a new and intricate dance to turn the tide and the Charleston, swept in from the levee, did it. It is stated it will never become popular because of its intricacy. Yet everybody has seemed to take a whirl at the dance, from girls in the factory lofts to the Park avenue debutante. It has not found favor in public dance halls, but brave exponents often try it in fashionable supper clubs. The real Charleston, however, is seen in the cabarets of the Black Belt in Harlem. Here sepia exponents make it a poetry of motion for the slummers from downtown. It is said only the darkey is able to master the dance as it should be done.

That the Charleston is not going to die without a struggle is evidenced by the fact that two instructors have sailed to Paris upon insistent demands of those eager to learn it over there.

America's Powder Magazine.—1.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Lying like a huge suspension bridge, one end of which is fastened to North America and the other to old Asia, the Alaska Peninsula and the Aleutian Islands describe a tremendous geographic arc across the North Pacific. Atop it lies the Bering Sea, which appears to be so heavy as to weight down the bridge so that the arc it describes is almost perfect.

It is an out of the way place. The beaten sea paths of mariners are far to the south and the ships that pass are those phantoms of northern waters that ply in search of fur, whale blubber, and other products that the Arctic affords. To the east and southeast the ships from the United States skirt the coast to Alaska, but they rarely deviate to include the peninsula or the Aleutians in their itinerary.

Above lies the Bering Sea and the Bering Strait and beyond that the sombre ocean with its legend of a hidden continent. To the south there is a vast expanse of ocean that lies unbroken to Clark's Islands and Hawaii. To the west is barren Kamchatka and to the east is uncanny Alaska.

It was across this bridge or the strait that is above it that tradition has the aborigines of America making their way. If Asia is the cradle of mankind, then it was here and here only that it was possible for humanity to reach the Western Hemisphere. And if that be true, the bridge served as a vast sheif over which poured the strem of population into ancient America.

It is a mystic land today. It is known, but most of it is unmapped, and its idiosyncrasies are manifold. At the American end is the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, that weird land of fire and steam, where the earth belches flame, smoke, hot gas, and clouds of vapor, and where treacherous quicksand lies in wait to trap the unwary. And here is where there is a river, with its bed higher than its banks, and where a desolate and ruined landscape mocks the visitor.

Following the peninsula, one encounters massive glaciers, hidden lakes, volcanoes that lie dormant, or supposedly extinct, as Katmai had lain until it exploded with a fury that was heard seven hundred and fifty miles away, and left the valley of Ten Thousand Smokes as evidence of its power.

Bears That Are Hard to Kill.

Giant Kadiak bears lope about over the terrian, terrifying in their size—they often attain a langth of twelve and one-half feet—but indifferent to man and beast, as if they were conscious of the security their size gives them. The initiate in that weird land say that it requires many bullets of large calibre to stop them, once they are aroused.

There are forty-two volcanoes in the Alaska Peninsula and the Aleutian islands. Some of them are active; some of them are dormant; some of them are extinct—supposedly so. There is the gian crater of Aniakchak, which from a distance appears to be but a circle of peaks, but once one of these peaks is ascendd it becomes apparent that here is the mute mouth of a terrestial monster, which may or may not be eternally silent. From all appearances, at least from cursory glances, the creater is dead, but hidden away in the vast floor a warm spring bubbles—a wicked warning that appearances sometimes are deceiving. The peninsula and the islands are a part of a garland of volcanis chains that is festooned rather fantastically about the Asiatic Pacific. Starting with Katmai—and excluding the volcanoes in interior Alaska, Mt. Wrangell and Mt. Edgecumbe—it scallops its way, convex to the ocean, thousands of miles to tropical Sumatra, where it runs out, to the east, into the Pacific, and to the west, into the Indian ocean.

This garland begins with Katmai and one has the impression that there is the start of a tremendous procession. From Katmai it proceeds to cross the peninsular-insular bridge, descending beneath the sea after it leaves the Near Islands, arising again at Bering island, and then leaping across to Kamchatka. Rex Beach Novel, "Winds of Chance," At the American

Rex Beach's thrilling novel of the Alaskan gold rush has finally been brought to the screen. Frank Lloyd, who gave us 'The Sea Hawk" and other fine screen dramatics, was the producer as well as director, with First National sponsoring the production. It opened at the American theater yesterday.

Dealing with the romance and the struggle that was the gold rush to the Yukon in 1897 and 1898, "Winds of Chance" presents the first accurate and big conception of the event that brought thousands of eager men and women into the Arctic to face untold hardships in their lust for the precious ore.

Beach has long held first position among the fictionists or Alaska's frontier days and in "Winds of Chance" his best known characters are brought together in a closely woven adventure in the procession up the Yukon to Dawson City and the gold country.

In giving life to the Beach epic, Lloyd has provided not only the most pictentious out-of-doors screen play of the past decade but the most truthful picturization of Alaska, during the four seasons of the year, ever brought to the screen, and his production merits every right to be considered one of the supreme efforts of the screen.

Starting at Dyea, where the prospectors landed after the slow boat trip from Seattle, "Winds of Chance" follows the trail of the sourdoughs over the treacherous Chilkoot Pass to the Summit, then Sheep Camp, Lake Linderman, White Horse, Miles Canyon and on up the Youkon to the mountain-walled boom city of Yukon and the various creeks which glittered with virgin ore.

"Magic" Parties Latest Craze Introduced in London Social Circles

LONDON.—A new craze has been introduced to London society by an American woman, Mrs. Arthur Irving, of New York. It takes the form of holding "magic" parties, and is intended chiefly as an after-dinner diversion.

Seeking for something to entertain her guests at dinner, Mrs. Irving remembered an Egyptian wizard she had met in Brussels, who could do the most extraordinary things with hats and rabbits. The wizard was telegraphed for, and he arrived in time for the dinner, where he was hailed as an interesting departure from the usual stereotyped after-dinner entertainers. Since then the wizard has been in great demand, and no big society function here is complete without him.

Sleepless Man Puts Old Law Into Effect; Dance Halls Suffer

LONDON, England, Dec. 14.—Because a resident of Epsom, a small town just outside London, complained that the noise of dancing kept him awake, all public dancing in a large part of the area governed by the Surrey Council must in future stop on the stroke of midnight.

The authorities have decided to enforce an act of 1751, which has long been winked at all over the country, and the decision has come as a bombshell to the promoters of dances in the area. The act forbids all public and subscription dances to go on after midnight, and several big county dances have been cancelled already as a result.

Mrs. Clarence M. Bartight, who has been appointed a temporary city magistrate in New York, was the first woman to sit as chairman of a lunacy commission, the first woman lawyer ever to defend a case of general court-martial, and the first woman to be admitted to membership in the American Bar association.

Because of the shortage of the olive crop at home the government of Greece has prohibited the exportation of olive oil.

Rex Beach Novel, "Winds of Chance," At the American

Rex Beach's thrilling novel of the Alaskan gold rush has finally been brought to the screen. Frank Lloyd, who gave us 'The Sea Hawk" and other fine screen dramatics, was the producer as well as director, with First National sponsoring the production. It opened at the American theater yesterday.

Dealing with the romance and the struggle that was the gold rush to the Yukon in 1897 and 1898, "Winds of Chance" presents the first accurate and big conception of the event that brought thousands of eager men and women into the Arctic to face untold hardships in their lust for the precious ore.

Beach has long held first position among the fictionists or Alaska's frontier days and in "Winds of Chance" his best known characters are brought together in a closely woven adventure in the procession up the Yukon to Dawson City and the gold country.

In giving life to the Beach epic, Lloyd has provided not only the most pretentious out-of-doors screen play of the past decade but the most truthful picturization of Alaska, during the four seasons of the year, ever brought to the screen, and his production merits every right to be considered one of the supreme efforts of the screen.

Starting at Dyea, where the prospectors landed after the slow boat trip from Seattle, "Winds of Chance" follows the trail of the sourdoughs over the treacherous Chilkoot Pass to the Summit, then Sheep Camp, Lake Linderman, White Horse, Miles Canyon and on up the Youkon to the mountain-walled boom city of Yukon and the various creeks which glittered with virgin ore.

"Magic" Parties Latest Craze Introduced in London Social Circles

LONDON.—A new craze has been introduced to London society by an American woman, Mrs. Arthur Irving, of New York. It takes the form of holding "magic" parties, and is intended chiefly as an after-dinner diversion.

Seeking for something to entertain her guests at dinner, Mrs. Irving remembered an Egyptian wizard she had met in Brussels, who could do the most extraordinary things with hats and rabbits. The wizard was telegraphed for, and he arrived in time for the dinner, where he was hailed as an interesting departure from the usual stereotyped after-dinner entertainers. Since then the wizard has been in great demand, and no big society function here is complete without him.

EDWIN M. WHITNEY DRAMATIC READER, AT HIGH SCHOOL TOMORROW NIGHT

Edwin M. Whitney, America's foremost dramatic recitalist, will appear at the high school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening in the second number of the 1925-26 high school lecture course.

The genius of Mr. Whitney consists of his unequaled ability to make the great characters of literature live before his audience—to bring his hearers into a personal acquaintance with the towering figures of modern drama. More than a mere reader or impersonator, he has dignified his art with an understanding realism.

Mr. Whitney has a repertoire of five offerings. These include "The Tailor-Made Man," "Turn to the Right," "The Fortune Hunter," "In Walked Jimmie" and "Adam and Eva."

This attraction has been booked through the Coit-Alber bureau, of Cleveland. The next number in the course is the De Marco Harp Ensemble, five talented musical artists, who will appear here January 25.

EDWIN M. WHITNEY DRAMATIC READER, AT HIGH SCHOOL TOMORROW NIGHT

Edwin M. Whitney, America's foremost dramatic recitalist, will appear at the high school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening in the second number of the 1925-26 high school lecture course.

The genius of Mr. Whitney consists of his unequaled ability to make the great characters of literature live before his audience—to bring his hearers into a personal acquaintance with the towering figures of modern drama. More than a mere reader or impersonator, he has dignified his art with an understanding realism.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

BITTER CLASH IN MITCHELL COURT-MARTIAL

COURT CLEARED

Jury Retires to Antechamber to Consider Incident.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Col. William Mitchell was denied reappointment as assistant chief of the army air service because he gave "false" testimony to congressional committees, Maj. Gen. Dannisse Nolan, deputy chief of staff of the army, today told the flying colonel's court-martial.

Ex-Secretary of War John W. Weeks personally recommended Mitchell's demotion to President Coloidge, Nolan said. He read Weeks' letter to the president recommending Mitchell be not reappointed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Bitter personalities were injected today into the closing chapters of the court-martial of Colonel William Mitchell.

Major General Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, one of Mitchell's chief opponents, who has been severely cross-examined by Representative Reid of Illinois, Mitchell's chief counsel, opened the fireworks this morning by sarcastically asking Reid "what was your war experience."

"In my own life," flashed back Reid, "it was more important than being chief clerk to the general staff."

In the hubub and angry shouting which followed, the court was cleared and the jury of generals retired to an ante-chamber to consider the incident.

Defense Scores Point.

Reid had savagely attacked Drum's testimony before congressional committees as "misleading." He repeatedly protested to the court over Drum's "refusal to answer questions without delivering a speech."

The defense scored a strong point when Drum was forced to read orders to all officers as to how they should testify before congressional committees.

Drum admitted the review of the Curry bill by the war department came from his office among others. The secretary of war was "directed" by Drum in a communication as to the proper policy to pursue over agitation for unified air service.

"The court votes that its proceedings be continued with proper decorum. Incidents that have just arisen will not be permitted to occur again," announced Major General Robert L. Howze, president of the court.

"In view of the refusal of the witness to answer direct questions, I refuse to question him further," bluntly announced Reid shortly after court again went into session.

SIKI KILLED FOR $20 DEBT

Police Seek Bootlegger as Slayer of Prize Fighter.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—"Jimmy," a bootlegger, was sought by detectives today as the slayer of the Battling Siki, who was shot to death in the neighborhood of "Hell's Kitchen" early yesterday morning. Siki, the police learned, owed "Jimmy," an habitue of a speakeasy, $20.

The authorities were informed that "Jimmy" met Siki and his wife on the street recently and demanded the money. Siki didn't have it and, the police were told, "Jimmy" threatened to "get" Siki. Siki was shot to death from behind as he left a "black and tan" cabaret early in the morning.

Mrs. Siki was making arrangements today for the burial of her husband. She is an octoroon from Memphis, Tenn., where she met Siki when he fought Young Norfolk. She said Siki left no money and had no insurance. He had only eight cents in his pocket when his body was found, face downward, in the street, by a policeman.

"Put Up or Shut Up" Crabbe Tells Akron Complainants

AKRON, Dec. 16.—"Put up or shut up" is the ultimatum delivered by Attorney General Crabbe to Akron citizens who have been complaining of vice conditions here. Crabbe is directing a grand jury investigation of the "road scandals" and has invited every person in the city who thinks he knows of hidden wickedness to visit him at the courthouse today and Thursday, where he will hear their stories and lay them before the jury if they appear worth while and are more than mere hearsay.

In addition he has subpoenaed Gus Rasch, former state legislator, Fred Hagloch, head of the so-called Non-Partisan league, and Allen O. Myers, a Burns detective who have been making investigations here.

would make his king emperor, following in the steps of Disreall, the man of Asiatic ancestry, who made Victoria empress of India. If you start with momentum you can go a long way.

The able Mr. Garvin solemnly answers George Harvey's statement that England is on her last legs, about to plunge into the gulf.

Britain would be better off, says Garvin, if she didn't have to pay so many millions to America every year, while Britain's debtors pay her nothing. This means $100,000,000 to the bad for England.

Mr. Garvin ought to take George Harvey for a trip around the British empire to look at her land, minerals, people, free and not free, all over the world, and especially get him to consider how easily the British brand of statesmanship puts the so-called statesmanship of the United States into a deep hole. Such a trip would restore Harvey's cheerfulness about Britain's future.

You can't down intelligence and ccurage. The British have both.

Speaking of intelligence and courage, the Irish Free State intends to send a flying machine from Ireland, across the ocean to the United States. More power to the plan.

Too bad St. Patrick can't see that ship start out. Once he stood on the west coast of Ireland "beyond which no man is." He was interested in miracles, performed many of them himself. But it never occurred to him that some day an Irishman would fly from that point "where no man is," 3,000 miles across the ocean, to another point where many successful and useful Irishmen are.

Relics discovered in Arizona would indicate, if genuine, that this planet was discovered by Jewish sailors 700 years before Columbus' day.

It isn't unlikely. Many do not realize that the Semitic race in the ancient days was the most daring and enterprising of all seafaring peoples.

The Phoenicians, Semitic, were the first to go out of sight of land, in days when there was no compass, first to sail through the "Pillars of Hercules" cut into the Atlantic ocean on to the tin mines of England and to all the wild northwestern region. They brought and sold to Solomon choice building materials for his temple.

In Russia, a young mother killed a baby that, according to the doctors, was doomed to lifelong idiocy and disease. One court sentenced her to eight years in jail. A higher court sets her free with compliments, saying she did what was best for the baby and for society.

Dr. Neltzer, one of a million learned Germans, says that German public opinion is 119 against 43 in favor of ending the lives of idiotic children. If such murders were made legal, it would be a shameful downward step for civilization. But it will not be made legal for long, in Germany, Russia or anywhere else.

Freighter Crashes Into Ferryboat; 10 Passengers Hurt

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Efforts were being made by federal and railroad officials today to learn the identity of a freighter that crashed into the ferryboat Cranford, near the middle of the Hudson river, during the rush hour last evening, throwing 400 passengers into a panic and resulting in injuries to 10 persons.

The freighter, after ramming the Cranford, chugged away. In the excitement its identity was not learned.

Two Men Burned, 13 Flee to Street In Toledo Blaze

TOLEDO POLICE NAB SUSPECTED CLUB WIELDER

Co-ed Identifies Prisoner as Man Who Attacked Her.

INSANE BELIEF

Arrest Made on Family's Complaint; Ask Lunacy Warrant.

TOLEDO, Dec. 16.—With the arrest of Joseph Luczka, 28, today, police believe they may have the mysterious slugger who has terrorized the women of the West End and added nine victimes to his list.

Luczka has been identified by Miss Louise E. Washburn, 18-year-old Toledo University co-ed, as the man who attacked her last Friday morning at the edge of the university campus on her way to school.

Luczka was arrested on complaint of the man's family that he was mentally unbalanced. They requested the police to hold him until they could secure a lunacy warrant and have him sent to the Toledo state hospital.

Miss Washburn identified Luczka by picking him out from five other men lined up in the turnkey's office. She pointed out Luczka without a moment's hesitation. Several other victims of the clubber will be brought in later today to also try to identify him as police say the man in many respects answers the meager description they have of the clubber.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—New forward movements in the railroad stocks sent about a dozen of the active rails into new high price levels in the early trading today. For the first time in the nation's history, freight car loadings exceeded 1,000,000 cars in a December week, thus adding one more to the long record of accomplishments of the transportation companies in 1925. The Wall street atmosphere was surcharged with rumors and speculations relative to proposed and contemplated railroad mergers which are doubtless nearer consummation than ever before.

Poisoner's Hearing Postponed; Court To Name Counsel

SANDUSKY, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Mary Keller, 43, was brought before Common Pleas Court Judge W. L. Fiesinger for arraignment on a first degree murder charge today. When the court found that she did not have counsel and that she had not been advised as to her legal rights he ordered the woman returned to the county jail until Saturday morning explaining that he would provide her with a lawyer in the meantime.

Mrs. Keller, following arrest Nov. 11, confessed killing her seven-year-old daughter Fay with carbolic acid.

Chelsea, Mass., Mayor, Under Indictment, Winner at Polls

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 16.—A heavy vote by women figured in the re-election of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, who is under federal indictment in the so-called Chelsea bootleggers and liquor manufacturers union case. Quigley defeated Alderman Clarence Richmond by 852 votes. Quigley, in a statement today, termed his triumph a "vindication."

Ohioan, Indicted For Killing During Quarrel, Fined $50

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Dec. 16.—Although Henry Smith, 61, of Rendville, was indicted for mansalughter, a common pleas court jury found him guilty of assault and battery and Judge T. D. Price fined him $50 and costs.

Smith was tried for killing Albert Edom, 65, with a club during an altercation concerning a pile of coal. Smith pleaded self defense.

Colleges of Austria In Financial Plight; Assistance Sought

VIENNA.—The universities throughout Austria are in a bad financial plight, according to appeals for assistance, which have recently been issued.

The three biggest Austrian universities, those at Vienna, Graz, and Innsbruck, have recently issued appeals for money which show that they are completely hampered for lack of funds. The professors are only receiving half pay, while the equipment of the universities is entirely inadequate for up-to-date demands.

HERE IS XMAS HEALTH SEAL

Secretary of State Speaks at Meeting in Salineville.

SALINEVILLE, Dec. 16. — "It behooves us to make the generation following to feel as proud of our work as we are proud of the work of our fathers," declared Secretary of State Thad H. Brown in an address delivered before the Kiwanis club here last evening. "Have faith in America" was the keynote of his address.

The meeting was in celebration of the opening of the Salineville-Wellsville road, and Chairman Frank P. Judge Jr. announced that "inasmuch as we have been given a taste of what improved roads are, we're going right back and ask for something more." This remark was addressed to the county officials who were guests.

He recounted the trials the community encountered in seeking the legislation that resulted in the construction of the highway.

In presenting Secretary of State Brown, Judge announced that he was convinced that "we have now with us the next governor of Ohio."

"Have faith in America," Mr. Brown began. "What we need now more than anything else is that faith which Washington was possessed at Valley Forge—that faith which Lincoln possessed during the Civil war and that faith in America which we had during the World war.

"I'm like Uncle Joe Cannon, who declared to a group recently, 'have faith in your government.' I want you to have faith in the government of your fathers.

"But there seems to be something wrong somewhere, if we stop a moment to study the situation. What it is I can't tell. Statistics tell us that when McKinley was elected president of the United States 80 per cent of the electors went to the polls to cast a ballot. At the last national election this percentage declined to about 48. Perhaps our government is becoming too complex. Perhaps there is too much tendency to pass things on to Washington that should be looked after at home, and at home I mean the states, the counties, the local community. There is too much of 'passing it along,' I'm afraid.

"There is one local situation that I want to call your attention to and that is the necessity of the construction of inter-county highway No. 7. This is the road extending northward along the Ohio river from Cincinnati through Marietta to East Liverpool and thence to the lake. Here is a national defense highway, and you must not lose sight of this fact. This road commands the direct attention of the state and federal highway departments, and in the building of this road through the 'Narrows' in Jefferson county I believe there will be much financial aid extended from these sources.

"Judging from 1907, when 7,200 automobile licenses were issued in Ohio, I believe there will be close to 1,475,000 licenses issued in 1926. In 1924 there were 1,270,026 issued."

Mrs. F. H. Johnson, of Summitville, with Attorney Blaine H. Cochran and Mrs. Bertha Cochran, of East Liverpool, entertained with vocal selections.

Senator Raps

wet fight.

The dry ranks, led by Senators Willis, R., of Ohio, and Sheppard, D., of Texas, meanwhile challenged the wets to bring any or all of their proposals to a vote. Willis predicted the defeat of every attempt to modify the Volstead Act or to weaken its enforcement. The position of the dry forces, as stated by their leaders, was that the sixty-ninth congress is just as dry politically as the congress which enacted the Volstead law.

Blease, however, declared he would force the drys upon record as to whether the prohibition law shall be enforced against Americans and not against foreigners in America.

Ambassadors Serve Liquor.

"If Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States," said Blease, "should serve wine or beer on his table, he would be a criminal under the constitution of the nation over which he is president.

"If some ambassador or minister or consul from another nation serves wine or beer on his table, he is lauded as a most hospitable host and delightful entertainer. This is peculiar but it is true.

"If the president of the United States cannot serve wine or beer, I can see no reason why foreigners should be allowed to do so.

"I am going to find out why this immunity is permitted and I am going to propose to get an amendment to the Volstead law enacted or a resolution adopted by congress to enforce the dry laws on foreigners just the same as the government enforces it against South Carolinians."

Ten Hold-Ups Within 24 Hours.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Ten hold-ups in which bandits got from $5 to $5,000 were reported here within the last 24 hours.

ARKANSAS BOY IS HELD FOR TRIPLE MURDER

ADMITS CRIME

Calmly Tells How he Outwitted Posse for Two Days.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 16.—Arnold Comer, said to be but 14 years old, and appearing even younger, was held in the county jail at Yellville, Ark., today awaiting preliminary hearing for the gruesome slaying of three persons near Buffalo Creek, Ark.

Comer, apparently unconcerned, calmly related to officers following his capture, how he killed a man, a woman and a child, and then fled into the mountains, pursued for two days by a posse.

The boy is wizened and undernourished in appearance, and appears to be of subnormal mental development, the officers declared. It was learned that he was held in the detention home here last February after a railroad detective had arrested him on the Missouri Pacific right of way. He wore a pair of overalls, a coonskin cap, and carried a shot gun. For 10 days, he declined to give any information about himself, but eventually told the matron his name, and said he left home "because his brother mistreated him."

$4 and $5 for each dollar of anticipated annual revenue and please note that I said anticipated. His turn-over would therefore be—not so many times in one year, but just the reverse, one turn-over in so many years. Instead of computing annual profit by multiplying the net profit on each turn-over by the number fo turn-overs per year, your railway has to take out of each dollar of annual revenue an amount sufficient, provided they earn it, to pay the interest on the $4 to $5 that has been invested and that is actually represented in physical plant value used and useful to produce the said one dollars of revenue.

"Let's stop here and analyze this thing, because it is a matter that invites your interest, it is a matter in which you, as business men of this community, are vitally concerned.

"To simplify our figures, lets choose some railway or other that has the minimum of $4 invested for each dollar of annual income. If it is to earn, let us say 6% on its investment, then it must lay aside out of each dollar received, four times six or twenty-four cents to pay the wages of money. And permit me to remind you here and now, that money demands its wages the same as you and I and the rest of the laboring people. Otherwise it refuses to work, it devotes its time to other business that will pay it's wage. I hardly need remind you that any business that doesn't or can't pay money its wage, finally comes to the point of hanging a crepe on the knob of its door and sending for the bankruptcy undertaker.

Question of Taxes

"Then again, everything, as you know, wears out. You can drive your automobile from two to five, maybe ten years, depending on how you use it but at the end of a given time, your repairs, your upkeep becomes so expensive that you profit by either turning it in or junking it and buying a new one. To be conservative let us say that the rails, the power stations, the cars, the buildings and other physical railway property has an average life of 33⅓ years. Then you have a depreciation cost of 3% staring you in the face before you have paid one cent toward the cost of turning wheels. This means four times three or 12 cents out of each dollar of revenue to meet an expenditure that is as sure of maturity as death and taxes.

"And, what about taxes. One would naturally expect large proportionate taxes with a physical plant investment of $4 for each dollar of revenue and this is true.

"When you buy a dollar weekly pass from this company, in round figures, seven cents of that dollar goes to the government for taxes, and 93 cents to the company.

"The utilities in the state of Ohio on the tax duplicate for the year 1925, will pay on a tax valuation of $1,280,500,000.00. This amount exceeds the total tax valuation of all other corporations in the state combined. And, get this, because it will appeal to at least your selfish interest, for the year 1925, this year, if you please, the increase in Ohio's tax valuation of public service companies was 40% more than the combined increase of banks, all other corporations and individual property in the state. This relieved you, both as business men and as individuals of some considerable amount of tax, that you would otherwise have to pay. And who is paying this tax for you? The consumer, as you well know. So far as the railways are concerned, the man who rides the cars, the man with a dinner bucket, the man who can least afford to pay it.

Seven Cents for Maintenance.

"We have now spent out of our $1, twenty-four, twelve and seven cents, or a total of 43 cents. We have left 57 cents, and we haven't yet spent one cent toward the cost of turning wheels. Out of this 57 cents we are going to spend somewhere between 48 and 54 cents for labor alone. I mean that the payrolls of your railways take and properly so, 48 to 54 per cent of their total revenue. When you buy a $1 weekly pass, you are paying approximately half of it, or 50 cents, to the men and women who are devoting their time to a life of service—because we have nothing else to sell. Furthermore, because street cars run rain or shine, good times or bad times, the pay rolls vary very little.

"We now have left seven cents with which to buy maintenance materials, pay insurance and meet other general expense. A good many of your railways are not making ends meet. They find themselves in the position of having to rob Peter to pay Paul. They are not setting aside 12 per cent of their revenue or three per cent of their plant value for depreciation. They are not paying dividends on the basis of six per cent, the bare wage of money.

"Why if we take Ohio's 1925 tax valuation, we find as I said before, a valuation of $1,480,500,000, and for the same year a report from the United States census bureau, estimating the actual worth of Ohio's public service companies at $1,8000,000,000. This means that your railways, even on their assessed valuation, the valuation on which they are paying taxes, are actually not earning as much of a profit, as they are paying out of each dollar for taxes.

"I have been giving you facts that I can substantiate from government records and this message would fall short of its purpose were it to stop ated without profit, the country over. When I say profit, I mean a return in excess of the bare wage of capital and capital will not work without wage. They are, therefore, public institutions in practically the same class and just as essential to the well-being of a community as its schools, its churches, its hospitals and other similar public institutions. It behooves you and every other good citizen to lend them your moral support.

"I was asked the question not very long ago, how long it would be before private automobiles and buses put the street railways out of business. Here is the answer. The period from 1917 to 1923 saw the greatest expansion of the automobile industry in its history. During the same period your railways experienced an increase in the number of passengers hauled of from 109 passengers per capita a per year to 150 passengers per capita per year, or an increase of almost 30 per cent. The outlook for your railways, the country over, was never more encouraging than now.

"Facts, such as I have just disclosed, are becoming more generally appreciated. There is less of a disposition on the part of the people to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. What the railways need, and all they need is a square deal. Burdensome franchise obligations requiring them to pave the streets that they no longer wear out, because they no longer use horses to pull cars are being removed. May I again remind you that the man with the dinner pail is the man who is paying for that paving. And when he isn't paying for it, the business men are, through loss in business because of poor transportation service.

"There are today three states in the Union that have passed statutes, authorizing the abrogation of franchises requiring street railways to pave and it is and has been a surprise to me that the people themselves, the country over haven't awakened to the fact long before this, that burdening their utilities with unjust, unfair and unnecessary costs is in reality costing them more in the long run, than would otherwise maintain."

Ban Extravagant Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A strict injunction forbidding extravagant expenditure of government funds in the investigation of prohibition cases has been issued by Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry czar, it was announced at the treasury today.

Andrews criticised the action of a number of federal agents who obtained the arrest of two employes of a fashionable Washington hotel through a "decoy" banquet which cost $229 for "food, entertainment, cigars and cocktails."

Andrews, in appearing before the house appropriations committee, told representatives who criticised these practices of prohibition agents, that he had taken steps to abolish such methods.

BITTER CLASH IN MITCHELL COURT-MARTIAL

COURT CLEARED

Jury Retires to Antechamber to Consider Incident.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Col. William Mitchell was denied reappointment as assistant chief of the army air service because he gave "false" testimony to congressional committees, Maj. Gen. Dannisse Nolan, deputy chief of staff of the army, today told the flying colonel's court-martial.

Ex-Secretary of War John W. Weeks personally recommended Mitchell's demotion to President Coloidge, Nolan said. He read Weeks' letter to the president recommending Mitchell be not reappointed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Bitter personalities were injected today into the closing chapters of the court martial of Colonel William Mitchell.

Major General Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, one of Mitchell's chief opponents, who has been severely cross-examined by Representative Reid of Illinois, Mitchell's chief counsel, opened the fireworks this morning by sarcastically asking Reid "what was your war experience."

"In my own life," flashed back Reid, "it was more important than being chief clerk to the general staff."

In the hubub and angry shouting which followed, the court was cleared and the jury of generals retired to an ante-chamber to consider the incident.

Defense Scores Point.

Reid had savagely attacked Drum's testimony before congressionl committees as "misleading." He repeatedly protested to the court over Drum's "refusal to answer questions without delivering a speech."

The defense scored a strong point when Drum was forced to read orders to all officers as to how they should testify before congressional committees.

Drum admitted the review of the Curry bill by the war department came from his office among others. The secretary of war was "directed" by Drum in a communication as to the proper policy to pursue over agitation for unified air service.

"The court votes that its proceedings be continued with proper decorum. Incidents that have just arisen will not be permitted to occur again," announced Major General Robert L. Howze, president of the court.

"In view of the refusal of the witness to answer direct questions, I refuse to question him further," bluntly announced Reid shortly after court again went into session.

SIKI KILLED FOR $20 DEBT

Police Seek Bootlegger as Slayer of Prize Fighter.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—"Jimmy," a bootlegger, was sought by detectives today as the slayer of the Battling Siki, who was shot to death in the neighborhood of "Hell's Kitchen" early yesterday morning. Siki, the police learned, owed "Jimmy," an habitue of a speakeasy, $20.

The authorities were informed that "Jimmy" met Siki and his wife on the street recently and demanded the money. Siki didn't have it and, the police were told, "Jimmy" threatened to "get" Siki. Siki was shot to death from behind as he left a "black and tan" cabaret early in the morning.

Mrs. Siki was making arrangements today for the burial of her husband. She is an octoroon from Memphis, Tenn., where she met Siki when he fought Young Norfolk. She said Siki left no money and had no insurance. He had only eight cents in his pocket when his body was found, face downward, in the street, by a policeman.

"Put Up or Shut Up" Crabbe Tells Akron Complainants

AKRON, Dec. 16.—"Put up or shut up" is the ultimatum delivered by Attorney General Crabbe to Akron citizens who have been complaining of vice conditions here. Crabbe is directing a grand jury investigation of the "road scandals" and has invited every person in the city who thinks he knows of hidden wickedness to visit him at the courthouse today and Thursday, where he will hear their stories and lay them before the jury if they appear worth while and are more than mere hearsay.

In addition he has subpoenaed Gus Rasch, former state legislator, Fred Hagloch, head of the so-called Non-Partisan league, and Allen O. Myers, a Burns detective who have been making investigations here.

would make his king emperor, following in the steps of Disreali, the man of Asiatic ancestry, who made Victoria empress of India. If you start with momentum you can go a long way.

The able Mr. Garvin solemnly answers George Harvey's statement that England is on her last legs, about to plunge into the gulf.

Britain would be better off, says Garvin, if she didn't have to pay so many millions to America every year, while Britain's debtors pay her nothing. This means $100,000,000 to the bad for England.

Mr. Garvin ought to take George Harvey for a trip around the British empire to look at her land, minerals, people, free and not free, all over the world, and especially get him to consider how easily the British brand of statesmanship puts the so-called statesmanship of the United States into a deep hole. Such a trip would restore Harvey's cheerfulness about Britain's future.

You can't down intelligence and courage. The British have both.

Speaking of intelligence and courage, the Irish Free State intends to send a flying machine from Ireland, across the ocean to the United States. More power to the plan.

Too bad St. Patrick can't see that ship start out. Once he stood on the west coast of Ireland "beyond which no man is." He was interested in miracles, performed many of them himself. But it never occurred to him that some day an Irishman would fly from that point "where no man is," 3,000 miles across the ocean, to another point where many successful and useful Irishmen are.

Relics discovered in Arizona would indicate, if genuine, that this planet was discovered by Jewish sailors 700 years before Columbus' day.

It isn't unlikely. Many do not realize that the Semitic race in the ancient days was the most daring and enterprising of all seafaring peoples.

The Phoenicians, Semitic, were the first to go out of sight of land, in days when there was no compass, first to sail through the "Pillars of Hercules" cut into the Atlantic ocean on to the tin mines of England and to all the wild northwestern region. They brought and sold to Solomon choice building materials for his temple.

In Russia, a young mother killed a baby that, according to the doctors, was doomed to lifelong idiocy and disease. One court sentenced her to eight years in jail. A higher court sets her free with compliments, saying she did what was best for the baby and for society.

Dr. Neltzer, one of a million learned Germans, says that German public opinion is 119 against 43 in favor of ending the lives of idiotic children. If such murders were made legal, it would be a shameful downward step for civilization. But it will not be made legal for long, in Germany, Russia or anywhere else.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Efforts were being made by federal and railroad officials today to learn the identity of a freighter that crashed into the ferryboat Cranford, near the middle of the Hudson river, during the rush hour last evening, throwing 400 passengers into a panic and resulting in injuries to 10 persons.

The freighter, after ramming the Cranford, chugged away. In the excitement its identity was not learned.

TOLEDO POLICE NAB SUSPECTED CLUB WIELDER

Co-ed Identifies Prisoner as Man Who Attacked Her.

INSANE BELIEF

Arrest Made on Family's Complaint; Ask Lunacy Warrant.

TOLEDO, Dec. 16.—With the arrest of Joseph Luczka, 28, today, police believe they may have the mysterious slugger who has terrorized the women of the West End and added nine victimes to his list.

Luczka has been identified by Miss Louise E. Washburn, 18-year-old Toledo University co-ed, as the man who attacked her last Friday morning at the edge of the university campus on her way to school.

Luczka was arrested on complaint of the man's family that he was mentally unbalanced. They requested the police to hold him until they could secure a lunacy warrant and have him sent to the Toledo state hospital.

Miss Washburn identified Luczka by picking him out from five other men lined up in the turnkey's office. She pointed out Luczka without a moment's hesitation. Several other victims of the clubber will be brought in later today to also try to identify him as police say the man in many respects answers the meager description they have of the clubber.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—New forward movements in the railroad stocks sent about a dozen of the active rails into new high price levels in the early trading today. For the first time in the nation's history, freight car loadings exceeded 1,000,000 cars in a December week, thus adding one more to the long record of accomplishments of the transportation companies in 1925. The Wall street atmosphere was surcharged with rumors and speculations relative to proposed and contemplated railroad mergers which are doubtless nearer consummation than ever before.

Mrs. Keller, following arrest Nov. 11, confessed killing her seven-year-old daughter Fay with carbolic acid.

HERE IS XMAS HEALTH SEAL

Secretary of State Speaks at Meeting in Salineville.

SALINEVILLE, Dec. 16. — "It behooves us to make the generation following to feel as proud of our work as we are proud of the work of our fathers," declared Secretary of State Thad H. Brown in an address delivered before the Kiwanis club here last evening. "Have faith in America" was the keynote of his address.

The meeting was in celebration of the opening of the Salineville-Wellsville road, and Chairman Frank P. Judge Jr. announced that "inasmuch as we have been given a taste of what improved roads are, we're going right back and ask for something more." This remark was addressed to the county officials who were guests.

He recounted the trials the community encountered in seeking the legislation that resulted in the construction of the highway.

In presenting Secretary of State Brown, Judge announced that he was convinced that "we have now with us the next governor of Ohio."

"Have faith in America," Mr. Brown began. "What we need now more than anything else is that faith which Washington was possessed at Valley Forge—that faith which Lincoln possessed during the Civil war and that faith in America which we had during the World war.

"I'm like Uncle Joe Cannon, who declared to a group recently, 'have faith in your government.' I want you to have faith in the government of your fathers.

"But there seems to be something wrong somewhere, if we stop a moment to study the situation. What it is I can't tell. Statistics tell us that when McKinley was elected president of the United States 80 per cent of the electors went to the polls to cast a ballot. At the last national election this percentage declined to about 48. Perhaps our government is becoming too complex. Perhaps there is too much tendency to pass things on to Washington that should be looked after at home, and at home I mean the states, the counties, the local community. There is too much of 'passing it along,' I'm afraid.

"There is one local situation that I want to call your attention to and that is the necessity of the construction of inter-county highway No. 7. This is the road extending northward along the Ohio river from Cincinnati through Marietta to East Liverpool and thence to the lake. Here is a national defense highway, and you must not lose sight of this fact. This road commands the direct attention of the state and federal highway departments, and in the building of this road through the 'Narrows' in Jefferson county I believe there will be much financial aid extended from these sources.

"Judging from 1907, when 7,200 automobile licenses were issued in Ohio, I believe there will be close to 1,475,000 licenses issued in 1926. In 1924 there were 1,270,026 issued."

The dry ranks led by Senators Willis, R., of Ohio, and Sheppard, D., of Texas, meanwhile challenged the wets to bring any or all of their proposals to a vote. Willis predicted the defeat of every attempt to modify the Volstead Act or to weaken its enforcement. The position of the dry forces, as stated by their leaders, was that the sixty-ninth congress is just as dry politically as the congress which enacted the Volstead law.

Blease, however, declared he would force the drys upon record as to whether the prohibition law shall be enforced against Americans and not against foreigners in America.

Ambassadors Serve Liquor.

"If Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States," said Blease, "should serve wine or beer on his table, he would be a criminal under the constitution of the nation over which he is president.

"If some ambassador or minister or consul from another nation serves wine or beer on his table, he is lauded as a most hospitable host and delightful entertainer. This is peculiar but it is true.

"If the president of the United States cannot serve wine or beer, I can see no reason why foreigners should be allowed to do so.

"I am going to find out why this immunity is permitted and I am going to propose to get an amendment to the Volstead law enacted or a resolution adopted by congress to enforce the dry laws on foreigners just the same as the government enforces it against South Carolinians."

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Ten hold-ups in which bandits got from $5 to $5,000 were reported here within the last 24 hours.

ADMITS CRIME

Calmly Tells How he Outwitted Posse for Two Days.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 16.—Arnold Comer, said to be but 14 years old, and appearing even younger, was held in the county jail at Yellville, Ark., today awaiting preliminary hearing for the gruesome slaying of three persons near Buffalo Creek, Ark.

Comer, apparently unconcerned, calmly related to officers following his capture, how he killed a man, a woman and a child, and then fled into the mountains, pursued for two days by a posse.

The boy is wizened and undernourished in appearance, and appears to be of subnormal mental development, the officers declared. It was learned that he was held in the detention home here last February after a railroad detective had arrested him on the Missouri Pacific right of way. He wore a pair of overalls, a coonskin cap, and carried a shot gun. For 10 days, he declined to give any information about himself, but eventually told the matron his name, and said he left home "because his brother mistreated him."

$4 and $5 for each dollar of anticipated annual revenue and please note that I said anticipated. His turn-over would therefore be—not so many times in one year, but just the reverse, one turn-over in so many years. Instead of computing annual profit by multiplying the net profit on each turn-over by the number fo turn-overs per year, your railway has to take out of each dollar of annual revenue an amount sufficient, provided they earn it, to pay the interest on the $4 to $5 that has been invested and that is actually represented in physical plant value used and useful to produce the said one dollars of revenue.

"Let's stop here and analyze this thing, because it is a matter that invites your interest, it is a matter in which you, as business men of this community, are vitally concerned.

"To simplify our figures, lets choose some railway or other that has the minimum of $4 invested for each dollar of annual income. If it is to earn, let us say 6% on its investment, then it must lay aside out of each dollar received, four times six or twenty-four cents to pay the wages of money. And permit me to remind you here and now, that money demands its wages the same as you and I and the rest of the laboring people. Otherwise it refuses to work, it devotes its time to other business that will pay it's wage. I hardly need remind you that any business that doesn't or can't pay money its wage, finally comes to the point of hanging a crepe on the knob of its door and sending for the bankruptcy undertaker.

Question of Taxes

"Then again, everything, as you know, wears out. You can drive your automobile from two to five, maybe ten years, depending on how you use it but at the end of a given time, your repairs, your upkeep becomes so expensive that you profit by either turning it in or junking it and buying a new one. To be conservative let us say that the rails, the power stations, the cars, the buildings and other physical railway property has an average life of 33⅓ years. Then you have a depreciation cost of 3% staring you in the face before you have paid one cent toward the cost of turning wheels. This means four times three or 12 cents out of each dollar of revenue to meet an expenditure that is as sure of maturity as death and taxes.

"And, what about taxes. One would naturally expect large proportionate taxes with a physical plant investment of $4 for each dollar of revenue and this is true.

"When you buy a dollar weekly pass from this company, in round figures, seven cents of that dollar goes to the government for taxes, and 93 cents to the company.

"The utilities in the state of Ohio on the tax duplicate for the year 1925, will pay on a tax valuation of $1,280,500,000.00. This amount exceeds the total tax valuation of all other corporations in the state combined. And, get this, because it will appeal to at least your selfish interest, for the year 1925, this year, if you please, the increase in Ohio's tax valuation of public service companies was 40% more than the combined increase of banks, all other corporations and individual property in the state. This relieved you, both as business men and as individuals of some considerable amount of tax, that you would otherwise have to pay. And who is paying this tax for you? The consumer, as you well know. So far as the railways are concerned, the man who rides the cars, the man with a dinner bucket, the man who can least afford to pay it.

Seven Cents for Maintenance.

"We have now spent out of our $1, twenty-four, twelve and seven cents, or a total of 43 cents. We have left 57 cents, and we haven't yet spent one cent toward the cost of turning wheels. Out of this 57 cents we are going to spend somewhere between 48 and 54 cents for labor alone. I mean that the payrolls of your railways take and properly so, 48 to 54 per cent of their total revenue. When you buy a $1 weekly pass, you are paying approximately half of it, or 50 cents, to the men and women who are devoting their time to a life of service—because we have nothing else to sell. Furthermore, because street cars run rain or shine, good times or bad times, the pay rolls vary very little.

"We now have left seven cents with which to buy maintenance materials, pay insurance and meet other general expense. A good many of your railways are not making ends meet. They find themselves in the position of having to rob Peter to pay Paul. They are not setting aside 12 per cent of their revenue or three per cent of their plant value for depreciation. They are not paying dividends on the basis of six per cent, the bare wage of money.

"Why if we take Ohio's 1925 tax valuation, we find as I said before, a valuation of $1,480,500,000, and for the same year a report from the United States census bureau, estimating the actual worth of Ohio's public service companies at $1,8000,000,000. This means that your railways, even on their assessed valuation, the valuation on which they are paying taxes, are actually not earning as much of a profit, as they are paying out of each dollar for taxes.

"I have been giving you facts that I can substantiate from government records and this message would fall short of its purpose were it to stop here. Your railways are being operated without profit, the country over. When I say profit, I mean a return in excess of the bare wage of capital and capital will not work without wage. They are, therefore, public institutions in practically the same class and just as essential to the well-being of a community as its schools, its churches, its hospitals and other similar public institutions. It behooves you and every other good citizen to lend them your moral support.

"I was asked the question not very long ago, how long it would be before private automobiles and buses put the street railways out of business. Here is the answer. The period from 1917 to 1923 saw the greatest expansion of the automobile industry in its history. During the same period your railways experienced an increase in the number of passengers hauled of from 109 passengers per capita a per year to 150 passengers per capita per year, or an increase of almost 30 per cent. The outlook for your railways, the country over, was never more encouraging than now.

"Facts, such as I have just disclosed, are becoming more generally appreciated. There is less of a disposition on the part of the people to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. What the railways need, and all they need is a square deal. Burdensome franchise obligations requiring them to pave the streets that they no longer wear out, because they no longer use horses to pull cars are being removed. May I again remind you that the man with the dinner pail is the man who is paying for that paving. And when he isn't paying for it, the business men are, through loss in business because of poor transportation service.

"There are today three states in the Union that have passed statutes, authorizing the abrogation of franchises requiring street railways to pave and it is and has been a surprise to me that the people themselves, the country over haven't awakened to the fact long before this, that burdening their utilities with unjust, unfair and unnecessary costs is in reality costing them more in the long run, than would otherwise maintain."

Ban Extravagant Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A strict injunction forbidding extravagant expenditure of government funds in the investigation of prohibition cases has been issued by Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry czar, it was announced at the treasury today.

Andrews criticised the action of a number of federal agents who obtained the arrest of two employes of a fashionable Washington hotel through a "decoy" banquet which cost $229 for "food, entertainment, cigars and cocktails."

Andrews, in appearing before the house appropriations committee, told representatives who criticised these practices of prohibition agents, that he had taken steps to abolish such methods.

Sensation Created By Young Prodigy In Burmah District

RANGOON, India—A sensation has been created in the Burmah district by the appearance of a prodigy, the five-year-old son of a Burmese fish dealer, who is said to be able to address immense meetings with the eloquence of a La Follette, Briand or Lloyd George.

According to reports from that district, the railroad companies have to put on special trains to convey the crowds to the points where the prodigy is speaking. The prodigy's name is Tun Kyine, and it is said that he can speak for hours on end in the most brilliant Burmese.

His speeches are generally about Buddhist Ethics and moral philosophy, and his command of history is said to be nothing short of remarkable. The superstitious people of the district are disposed to treat Tun Kyine as a reincarnation of some ancient Buddhist preacher.

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. LARGER POTATO YIELD SOUGHT

County Growers Advised to Follow Proper Cultural Methods.

By following proper cultural methods, the production of potatoes in Columbiana county can be increased from 100 to 400 and 500 bushels per acre, according to County Agent Floyd Lower and E. L. Nixon, of Pennsylvania State college.

"What potato growers are doing in Pennsylvania can be done in Ohio," Columbiana county potato growers have been advised, and according to Mr. Nixon, who was formerly identified with the Ohio experimental station at Wooster, "it is no trick to produce a heavy potato crop when the right methods are followed."

The same view about potato culture in Columbiana county is held by Eart Jones, of the Ohio State experimental college.

During the last few years there has been an increase yield of potatoes shown in this county, but according to Mr. Lowers the limit has not been reached. However, it has been explained potato growers, and especially the more successful ones are now interested in growing larger crops than heretofore.

At a recent meeting of potato growers of this county held in Memorial hall, Salem, when 120 growers discussed potato culture, it was brought out that the clay soil of Columbiana county is especially well adapted to potato culture, and that by the use of modern and practical methods yields can be increased the first year from 50 to 100 per cent.

Prime requisites for increased yield consist of good seed, proper spraying, humus and proper potato mentality, the latter meaning interest in potato culture.

Humus is produced, according to the advice given potato growers of this county, by sowing seven quarts of sweet clover to the acre; the growing of alfalfa; the growing of clover, and growing of soy beans.

Much attention should be given to the practice of spraying, the growers have been advised, and the continual spraying of the plants is essential to a heavy yield. In fact, growers have been advised to spray plants every 10 days after the first spray has been applied or more often, and every six days in real hot weather. By this practice it is possible to eliminate scab and other elements that are destructive to the plants.

Another feature urged by the experts and County Agent Lower in order to produce a heavy potato yield is the matter of weeding the rows, which should be done weekly, and immediately after each rain.

Fertilizer should not be spared, the growers have been advised, it being related that Pennsylvania growers who have been producing a yield of 400 bushels or more per acre are broadcasting 1,000 pounds of acid phosphate to the row, using 400 to 600 pounds of 3-12-4 mix.

Many Columbiana potato growers have been spreading 445 pounds of fertilizer per acre, while some of the Mahoning county grewers have a record of using as much as 545 pounds per acre.

Demonstrations in potato fields of this county have disclosed that it is more profitable to use complete fertilizer and acid phosphate, it being explained that an application of 400 to 600 pounds of complete fertilizer, such as 2-12-6 or 3-12-4 or 3-8-6 in the row, with an equal application of acid phosphate broadcast, makes possible a heavier yield of potatoes than is now possible without such effort.

Early planting, deeper planting, thorough and frequent spraying, weeding and close planting in the rows, so growers have just been advised will increase yields over 50 per cent the first season.

MANY NEW CASES FILED WITH CLERK

The petit jury which has been serving during the present term of court will be discharged by Judge James G. Moore Friday, and the jurors will not be required to report again. A new petit jury has been drawn for the January term which will begin Jan. 11.

Since August 3 last when Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine assumed the office, 318 new cases have been filed on the Appearance docket.

In addition there have been more than 60 criminal actions filed.

Two grand juries have been called since August 3, one being a special session, and three foreign judges have presided in common pleas No. 2. Notwithstanding the fact that many cases have been closed finally since the opening of the September term of court, no reduction in court work is possible on account of the number of new cases being filed exceeding those disposed of.

Judge James Glenn of Coshocton, who is now presiding in No. 2 court, will close his assignment in this county Friday. During the remainder of the term Judge Moore will have all cases assigned to No. 1 court.

It is announced that during the January term Chief Justice Marshall will be asked to assign foreign jurists to service in this county in order that the volume of court work can be kept as low as possible.

An added feature of the activity of the work in the office of Clerk Ballantine is also that having to do with the last session of the court of appeals.

PLAN TO DEVELOP APPLE ORCHARD

The apple orchard at the Columbiana county home will be designated as a county demonstration orchard by the Columbiana County Farm Bureau co-operating with the county commissioners and Supt. John P. Apple trees planted 10 and 12 years ago, and which have never been in production as they should be according to their age will be developed this season.

The demonstration work throughout the season will be under the direction of C. S. Holland, orchard specialist of Ohio State university, and the work of development will be used as a guide by other orchardists in this county.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FARM BUREAU

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in the First Presbyterian church Thursday, at which time Dean Alfred Vivian of the agricultural college, Ohio State, will speak at the afternoon session.

Dean Vivian will speak at noon before the Lisbon Kiwanis club Thursday.

The meeting will be opened by the Rev. Peter W. Macauley, who will pronounce the invocation, and will be followed by the annual address of President John McB. Kerr of Yellow Creek township. Township reports will be read at this meeting and also the annual report of Field Service Manager Phil E. Heim.

OHIO FAIR CIRCUIT MEET SCHEDULED

A meeting of the Northeast Ohio Fair Circuit will be held in the rooms of the county commissioners, Youngstown, Saturday next at which time an agreement will be reached on the speed programs for the county fairs next fall. O. R. Beckwith of Ashtabula is president of the circuit and Harry E. Marsden of Lisbon secretary.

The circuit is composed of the fair associations of Ashtabula, Portage, Trumbull, Mahoning, Columbiana counties, the East Palestine fair and the Erie Exposition of Erie, Pa.

Frank Dickey of East Liverpool and J. M. Levan of Fairfield township and Mr. Marsden will represent the Columbiana County Agricultural society at this meeting.

Booked for Addresses.

C. L. Blackman, live stock specialist of the Ohio State University Agricultural college, will speak at East Rochester at 1 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon and at the town hall, Calcutta, at 7:30 o'clock the same evening. Mr. Blackman will discuss the proper use of dairy feeding. The discussion will also have to mix the most economical rations.

Many Sale Bills Filed.

All precious records for filing automobile bills of sale were broken in this county Tuesday when 123 were filed for record in the office of Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. The fees collected from this source totaled $30.75.

Should this record be continued during the balance of the month, the August record will be broken, when over 1,700 bills of sale were filed.

Marriage License.

A marriage license has been issued to J. M. Erwin, a blacksmith and Mary Goode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Goode of East Liverpool. They will be married by the Rev. J. F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church, East Liverpool.

Man Posts Bond.

Instead of taking an appeal from the probate court to common pleas court, John Lutch of Salem, who was given a hearing before Judge Lodge Riddle Monday on a charge of failing to contribute to the support of a minor child, now in the custody of his first wife, has posted a $500 bond that he will pay his former wife $10 per month for the keep of the child.

Leave to File.

In the case of William H. Pancake as trustee under the will of Joel Johnson deceased against Levi George and others. Judge James G. Moore has granted leave to W. Sherman Ward to file his answer and cross petition at once. In this case the construction of a will is sought in the pleadings of the petition.

LARGER POTATO YIELD SOUGHT

County Growers Advised to Follow Proper Cultural Methods.

By following proper cultural methods, the production of potatoes in Columbiana county can be increased from 100 to 400 and 500 bushels per acre, according to County Agent Floyd Lower and E. L. Nixon, of Pennsylvania State college.

"What potato growers are doing in Pennsylvania can be done in Ohio," Columbiana county potato growers have been advised, and according to Mr. Nixon, who was formerly identified with the Ohio experimental station at Wooster, "it is no trick to produce a heavy potato crop when the right methods are followed."

The same view about potato culture in Columbiana county is held by Eart Jones, of the Ohio State experimental college.

During the last few years there has been an increase yield of potatoes shown in this county, but according to Mr. Lowers the limit has not been reached. However, it has been explained potato growers, and especially the more successful ones are now interested in growing larger crops than heretofore.

At a recent meeting of potato growers of this county held in Memorial hall, Salem, when 120 growers discussed potato culture, it was brought out that the clay soil of Columbiana county is especially well adapted to potato culture, and that by the use of modern and practical methods yields can be increased the first year from 50 to 100 per cent.

Prime requisites for increased yield consist of good seed, proper spraying, humus and proper potato mentality, the latter meaning interest in potato culture.

Humus is produced, according to the advice given potato growers of this county, by sowing seven quarts of sweet clover to the acre; the growing of alfalfa; the growing of clover, and growing of soy beans.

Much attention should be given to the practice of spraying, the growers have been advised, and the continual spraying of the plants is essential to a heavy yield. In fact, growers have been advised to spray plants every 10 days after the first spray has been applied or more often, and every six days in real hot weather. By this practice it is possible to eliminate scab and other elements that are destructive to the plants.

Another feature urged by the experts and County Agent Lower in order to produce a heavy potato yield is the matter of weeding the rows, which should be done weekly, and immediately after each rain.

Fertilizer should not be spared, the growers have been advised, it being related that Pennsylvania growers who have been producing a yield of 400 bushels or more per acre are broadcasting 1,000 pounds of acid phosphate to the row, using 400 to 600 pounds of 3-12-4 mix.

Many Columbiana potato growers have been spreading 445 pounds of fertilizer per acre, while some of the Mahoning county growers have a record of using as much as 545 pounds per acre.

Demonstrations in potato fields of this county have disclosed that it is more profitable to use complete fertilizer and acid phosphate, it being explained that an application of 400 to 600 pounds of complete fertilizer, such as 2-12-6 or 3-12-4 or 3-8-6 in the row, with an equal application of acid phosphate broadcast, makes possible a heavier yield of potatoes than is now possible without such effort.

Early planting, deeper planting, thorough and frequent spraying, weeding and close planting in the rows, so growers have just been advised will increase yields over 50 per cent the first season.

MANY NEW CASES FILED WITH CLERK

The petit jury which has been serving during the present term of court will be discharged by Judge James G. Moore Friday, and the jurors will not be required to report again. A new petit jury has been drawn for the January term which will begin Jan. 11.

Since August 3 last when Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine assumed the office, 318 new cases have been filed on the Appearance docket.

In addition there have been more than 60 criminal actions filed.

Two grand juries have been called since August 3, one being a special session, and three foreign judges have presided in common pleas No. 2. Notwithstanding the fact that many cases have been closed finally since the opening of the September term of court, no reduction in court work is possible on account of the number of new cases being filed exceeding those disposed of.

Judge James Glenn of Coshocton, who is now presiding in No. 2 court, will close his assignment in this county Friday. During the remainder of the term Judge Moore will have all cases assigned to No. 1 court.

It is announced that during the January term Chief Justice Marshall will be asked to assign foreign jurists to service in this county in order that the volume of court work can be kept as low as possible.

An added feature of the activity of the work in the office of Clerk Ballantine is also that having to do with the last session of the court of appeals.

The demonstration work throughout the season will be under the direction of C. S. Holland, orchard specialist of Ohio State university, and the work of development will be used as a guide by other orchardists in this county.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FARM BUREAU

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in the First Presbyterian church Thursday, at which time Dean Alfred Vivian of the agricultural college, Ohio State, will speak at the afternoon session.

Dean Vivian will speak at noon before the Lisbon Kiwanis club Thursday.

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

TWENTY-FIVE.

If Laurel Harwood really expected her husband to speak to her about the forthcoming return to Central City of his first and divorced wife, she was disappointed. He preserved a diplomatic silence regarding the matter that almost deceived her into believing that his attitude was indifferent; that the news was of no consequence as far as he was concerned. She had misgivings, but not because she was afraid that Mary Harwood would rewin Noble. No, her fears emanated from an intuitive expectation that the former wife would alienate Noble and his children, and drag Laurel herself into the whirlpool. She sensed, too, that with two Mrs. Noble Harwoods within the small confines of Central City, at least one would be uncomfortable, and that the older one, the discarded wife and mother, would have the sympathy of the town.

Mary Harwood's imminent return was upon Laurel's mind daily, either briefly or lengthily, but she did not betray the fact to Noble. She matched his diplomatic silence with a philosophic reserve of her own. She was, however, immediately set on edge with fears when Noble quietly announced at dinner one evening: "I shall have to be away most of next week, honey pet."

Laurel's eyes looked tenaciously into his from across the table. She dared not speak; she was not sure she could. Of course, Mary Harwood's name was the first thing that had popped into her mind. Was Noble going to New York to see his first wife?

"I must go to Chicago and Detroit for some conferences," he explained, a moment later. "Looks like the company is going to be able to put across a big tie-up with the Speedler auto people, in Detroit.

"I shall miss you awfully," she said. She half smiled, half frowned at him with relief.

"Perhaps you won't miss me as much as you think," he replied, thoughtfully, then quickly added: "I'd like to take you with me, but I don't think it's a good idea to have a wife along on a business trip."

"Naturally," she laughed.

Noble smiled genially. "Ot, you know what I mean."

"I do, dear," she replied in a way that warmed him.

"I'm going to have to go to the Pacific coast soon, and you shall go with me then," he went on, much in the manner of a parent promising something to a child.

"Do you mind if I go over to mother's for a few days while you're gone?"

"Of course not, dear. Only—." He sipped his wine reflectively. "Only it might be misunderstood."

Laurel was annoyed. How COULD people misunderstand anything like that?

Noble read the thought in her eyes and spoke, "Wagging tongues say some queer things."

"Very well, dear," she said resignedly. "I won't. You're right." She didn't relish being in this big house alone with so many hostile eyes watching her.

"Oh, by the way, dear," Noble interjected. "Harry Yancey wants us to come over to his place tomorrow evening." His eyes lighted as he spoke.

At last it had come. Laurel had been dreading what she knew would be an eventuality. Dully she heard him say, "I told him we would come."

"Are you sure MRS. Yancey wants us to come?" she asked suggestively.

"Why not?" He looked up from his salad puzzled.

"I should think she would have called me and made the invitation."

Noble frowned. "Of course Harry wouldn't have asked me without knowing that it would be all right with her."

"No, he probably is giving her the news this evening. Men don't always consult their wives about such invitations."

"DON'T you want to go, dear?" His tone was fretful.

Laurel affected a smile to relieve him. "Yes, it's all right, dearest love."

Dissatisfied, Noble went on with his food.

"What shall I wear, dear," Laurel asked.

"That gown is all right," her husband answered, without looking at her.

They were having their dessert when Marion came into the dining room, having just arrived at the house, and sat down wearily with a flushed "Hello" in the chair Louis held for her.

Noble pressed his mouth carefully with his serviette and regarded Marion austerely. "I wish, Marion, that you would endeavor to begin your dinner with the rest of us."

"I was late," his daughter replied indifferently. "I went out riding with Wyman Holt and we ran out of gasoline." Her eyes met Laurel's challengingly.

"That can't be the reason why you were 'late' yesterday and the day before," Noble remarked.

"What's the matter, daddy, you're out of sorts tonight. Have a bad day at the office?"

Laurel was shocked by the disregard of manners her step-daughter showed in eating her soup rapidly, interspersing her words with spoonfuls of the liquid. Marion detected the glance and misinterpreted its meaning: "Did Wyman's tub ever run out of gas when you were with him?" There was a malicious gleam in her eyes.

Mrs. Harwood felt her husban's eyes upon her. "I didn't know it was a habit of Wyman's," she replied lightly. She was still the object of Noble's gaze. She wondered if Marion had made some spiteful remark to Noble when the two of them saw Wyman delivering her at Harwood house the other afternoon.

Politeness is Required To Gypsy Relatives; Court Puzzle Results

BERLIN—Because he didn't excuse himself to his wife's relatives for having married into their family, Anton Steinbach, king of a gypsy tribe, had to answer before a Berlin court to a charge of manslaughter.

The excuse, it was brought out in the testimony, must be made every time the husband meets a member of his wife's family. Because Steinbach neglected to observe this sacred gypsy custom when he met Primas Winter, head of the tribe of his wife, Winter slapped his face. Whereupon Steinbach, not wanting to lay hands on Winter, who was old, grabbed the latter's son and pushed his face through a plate glass window.

The result was a gun battle between the two tribes in which Karl Winter, son of Primas, was killed.

The court, however, was unable to disentangle the affray and acquitted the accused on the ground of self-defense.

CONQUEROR OF THE MONGOLIAN WILDS

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who startled the world a few years ago by discovering a nest of dinosaur eggs ten million years old, arrived in New York on November 9th from his Third Asiatic Expedition under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History.

Again he attributes much of the success of his expedition to the astounding performance of his five Dodge Brothers Motor Cars.

Following is a direct quotation from an official statement by Dr. Andrews upon his return to America:

The Gobi Desert in Mongolia is the most extensive undeveloped and unexplored region now left in the world. Until a few years ago it was retarded by the impossibly slow traffic of camel trains, the only means of communication.

But now it is being crisscrossed in every direction by motor cars, or, more correctly by one motor car, the Dodge. Sixty or seventy Dodge Brothers cars are making regular trips far into the interior of this vast waste, bringing out loads of sables, precious furs, wool and other products.

No other car except the Dodge is found there because we have tried it out on each of our three expeditions and have had it demonstrated to our satisfaction that the Dodge is the only car that will stand up under the strain of the roadless desert and do everything we ask of it.

Few people have occasion to subject their motor cars to punishment of this severity. It is reassuring, however, to know that in emergencies Dodge Brothers Motor Car is built to meet the test.

These dependable and sturdy qualities also account for the fact that more than 90% of all the motor cars Dodge Brothers have built during the past eleven years, are still in active service.

FORMER SULTAN OF TURKEY HAS TROUBLE PAYING RENT

Living From Hand to Mouth In Little French City—Relatives In Same Boat.

San Remo, France.—Sultan Mohammed VI, the last ruler and caliph of Turkey, is struggling to maintain himself and his small household at this quiet retreat on borrowed money or on charity funds sent him by relatives and former supporters.

While other former European monarchs and nobles are living in comparative luxury in foreign lands, Mohammed VI must make repeated calls for assistance to save him and his modest retinue from poverty.

The aged sultan recently was so hard up that he was obliged to dispense with his young son's German nurse. Soon after that he was threatened with eviction if he failed to pay his rent. Things looked black for the once wealthy and influential head of the Moslem world, when his sister saved the situation by pawning a diamond ring and a rope of pearls.

Scarcely had this debt been settled when the sultan's nephew came to Paris and squandered half the sum realized on his mother's jewels, which was said to be a million francs.

A fresh call probably will be made upon the former monarch's relatives, but many of them are in as great need as the ex-sultan himself. For example, Prince Ziaeddin, eldest son of the sultan's predecessor, Mohammed V, is in the last stages of destitution. He and his wife and two daughters are facing eviction for nonpayment of rent. Friends have started a subscription in their behalf.

The situation of the other 250 members of the imperial family of Turkey who were driven from Constantinople is even more acute than that of the sultan. They are scattered in different parts of Europe and live only by the charity of their friends. When they were expelled from Turkey they were allowed to take about $150. Their property was nationalized and their jewels and property confiscated.

These fugitives include thirty-five princes and princesses of the house of Osman, three sheiks-ul-Islam, a former grand vizier, many cabinet ministers, two court chamberlains, half a score of editors, many army and navy officers and a number of high government officials.

COUNCIL HOLDS FINAL SESSION

Act on Assessment Cases and Pays Engineer George.

City council adjusted the Lisbon Firestone bank's Wells avenue assessment problem, ordered the Stone damage case carried to the state supreme court, gave the American Sheet & Tin Plate plant a strip of ground on Wells avenue in adjustment of the mill's paving assessment, and paid City Engineer John George and M. K. Duty at their final meeting last night.

The Twentieth street sewer problem and the reservoir superintendent's job were laid on the shelf for the new council which meets next month.

Adjustment of the assessment case with the Firestone bank was made through Attorney C. C. Connell of Lisbon, who attended last night's session. The property originally had been assesed on a valuation of approximately $6,450. Attorney Connell asserted that the re-appraisement of the 17½-acre tract owned by the bank here, is $4,500, and pointed out that the ground is for sale in the open market at that price. He said the bank was willing to pay one-third of the value, or $1,500.

Council accepted his offer and Attorney Connell immediately wrote out a check for $1,500, payable to the city treasurer.

Representing the plaintiff in the Stone damage case against the city, Attorney W. A. O'Grady asked solons to tell him what they were going to do toward paying the judgment granted in court. He declared that, if the city is going no further with the case, he'd like to know about it so he could issue an execution.

Solicitor Ingram asked council's authority to carry the case to the supreme court and council voted it. Councilman Connor objected to carrying the case higher.

Solons passed a resolution deeding a small triangular strip of ground adjoining the present mill property in Wells avenue, at the eastern end of the bridge, to the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant. The mill will pay the paving assessments levied against the company.

City Engineer John George told council why he was charging a total of $3,151.81 for engineering services in Wells avenue and Lisbon street, necessary to do in preparing the way outlining the amount of work it was for the paving. He said he based his price on six and one half per cent of the estimate, which, he pointed out, was a common practice in such cases.

With the exception of White, solons voted to pay the bill.

Council decided that the J. B. Orr property be assessed at full value, and that the Lewis Orr estate offer of settlement be rejected.

For the second time, M. K. Duty, contractor, submitted a bill for $440.01 for work on the cellar of the W. E. Parsons home, in Clark avenue, which was damaged last spring when an underground storm sewer broke through. The city is to pay half of it. Council approved the bill.

Representing the traction company, President Howard Maxwell appeared before solons to discuss the proposed Twentieth street sewer.

He approved plans for the project, providing the city would take action in Seventeenth and Commerce streets, toward remedying the water situation He suggested, in the latter case, sewer drops in Eighteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. He pointed out that the Twentieth street sewer doesn't bother the traction company nearly as much as the Seventeenth street situation, and that the latter was really the more important of the two, in the opinion of traction company officials.

Councilman Ewing pointed out that the construction of additional sewer drops would not solve the problem in Seventeenth street. An expensive connection with the storm sewer near the U. S. Pottery plant would be the only practical method, he said.

Solons were unable to promise anything on the Seventeenth street situation and President Maxwell asserted the company could do nothing in Twentieth street unless the city aided in Seventeenth street.

On motion by Ewing and seconded by White, solons referred the problem to the new council, with Nicholson casting the only dissenting vote.

A new ordinance to create the office of reservoir superintendent, with the civil service phase eliminated, was brought up for first reading. Councilmen Connor, Ewing and White voted in the negative on Nicholson's motion to refer the ordinance to the new council, with Peters, Baker, Swearengin and Nicholson on the affirmative side.

The monthly report of Auditor Eckfeld was read as follows:

General fund, $711.39; safety fund, $376.62; (ovedrawn); health, $644.70; service, $502.91; cemetery, $2,051.20; library, $959.16; special water, $32,637.07; auto license, $4,959.68; gasoline tax, $1,332; cemetery trust, $516.52; final retainer, none; Wells avenue and Lisbon street, $2,310.71; sinking fund, $41,420.80.

Hanlon, it is said, was accompanying a girl to her home, near Kountz avenue, when Dolby and James attacked him. One of the pair, it is claimed, struck Hanlon in the head with a club and then they fled.

COUNCIL HOLDS FINAL SESSION

Act on Assessment Cases and Pays Engineer George.

City council adjusted the Lisbon Firestone bank's Wells avenue assessment problem, ordered the Stone damage case carried to the state supreme court, gave the American Sheet & Tin Plate plant a strip of ground on Wells avenue in adjustment of the mill's paving assessment, and paid City Engineer John George and M. K. Duty at their final meeting last night.

The Twentieth street sewer problem and the reservoir superintendent's job were laid on the shelf for the new council which meets next month.

Adjustment of the assessment case with the Firestone bank was made through Attorney C. C. Connell of Lisbon, who attended last night's session. The property originally had been assesed on a valuation of approximately $6,450. Attorney Connell asserted that the re-appraisement of the 17½-acre tract owned by the bank here, is $4,500, and pointed out that the ground is for sale in the open market at that price. He said the bank was willing to pay one-third of the value, or $1,500.

Council accepted his offer and Attorney Connell immediately wrote out a check for $1,500, payable to the city treasurer.

Representing the plaintiff in the Stone damage case against the city, Attorney W. A. O'Grady asked solons to tell him what they were going to do toward paying the judgment granted in court. He declared that, if the city is going no further with the case, he'd like to know about it so he could issue an execution.

Solicitor Ingram asked council's authority to carry the case to the supreme court and council voted it. Councilman Connor objected to carrying the case higher.

Solons passed a resolution deeding a small triangular strip of ground adjoining the present mill property in Wells avenue, at the eastern end of the bridge, to the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant. The mill will pay the paving assessments levied against the company.

City Engineer John George told council why he was charging a total of $3,151.81 for engineering services in Wells avenue and Lisbon street, necessary to do in preparing the way outlining the amount of work it was for the paving. He said he based his price on six and one half per cent of the estimate, which, he pointed out, was a common practice in such cases.

With the exception of White, solons voted to pay the bill.

Council decided that the J. B. Orr property be assessed at full value, and that the Lewis Orr estate offer of settlement be rejected.

For the second time, M. K. Duty, contractor, submitted a bill for $440.01 for work on the cellar of the W. E. Parsons home, in Clark avenue, which was damaged last spring when an underground storm sewer broke through. The city is to pay half of it. Council approved the bill.

Representing the traction company, President Howard Maxwell appeared before solons to discuss the proposed Twentieth street sewer.

He approved plans for the project, contribute to the extent of 20 per cent of the cost, on the estimate of $5,250, providing the city would take action in Seventeenth and Commerce streets, toward remedying the water situation He suggested, in the latter case, sewer drops in Eighteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. He pointed out that the Twentieth street sewer doesn't bother the traction company nearly as much as the Seventeenth street situation, and that the latter was really the more important of the two, in the opinion of traction company officials.

Councilman Ewing pointed out that the construction of additional sewer drops would not solve the problem in Seventeenth street. An expensive connection with the storm sewer near the U. S. Pottery plant would be the only practical method, he said.

Solons were unable to promise anything on the Seventeenth street situation and President Maxwell asserted the company could do nothing in Twentieth street unless the city aided in Seventeenth street.

On motion by Ewing and seconded by White, solons referred the problem to the new council, with Nicholson casting the only dissenting vote.

A new ordinance to create the office of reservoir superintendent, with the civil service phase eliminated, was brought up for first reading. Councilmen Connor, Ewing and White voted in the negative on Nicholson's motion to refer the ordinance to the new council, with Peters, Baker, Swearengin and Nicholson on the affirmative side.

The monthly report of Auditor Eckfeld was read as follows:

DISTRIBUTE FUNDS TO STATE BANKS

Distribution of state funds as completed December 1, in compliance with the new depository law was the most equitable ever attained according to a statement made yesterday by State Treasurer W. S. Johnson. All funds in the treasury on the above date totalled $10,864,731.52. Of this amount, 40 per cent, or $4,370,048.82, was distributed among active banks, and the remainder of $6,494,682.70, among the inactive banks of the 55 counties on the property assessment basis.

In the case of no county was there a wide divergence between the amount of inactive funds therein deposited and the amount to which the banks of the county were entitled, except that in eight counties the banks themselves were not qualified to receive the full amounts that would otherwise have been available.

180 Boys Play Basketball Under New High School System

First String Crew Faces Initial Test Friday Against Franklin & Marshall Quintet; Approximately 105 Girls Play Under Similar Plan.

DIVIDED into nine groups of about 20 boys to each group, each squad battling on a competitive basis with promotion to the first crew as the primary objective, high school basketball players—approximately 180 of them—are working out a new court system, according to Athletic Director O. V. Boone, which is designed to produce results, from the first squad down to the last.

Group No. 1 includes members of the varsity cage outfit and a bunch of reserve material.

On Friday night this squad will have its first opportunity to show its stuff in high school's opening cage contest with Franklin & Marshall Academy quintet here.

"They must say it with baskets," asserts Director Boone, "because a lot of players in the lower groups are waiting for opportunity to get into the big swim."

Each of the nine groups are in charge of a faculty representative, the No. 1 outfit being headed by Basketball Coach Lorah. Each has its practice assignments at regular intervals during the week.

Promotion to the next squad ahead is ever the incentive to each of the players of the respective divisions. This applies even to the first team, Director Boone points out. Whenever, for instance, a player on No. 8 group develops enough ability to shadow a member of the premier section, a change will be made in the personnel of those divisions.

On the first of February, interclass tournament play will be started, the classes selecting teams from the players of the various groups now practicing.

Approximately 105 girls are playing the court game, comprising five groups.

And on Friday night, in a preliminary exhibition to the High School-Franklin & Marshall tilt, Mrs. Mast will have her first opportunity to watch her varsity sextet in action. Although in other games of the schedule, outside teams will be selected as foes, it was decided to pit the first team against an all-star aggregation picked from the remaining players in the opener.

M. P.'S DEFEAT BAPTISTS, 35-16

League Champs Score Heavily in Second Half.

The Methodist Protestant Sunday school circuit champions annexed their third consecutive victory of the present campaign last night on the M. P. floor when they downed the Baptists, 35 to 16.

The Baptists lacked endurance to keep pace with the opposition in the final half. In the initial 20 minutes of battle, they held the M. P.'s even, the count at the end of the half being 14-14.

But the Baptists were unable to score a single field goal and made only two fouls in the final half.

Mackey was the scoring star. He dropped in nine double deckers. G. Mackey, Hall and Fugate performed well for the losers.

The M. E. Juniors trounced the Presbyterian Juniors, 33 to 25, in a hard fought preliminary.

CHRISTIANS BEAT BOULEVARDS, 29-21

First Christian church basketballers were a little too good for the Park Boulevard lads last night, the Christians copping their first league victory by the count of 29 to 21.

Both teams played good basketball, the winners showing top form in all around team play.

The score book showed a 4-4 tally at the end of the first period, but in the second the College street crew edged into the lead, finishing the half with a 12 to 9 margin. The Boulevards tied it up again at 14-14 in the early part of the third quarter, but the Christians regained the lead when Kilmer and E. Bloor found the basket for enough field goals to boost the count to 20 to 16 at the end of the period, and they maintained the lead until the final whistle.

Kilmer, Reese and R. Bloor starred for the winners while Kirkhams and Hall were active for the Boulevards.

The Christian Juniors trimmed the Baptist Juniors, 25 to 7, in the preliminary.

Goose narrowly escaped a night in the district jail because he couldn't find anyone who knew him.

Death Finishes Vivid Career of Man Who Once Licked Carpentier

Siki, his white wife and child, and himself in fighting pose.

By Norman E. Brown.

Twenty-eight years ago—Sept. 16, 1897—the stork stopped a moment in St. Louis, Senegal, French Africa, and left a little dark bundle in the hut of the Phal family.

The other night that bundle, grown to 190 pounds of half-man half-tiger, was found dead in a pool of blood on Forty-fourth street street, New York City.

And in the intervening years he had written a life story that challenges the imagination of a De Maupassant or a Balzac.

That hybrid was Louis Phal, "Battling Siki."

The sporting world knows him as the throw back to the primitive who startled the world some three years ago by knocking out Georges Carpentier, once seeker of Jack Dempsey's crown and the idol of Europe.

The tender age of 10 years found Siki a young tiger cub, so to speak, ebony black, with big pearly teeth, a wide open smile, and the eagerness of youth to "see."

Is Taken To France.

A well-to-do French woman, attracted by the child's smile and love of life, gave him his first chance to see life. Wild-eyed with delight Siki boarded an ocean liner at his seaport town of St. Louis one day and sailed away to France with his benefactor. She bought him handsome clothes, paid lavishly for his education and sought to give him a chance in life.

Her death altered Siki's life over night. He became a wanderer. At the age of 16 he was cleaning out a bar room in Toulouse. He was husky, however, and the wild life of the bar room appealed to him. It was one of the nightly habitues who finally got him his first real fight. That was in 1913. He received just three and a half francs for that fight but the money looked big to young Phal. The world war came — and found Siki eager to get in. Modern methods of fighting mystified him. He began to wonder at the delay in going into actual combat. Through his war days there lurked the desire of his ancestors to wade in, hand, toes, teeth—man's natural weapons.

Siki got his chances, however, though not in the way he sought. He emerged from the conflict the wearer of the croix de guerre and the possessor of a beautiful physique—due to the stringent regulations of the army.

He was in this marvelous shape when a boxing promoter picked him up at the same old bar in Toulouse and took him to Paris. A few fights in the French capital "made Siki." He traveled to Germany and there beat Breitenstrater, the German champ. Spalla, Italy's favorite heavy, proved no match for the Senegalese husky.

"Framed or Not—"

Then came his bout with Carpentier. Decide for yourself whether or not the fight was "framed"—whether the black man was to "lay down" for Carpentier. The result of the fight is known to the sport world. Siki, becoming enraged in the sixth round at Carpentier's tactics, seemed to go wild. Squealing with rage he waded into the French star and battered him to the floor.

That fight gave Siki world fame and opened the door to riches of which the black man had never dreamed.

They say that he loved whisky before that—that he trained on liquor and drank it between rounds. Whether or not this be so, Siki proceeded to invest most of his earnings in whisky and the pleasure that roisterous companions could furnish.

The European sporting circles accepted him. His massive black body, encased in a dress suit, immaculate albeit a trifle incongruous with his bullet head and bulging lips and cheeks, made him an interesting figure. Women in public places were his for the asking. He laughed at all suggestions that his body could not stand the "new civilization" and that his physique would be ruined.

Then came the downfall. Mike McTigue, American and notoriously light hitter, met Siki in Dublin, Ireland, and knocked out the black whirlwind—on the eve of Siki's departure for America and more fame.

His Fighting Degenerates.

Siki finally came to the U. S.—a couple of times. But his fights were jokes. Most of his publicity came from his escapades between the bouts. Midnight brawls left him badly wounded on two or three occasions. Deportation proceedings once threatened to cut short his final trip here.

And then came the end—as riotous a one as Siki could ask.

Twenty-eight years of life—starting in an African village, soaring to its heights in the show places and wild nights of the French capital—

MRS. RUTH DENIES DIVORCE REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Indignant denials that she intended to begin separation proceedings against Babe Ruth was voiced today by Mrs. Ruth at the Concourse Plaza hotel, the Bronx, following the receipt from Boston of reports that a split between the Sultan of Swat and his wife was imminent.

The rumors apparently were an echo of the Babe's now famous escapade last year when a fine of $5,000 was imposed upon him by Miller Huggins, leader of the New York Yankees, for disorderly conduct. At that time, Mrs. Ruth declared she loved her famous husband and would stick by him and today she reiterated that declaration.

Crowley May Quit As Columbia Grid Coach

Not Expected to Return Next Season as Result of Rockne Incident; Now, Instead of Three Prospects, Eastern College Has None.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Having achieved a sensational failure in its attempt to wean at least two nationally famous coaches away from their existing affiliations, Columbia university today arose at the count of nine to a realization of the fact that it must keep blocking the situation with its chin from now until the end of the 1925 football season. Instead of playing around with the idea of accepting the best man among three prospects, Columbia now finds that it has none.

It muffed the Knute Rockne business right out in front of the entire populace. That was one good man gone right.

Another, according to the gossip today, was Andy Smith, coach of the University of California. They say that Andy was properly approached when he was in the east around Thanksgiving day and told to name his own figures.

This didn't mean too much, however, in view of the fact that the campaign on Rockne's doorstep already was being laid locally. They simply planned to play Smith against Rockne and let the worse man lose.

Smith threw the idea for a total liability by signing another contract with California. It is to be presumed that the rally around Rockne followed.

Meanwhile, Columbia seems to have forgotten that it enjoyed its best season of the modern generation under Charley Crowley, a combination product of Notre Dame and Harvard. Crowley's contract expired at the end of the 1925 season.

According to some Columbia men, he intimated that he did not wish to return. On the head of the Rockne incident, there isn't the slightest chance that he will.

Crowley may or may not be headed for Harvard. But, in either case, it isn't unlikely that he would prefer selling rungless stepladders to coaching at Columbia again, after the expose of recent days.

Who, then, for the job? That is Columbia's problem, not ours. At this stage of the proceedings, there isn't a successful coach available.

This, in view of Columbia's rather obvious designs upon the personal property of other institutions, would seem very much a case of the biter bitten, if it wasn't for one fact; it is more like the kidnapper kidded.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

The Pavement That Meets the Challenge of Traffic

Your own observation and experience will tell you that the road which was good enough twenty years ago, or perhaps even ten years ago, simply will not do today.

It lacks the strength, the rigidity and the firmness necessary to withstand the terrific wear and tear of motor transportation.

Only pavement will do this. And the pavement that meets all tests is concrete.

Built in accordance with approved standards of highway construction, the concrete pavement remains free of ruts and bumps, year after year.

Requiring practically no maintenance, it costs less in the end than any other pavement.

Isn't that the kind your community ought to have? Then let your local authorities know that you want your highways paved with concrete.

Our free booklet, "Concrete Facts about Pavements," will be sent promptly on request. Write for it today.

The Baptists lacked endurance to keep pace with the opposition in the final half. In the initial 20 minutes of battle, they held the M. P.'s even, the count at the end of the half being 14-14.

But the Baptists were unable to score a single field goal and made only two fouls in the final half.

Mackey was the scoring star. He dropped in nine double deckers. G. Mackey, Hall and Fugate performed well for the losers.

The M. E. Juniors trounced the Presbyterian Juniors, 33 to 25, in a hard fought preliminary.

CHRISTIANS BEAT BOULEVARDS, 29-21

First Christian church basketballers were a little too good for the Park Boulevard lads last night, the Christians copping their first league victory by the count of 29 to 21.

Both teams played good basketball, the winners showing top form in all around team play.

The score book showed a 4-4 tally at the end of the first period, but in the second the College street crew edged into the lead, finishing the half with a 12 to 9 margin. The Boulevards tied it up again at 14-14 in the early part of the third quarter, but the Christians regained the lead when Kilmer and E. Bloor found the basket for enough field goals to boost the count to 20 to 16 at the end of the period, and they maintained the lead until the final whistle.

Kilmer, Reese and R. Bloor starred for the winners while Kirkhams and Hall were active for the Boulevards.

Hero in Summer Time, But Just Goslin Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Goose Goslin is a hero in Washington from April to October, with his home runs, et cetera, but from October to April he is just a guy named Goslin.

Goose parked his new automobile in a forbidden spot on F street, and a cop who never saw a world's series game haled him into court today for violating one of the capital's million parking regulations. Goose narrowly escaped a night in the district jail because he couldn't find anyone who knew him.

Ex-coast Stars to be Scouts for Cardinals

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—"Vinegar Bill" Essick, former manager of the Vernon club of the Coast league, and Eddie Herr, once connected with the St. Louis Cardinals, have been added to the scouting staff of the New York Yankees. Announcement to this effect was made public today, shortly before Miller Huggins was scheduled to depart for Florida. Essick will be in charge of the Pacific Coast territory for the Yankees. Herr will operate in the Middle West.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Frank McGrath, of Bay City, Mich., will captain the Georgetown football team in 1926, it was announced here today. McGrath has played left end on the team for two years, and prior to coming to the hilltop institution was a crack high school player.

Death Finishes Vivid Career of Man Who Once Licked Carpentier

Siki, his white wife and child, and himself in fighting pose.

By Norman E. Brown.

Twenty-eight years ago—Sept. 16, 1897—the stork stopped a moment in St. Louis, Senegal, French Africa, and left a little dark bundle in the hut of the Phal family.

The other night that bundle, grown to 190 pounds of half-man half-tiger, was found dead in a pool of blood on Forty-fourth street street, New York City.

And in the intervening years he had written a life story that challenges the imagination of a De Maupassant or a Balzac.

That hybrid was Louis Phal, "Battling Siki."

The sporting world knows him as the throw back to the primitive who startled the world some three years ago by knocking out Georges Carpentier, once seeker of Jack Dempsey's crown and the idol of Europe.

The tender age of 10 years found Siki a young tiger cub, so to speak, ebony black, with big pearly teeth, a wide open smile, and the eagerness of youth to "see."

Is Taken To France.

A well-to-do French woman, attracted by the child's smile and love of life, gave him his first chance to see life. Wild-eyed with delight Siki boarded an ocean liner at his seaport town of St. Louis one day and sailed away to France with his benefactor. She bought him handsome clothes, paid lavishly for his education and sought to give him a chance in life.

Her death altered Siki's life over night. He became a wanderer. At the age of 16 he was cleaning out a bar room in Toulouse. He was husky, however, and the wild life of the bar room appealed to him. It was one of the nightly habitues who finally got him his first real fight. That was in 1913. He received just three and a half francs for that fight but the money looked big to young Phal. The world war came — and found Siki eager to get in. Modern methods of fighting mystified him. He began to wonder at the delay in going into actual combat. Through his war days there lurked the desire of his ancestors to wade in, hand, toes, teeth—man's natural weapons.

Siki got his chances, however, though not in the way he sought. He emerged from the conflict the wearer of the croix de guerre and the possessor of a beautiful physique—due to the stringent regulations of the army.

He was in this marvelous shape when a boxing promoter picked him up at the same old bar in Toulouse and took him to Paris. A few fights in the French capital "made Siki." He traveled to Germany and there beat Breitenstrater, the German champ. Spalla, Italy's favorite heavy, proved no match for the Senegalese husky.

"Framed or Not—"

Then came his bout with Carpentier. Decide for yourself whether or not the fight was "framed"—whether the black man was to "lay down" for Carpentier. The result of the fight is known to the sport world. Siki, becoming enraged in the sixth round at Carpentier's tactics, seemed to go wild. Squealing with rage he waded into the French star and battered him to the floor.

That fight gave Siki world fame and opened the door to riches of which the black man had never dreamed.

They say that he loved whisky before that—that he trained on liquor and drank it between rounds. Whether or not this be so, Siki proceeded to invest most of his earnings in whisky and the pleasure that roisterous companions could furnish.

The European sporting circles accepted him. His massive black body, encased in a dress suit, immaculate albeit a trifle incongruous with his bullet head and bulging lips and cheeks, made him an interesting figure. Women in public places were his for the asking. He laughed at all suggestions that his body could not stand the "new civilization" and that his physique would be ruined.

Then came the downfall. Mike McTigue, American and notoriously light hitter, met Siki in Dublin, Ireland, and knocked out the black whirlwind—on the eve of Siki's departure for America and more fame.

His Fighting Degenerates.

Siki finally came to the U. S.—a couple of times. But his fights were jokes. Most of his publicity came from his escapades between the bouts. Midnight brawls left him badly wounded on two or three occasions. Deportation proceedings once threatened to cut short his final trip here.

And then came the end—as riotous a one as Siki could ask.

Twenty-eight years of life—starting in an African village, soaring to its heights in the show places and wild nights of the French capital—

MRS. RUTH DENIES DIVORCE REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Indignant denials that she intended to begin separation proceedings against Babe Ruth was voiced today by Mrs. Ruth at the Concourse Plaza hotel, the Bronx, following the receipt from Boston of reports that a split between the Sultan of Swat and his wife was imminent.

The rumors apparently were an echo of the Babe's now famous escapade last year when a fine of $5,000 was imposed upon him by Miller Huggins, leader of the New York Yankees, for disorderly conduct. At that time, Mrs. Ruth declared she loved her famous husband and would stick by him and today she reiterated that declaration.

Crowley May Quit As Columbia Grid Coach

Not Expected to Return Next Season as Result of Rockne Incident; Now, Instead of Three Prospects, Eastern College Has None.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Having achieved a sensational failure in its attempt to wean at least two nationally famous coaches away from their existing affiliations, Columbia university today arose at the count of nine to a realization of the fact that it must keep blocking the situation with its chin from now until the end of the 1925 football season. Instead of playing around with the idea of accepting the best man among three prospects, Columbia now finds that it has none.

It muffed the Knute Rockne business right out in front of the entire populace. That was one good man gone right.

Another, according to the gossip today, was Andy Smith, coach of the University of California. They say that Andy was properly approached when he was in the east around Thanksgiving day and told to name his own figures.

This didn't mean too much, however, in view of the fact that the campaign on Rockne's doorstep already was being laid locally. They simply planned to play Smith against Rockne and let the worse man lose.

Smith threw the idea for a total liability by signing another contract with California. It is to be presumed that the rally around Rockne followed.

Meanwhile, Columbia seems to have forgotten that it enjoyed its best season of the modern generation under Charley Crowley, a combination product of Notre Dame and Harvard. Crowley's contract expired at the end of the 1925 season.

According to some Columbia men, he intimated that he did not wish to return. On the head of the Rockne incident, there isn't the slightest chance that he will.

Crowley may or may not be headed for Harvard. But, in either case, it isn't unlikely that he would prefer selling rungless stepladders to coaching at Columbia again, after the expose of recent days.

Who, then, for the job? That is Columbia's problem, not ours. At this stage of the proceedings, there isn't a successful coach available.

This, in view of Columbia's rather obvious designs upon the personal property of other institutions, would seem very much a case of the biter bitten, if it wasn't for one fact; it is more like the kidnapper kidded.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

The Pavement That Meets the Challenge of Traffic

Your own observation and experience will tell you that the road which was good enough twenty years ago, or perhaps even ten years ago, simply will not do today.

It lacks the strength, the rigidity and the firmness necessary to withstand the terrific wear and tear of motor transportation.

Only pavement will do this. And the pavement that meets all tests is concrete.

Built in accordance with approved standards of highway construction, the concrete pavement remains free of ruts and bumps, year after year.

Requiring practically no maintenance, it costs less in the end than any other pavement.

Isn't that the kind your community ought to have? Then let your local authorities know that you want your highways paved with concrete.

Our free booklet, "Concrete Facts about Pavements," will be sent promptly on request. Write for it today.

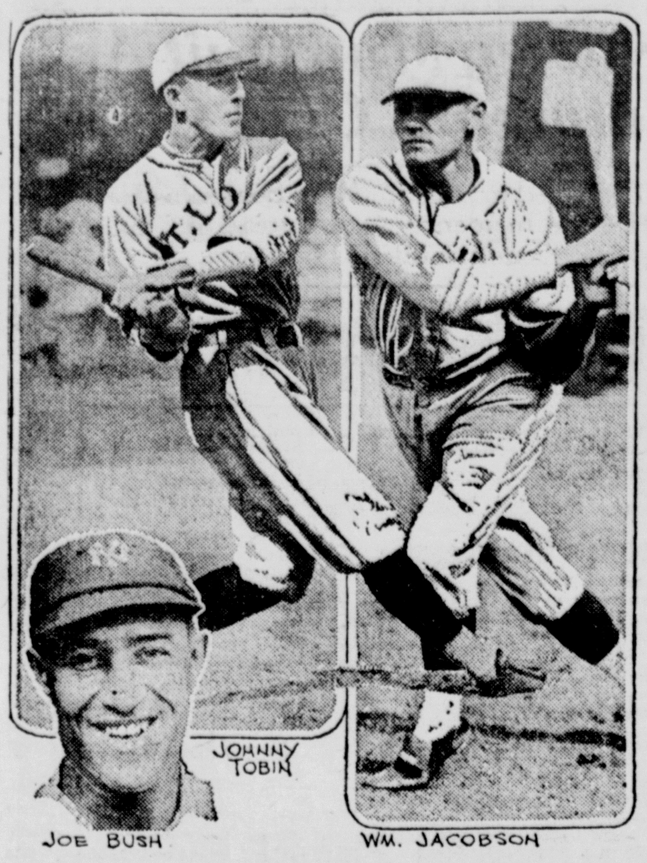
Sisler May Unload Three Veterans to Further Strengthen Brownies



Realizing that such youngsters as Rice, Bennett, Dixon, Gaston and Giard helped make his team a much improved one last season, Manager Sisler of the Browns, it is said, will unload more veterans before another season, and replace them with youngsters. Bill Jacobson, Johnny Tobin and Joe Bush are three of those slated to go between now and next April.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN B BROWN

Joe McCarthy, new leader of the Chicago Cubs, has crossed up the corner managers of that team by not only announcing his intention of retaining most of the lefthanded batters now on the club but in expressing a desire to acquire more first base side hitters.

The complaint made against the offensive strength of the Cublets last season was that the lefties failed to hit righthanded pitching as obedient children should.

McCarthy says maybe so, but he wants lefthanders who can sock any old kind of pitching, because when a southpaw batter does connect he stands a better chance of getting to first. He's several feet nearer the bag, to start with, and the balls he hits to or through the infield are harder to handle because more of them go to the left of the fielder.

McCarthy figures that the matter of timely and efficient hitting and that of finding a shortstop who can fill Rabbit Maranville's shoes are the major problems facing the Cubs —and Joe McCarty.

Owner Wrigley has announced he stands ready to spend a million dollars to make the Cubs a pennant winning outfit. But the tough job is left to McCarthy and the team scouts—that of finding material worth buying and which can be purchased.

Club owners have found that one buys a lot of raspberries by selling a star for out and out cash. The financial problems of a given team do not mean much to the fan. He pays to see baseball.

"Whitey" Witt, who sold himself to the Brooklyn Dodgers the other day, says: "The Brooklyn club treated me handsomely. I received a certain amount for my release and Uncle Robbie offered me a liberal salary, which I accepted."

Stove League Kindling.

Al Mamaux, once a National league hurler of some note and always a whale of an eater, will pitch for Newark in the International league. Al's last effort in the big show was with the Yankees in the American league.

George Burns, long a reliable, popular outfielder for the New York Giants, and later with the Reds and Phillies, will also play with Newark.

"Zip" Hauser, first baseman, will return to the Athletics next spring with a mended knee—and the record of Jimmy Poole in mind.

Huffman-Stone Fight For Shot at Berlenbach

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Eddie Huffman, the California sailor, and Ad Stone, the Philadelphia marine, will meet tonight in a twelve round, no-decision bout at Newark, N. J., with the prospect of the winner getting a shot at Paul Berlenbach's light heavyweight title at Newark on January 11.

CITY THROVE ON SEAL POACHING

Once Bustling Aleutian Metropolis, Now Slumbers.

Seattle.—Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutian islands of Alaska, once a military rendezvous of four nations, is like a dead city.

Before the fur treaty was signed by the United States, England, Russia and Japan in 1911, Dutch Harbor was an outpost of intrigue. In 1893, when seal poaching was at its peak, America maintained five cutters and four gunboats there, while the British had three gunboats, the Japanese and Russians several war vessels.

Daring poachers roamed the seas. Probably the best known was Alec MacLean, the Wolf Larson of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." His last trip to the Arctic was made on the Schooner Comaneita, a vessel masquerading under forged Mexican papers.

One of his best known exploits was when he eluded a pursuing cutter and anchored two barrels of sealskins to a buoy. Later he returned and picked them up.

In 1911 all governments involved in the seal industries agreed to handle the killings themselves. Guards were stationed at the rookeries and sealing-at-sea was made unlawful. This treaty was drawn to run 15 years. The pact is expected to be renewed next year.

At present the entire patrol is carried on by four American coast-guard cutters.

Women Play Ball.

The English may not take to baseball, but how about the Welsh? The city of Cardiff, according to report, has a highly flourishing women's baseball league.

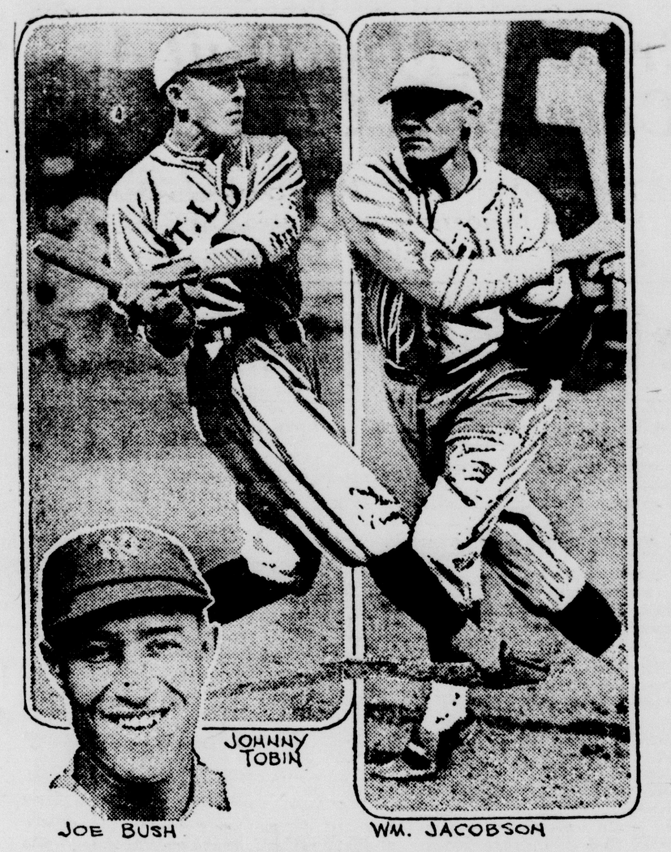
Sisler May Unload Three Veterans to Further Strengthen Brownies



Realizing that such youngsters as Rice, Bennett, Dixon, Gaston and Giard helped make his team a much improved one last season, Manager Sisler of the Browns, it is said, will unload more veterans before another season, and replace them with youngsters. Bill Jacobson, Johnny Tobin and Joe Bush are three of those slated to go between now and next April.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E BROWN

Joe McCarthy, new leader of the Chicago Cubs, has crossed up the corner managers of that team by not only announcing his intention of retaining most of the lefthanded batters now on the club but in expressing a desire to acquire more first base side hitters.

The complaint made against the offensive strength of the Cublets last season was that the lefties failed to hit righthanded pitching as obedient children should.

McCarthy says maybe so, but he wants lefthanders who can sock any old kind of pitching, because when a southpaw batter does connect he stands a better chance of getting to first. He's several feet nearer the bag, to start with, and the balls he hits to or through the infield are harder to handle because more of them go to the left of the fielder.

McCarthy figures that the matter of timely and efficient hitting and that of finding a shortstop who can fill Rabbit Maranville's shoes are the major problems facing the Cubs —and Joe McCarty.

Owner Wrigley has announced he stands ready to spend a million dollars to make the Cubs a pennant winning outfit. But the tough job is left to McCarthy and the team scouts—that of finding material worth buying and which can be purchased.

Club owners have found that one buys a lot of raspberries by selling a star for out and out cash. The financial problems of a given team do not mean much to the fan. He pays to see baseball.

"Whitey" Witt, who sold himself to the Brooklyn Dodgers the other day, says: "The Brooklyn club treated me handsomely. I received a certain amount for my release and Uncle Robbie offered me a liberal salary, which I accepted."

Stove League Kindling.

Al Mamaux, once a National league hurler of some note and always a whale of an eater, will pitch for Newark in the International league. Al's last effort in the big show was with the Yankees in the American league.

George Burns, long a reliable, popular outfielder for the New York Giants, and later with the Reds and Phillies, will also play with Newark.

"Zip" Hauser, first baseman, will return to the Athletics next spring with a mended knee—and the record of Jimmy Poole in mind.

Huffman-Stone Fight For Shot at Berlenbach

Wish Hank Luck.

The good wishes of baseball fans everywhere will go with the veteran Hank Gowdy in his new position as manager of the Columbus American Association club.

Stadium for Tulane.

New Orleans business men have set about in earnest to raise funds for a stadium for Tulane university, whose football team made such a great showing the past season.

CITY THROVE ON SEAL POACHING

Once Bustling Aleutian Metropolis, Now Slumbers.

Seattle.—Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutian islands of Alaska, once a military rendezvous of four nations, is like a dead city.

Before the fur treaty was signed by the United States, England, Russia and Japan in 1911, Dutch Harbor was an outpost of intrigue. In 1893, when seal poaching was at its peak, America maintained five cutters and four gunboats there, while the British had three gunboats, the Japanese and Russians several war vessels.

Daring poachers roamed the seas. Probably the best known was Alec MacLean, the Wolf Larson of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." His last trip to the Arctic was made on the Schooner Comanelta, a vessel masquerading under forged Mexican papers.

One of his best known exploits was when he eluded a pursuing cutter and anchored two barrels of sealskins to a buoy. Later he returned and picked them up.

In 1911 all governments involved in the seal industries agreed to handle the killings themselves. Guards were stationed at the rookeries and sealing-at-sea was made unlawful. This treaty was drawn to run 15 years. The pact is expected to be renewed next year.

At present the entire patrol is carried on by four American coast-guard cutters.

Women Play Ball.

The English may not take to baseball, but how about the Welsh? The city of Cardiff, according to report, has a highly flourishing women's baseball league.

Gets Tod Morgan.

According to boxing gossip in Los Angeles Manager Billy Gibson, the famous handler of Benny Leonard and Gene Tunney, is to add Tod Morgan, new world's junior lightweight champion, to his stable.

HUDSON-ESSEX CARS A-1 BUY

Price Reduction But One Factor in Sales Record.

"Price reductions in Hudson and Essex cars, while undoubtedly of great importance, have been but one factor in the tremendous growth of 1925 business for these cars," says Ray Birch, distributor in the East Liverpool area.

"The great question," he continued, "is not how much you shall pay, but rather the more important fact of how much you get for your money. The modern automobile is fundamentally individual transportation, and regardless of price, the real worth of present Hudson-Essex cars lies in the fact that they offer more transportation value at less operating cost and greater comfort than any cars this concern has ever previously made.

"Entirely disregard the matter of price for a minute and view the matter in this light of value alone. Hudson-Essex cars today are used by a vast majority of people to whom transportation is a necessary and vital factor in their every-day occupation.

"The transportation involves three primary factors: First, the ability to go from place to place without interruption or breakdown; second, to cover these distances at a reasonable cost; third, to cover these distances with physical comfort. It is in meeting these three primary requisites that Hudson-Essex offer their outstanding values.

"As the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world, their success has been largely due to the fact that they early realized that these things were the fundamentals in automobile values.

"This success has brought tremendous increase of business, and this increase has made possible a lowering of price, until today these cars are selling for less than half of prices when the Hudson-Essex started as the great closed-car specialist of the industry.

Bogus U. S. Dollars Turned Out in Sofia By Skillful German

SOFIA.—A huge counterfeiting organization has been discovered by the police, who have arrested thirty men, including a young German, who was brought to Sofia because of his skill in manufacturing bank-notes.

A large number of counterfeit American silver dollars were seized, but they had been poorly executed and no effort had been made to put them in circulation. The counterfeiters were successful, however, in manufacturing and circulating thousands of dollars of Bulgarian banknotes. Some of those arrested are employees of the government printing office.
